ALLIES ADVANCE TO NEAR MATRUH; HITLER SENDS TROOPS IN 500 PLANES TO AID ROMMEL FORCES

Governor Orders Full Vote Report

Lieutenant Governor Congressman-at-Large and Comptroller Are to be Checked

Poletti Holds Out

Incumbent Will Not Concede Victory to Wallace

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP)—The closest contests in years for three of the highest state offices brought from Governor Lehman today orders to county election board chairmen to submit detailed statements of the vote for lieutenant governor, comptroller and congressmen-at-large.

The governor said the instructions were issued because "the reports about the votes" for these offices "are very conflicting" and the races "very close."

On the same grounds, incumbent Charles Poletti, Democrat, has refused to concede the lieutenant governorship to Thomas W. Wallace, Republican. In addition, Poletti has pointed out that the soldier vote will not be counted until December 10.

Forty thousand ballots were mailed for soldiers in foreign service, but there is no estimate of how many will be returned. Absentee ballots of soldiers in domestic service were returnable by last Friday to county boards for counting in Tuesday's returns.

With only four normally Republican upstate districts missing, Wallace has 1,983,057 votes for a plurality of 24,999 over Poletti's 1,958,058.

This was a contrast to the gubernatorial contest, in which Republican Thomas E. Dewey, who takes office January 1, ran up a plurality of more than 600,000 over his Democratic rival, John J. Bennett, Jr.

In the second of the close state contests, Republican Frank C. Moore, on the basis of unofficial returns from 9,070 of 9,327 districts, was 54,467 ballots ahead of incumbent Joseph V. O'Leary for comptroller. Moore's votes totaled 1,936,238, and O'Leary's combined Democratic and American Labor party tally, 1,881,771.

In the third race, for congressmen-at-large, there were only 122,398 votes difference between first place and fourth. Two are to be elected.

The top four and their votes are: Winifred C. Stanley (R), 1,946,654; Matthew J. Merritt (D-ALP), 1,895,814; Mrs. Flora Johnson (D-ALP), 1,870,524, and Dr. Charles A. Muzzicato (R), 1,824,256. The figures are on a basis of returns from all but 14 upstate districts.

The governor's telegram to election board chairmen read:

"Immediately upon completion of the recanvass of your voting machines, pursuant to Section 273A of the election law, will you please submit to me for each election district in your county a detailed statement of the vote by each political party for the office of lieutenant governor, comptroller and Congressmen-at-large as such vote is represented on the back of each machine?

"Where the machines have already been recanvassed and no report taken down, I would suggest that they be recanvassed again."

Meanwhile Dewey, answering the governor's pledge of cooperation and invitation to sit in on hearings for the 1942-43 state budget, telegraphed that "after the hearing and preliminary draft have made further progress I shall hope to take advantage of your courteous offer and discuss it with you personally x x x."

The little town of Pawling was preparing to welcome Dewey home this evening.

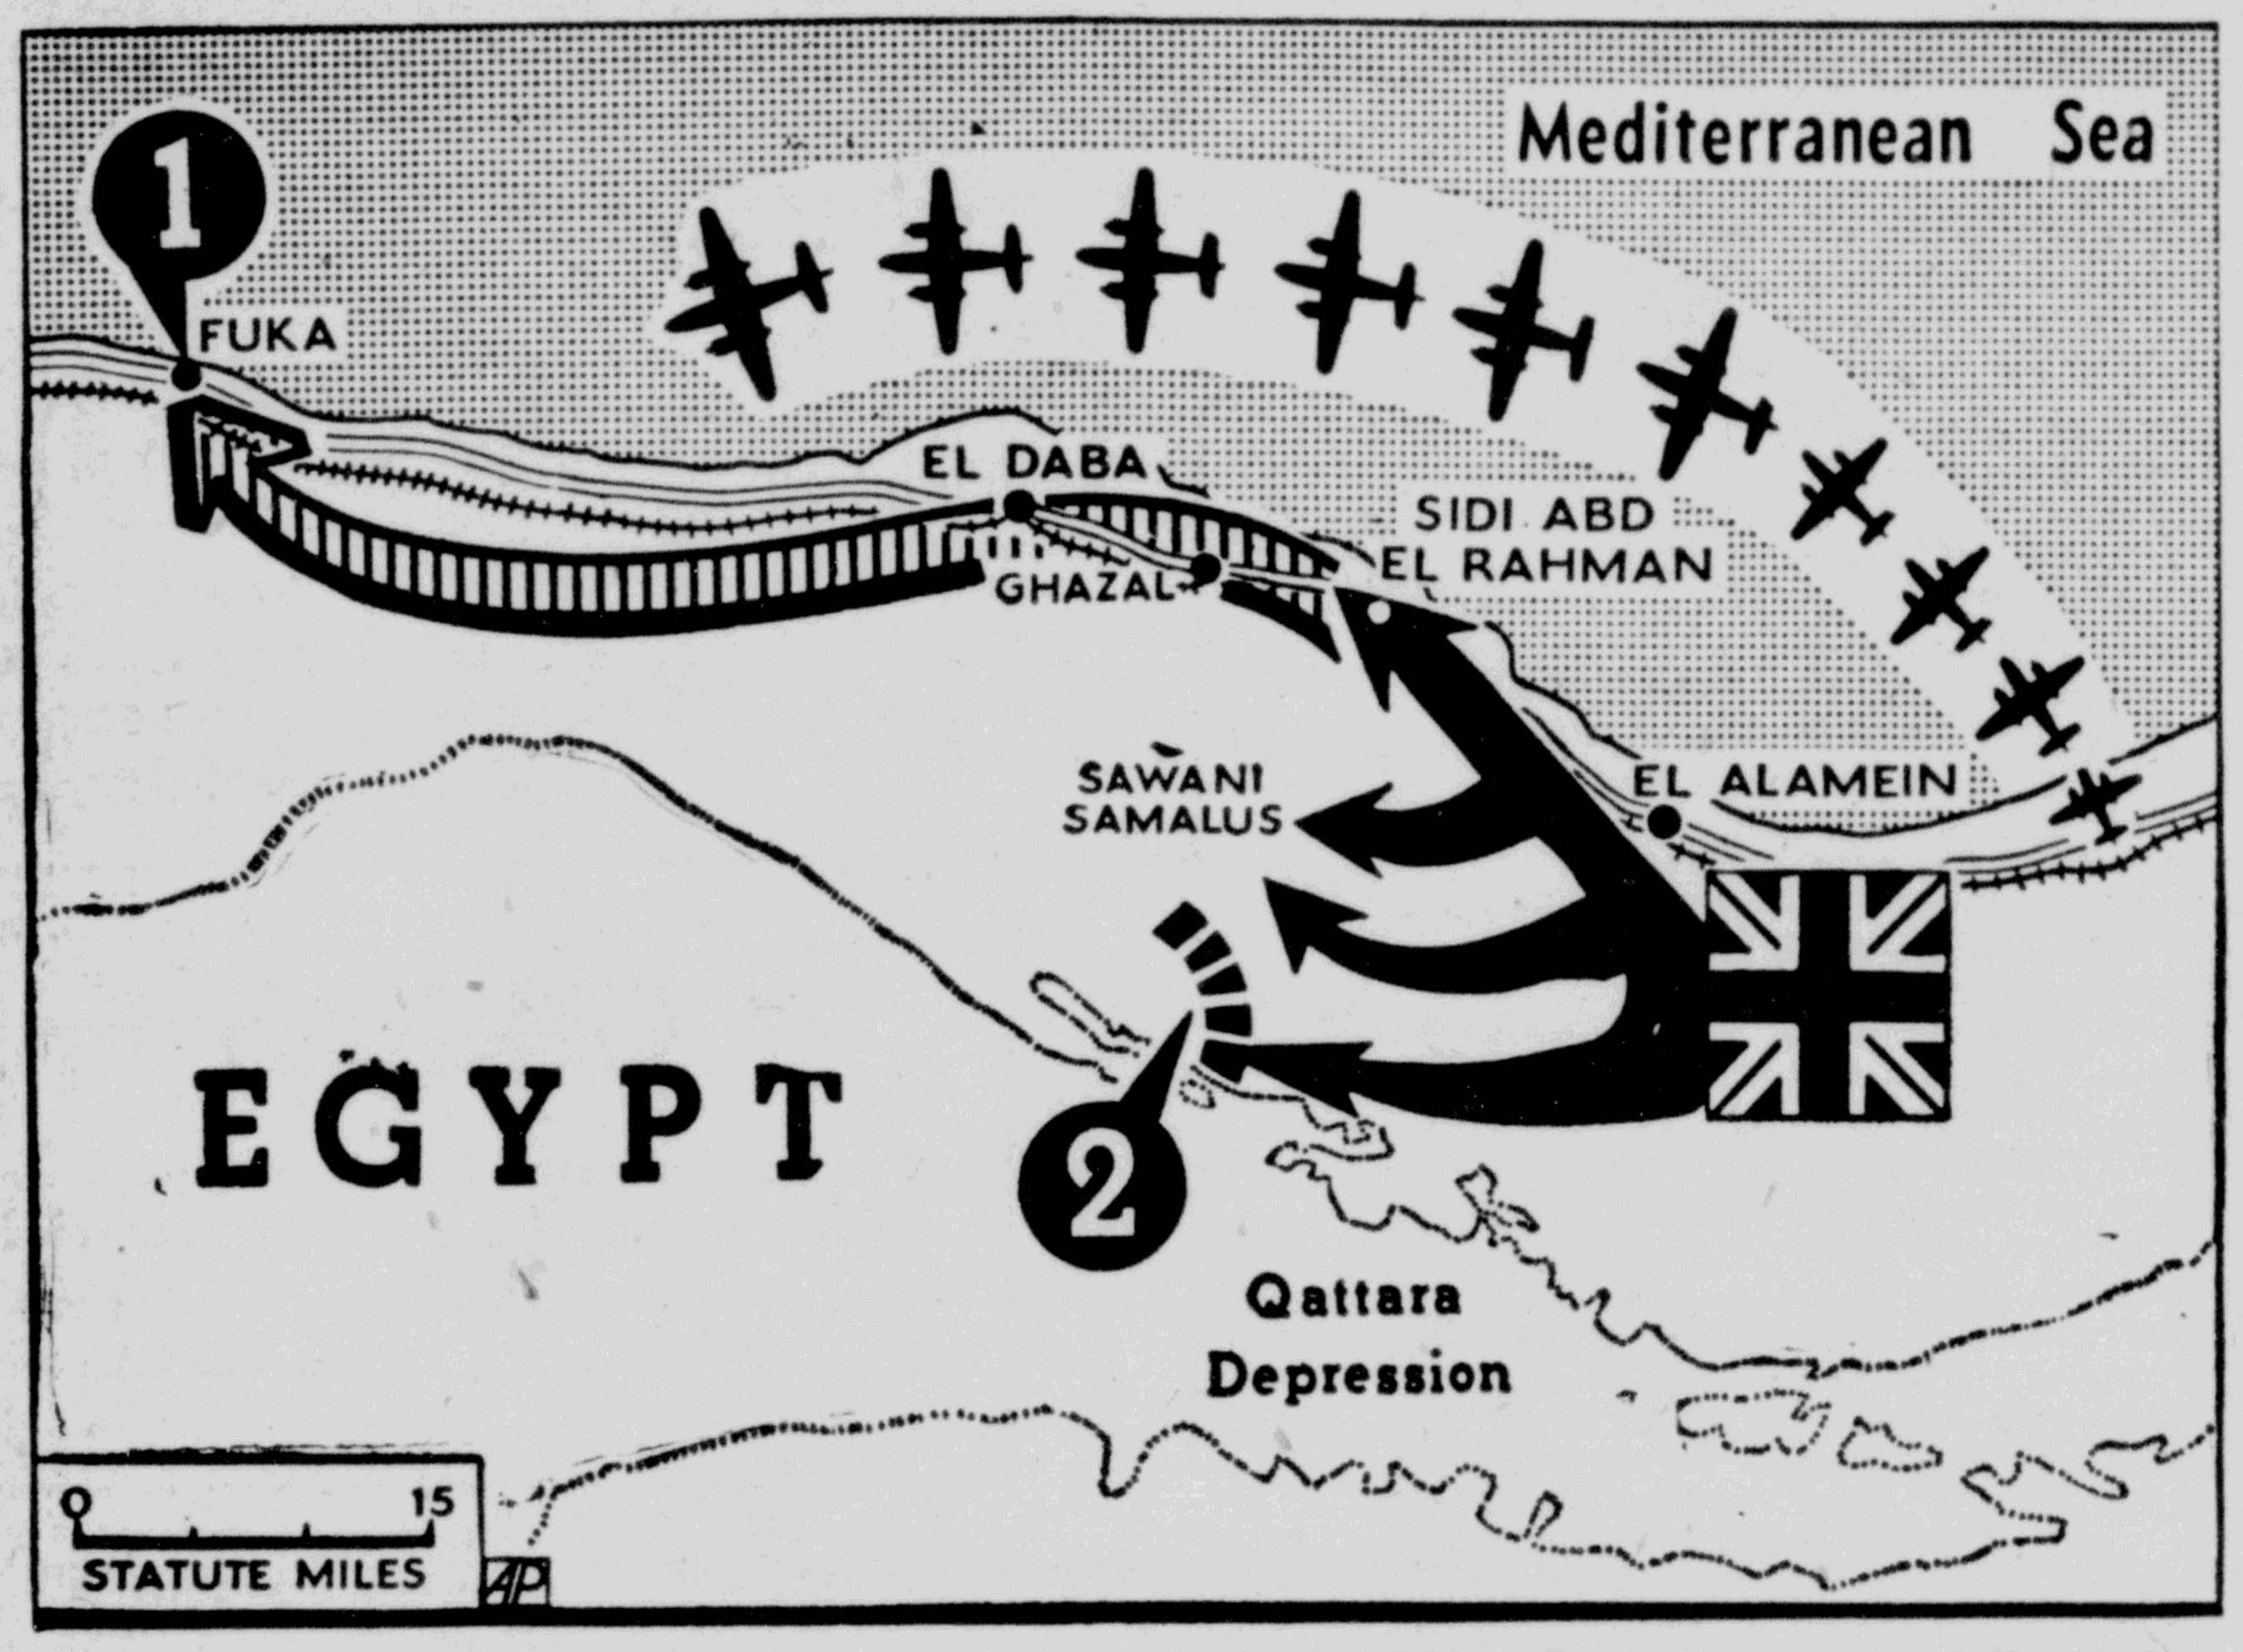
Where Allies Drive Axis Forces Westward



Axis sources admitted their north African forces had "withdrawn" to new prepared lines after a battle with the British Eight army, reinforced by United States and other units, in the region between El Alamein and Fuka (1). British communiques told of their forces pursuing the retreating enemy along the line indicated by the shaded arrow in map. In the south (2) a few isolated enemy units hold out.

Supervisors Plan To Canvass Vote

Official Tabulation Will Take Less Time Because of Short Ticket

The Board of Supervisors will meet Tuesday noon at the court house as a county board of canvassers to begin the official tabulation of the vote November 3. The vote this year will be tabulated promptly since there was a short ticket.

The opening session of the Board of Supervisors in annual session will be held on the same evening at 7:30 o'clock when the usual fall business of the county legislators will be taken up. The annual session will be continued during the remainder of the month and into December, terminating with the adoption of the annual budget and the laying of taxes for the coming year.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Nov. 6(AP)—The position of the treasury Nov. 4: receipts $41,621,553.84, expenditures $169,601,606.93, net balance $5,101,271,875.58, working balance included $4,338,763,354.54, customs receipts for month $3,669,280.40, receipts fiscal year (July) $4,541,499,276.24, expenditure fiscal year $23,198,143,006.96, excess of expenditures $18,656,643,730.72, total debt $97,950,031,073.57, increase over previous day $176,876,593.41, gold assets $22,739,183,877.93.

"Avengers" and "Wildcats" to Put on Realistic Exhibition for War Workers

The United States Navy's salute to the men and women of Electrol Incorporated, local war plant, will be given Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. over Kingston Airport.

At that hour a squadron of Grumman "Avenger" torpedo planes, called TBF's in Navy parlance, and possibly some Grumman "Wildcats" will roar out of the south to put on a realistic combat exhibition.

The hour for the air show, arranged by Lieut. Commander L. Haase, Naval inspector at the Grumman plant, Bethpage, L. I., was announced today in The Electrol Eagle, newspaper for employes at the local plant.

Undersheriff Stanley Winne said today deputies from Sheriff Howard Anderson's office would be on duty at the airport to take care of traffic.

Residents of Kingston and Ulster county are asked to take the show calmly, since the exhibition will be purely an air show staged to emphasize for Electrol employes their vital role in sending these "twins of hot death" to all major fronts to explode between Axis eyes. The arrival of the planes will not mean an air raid is taking place.

Those who witness the flight of the "Avengers" and "Wildcats" will have a first hand view of the planes which were the spearhead in the rout of the Japs in the Coral Sea and at Midway, and which dispersed the Tokyo fleet last week at Guadalcanal in the Solomon Islands. According to Elmer Davis, head of the Office of War Information, they "are the best in the world."

President Dodges Queries on Voting Outcome in U. S.

Move Develops to Have Coalition Devoted Exclusively to War Prosecution

Washington, Nov, 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt told a press conference today, in a brief discussion of Tuesday's election, that he assumed congress was interested in winning the war just as the president was.

The chief executive was asked whether the outcome of the balloting would make any difference in his attitude toward congress.

Why should it? he asked, adding that he assumed congress also wanted to win the war.

His questioner went on to remark, however, that what he wanted to know was whether Mr. Roosevelt would confer now with both Republicans and Democratic leaders about legislative procedure. He replied that he had been doing that.

To a question as to how he would account for the election results, which all but took away the democratic majority in the House and out into the party's Senate Majority, Mr. Roosevelt gave a cryptic answer.

He said he had had a very pleasant surprise. On Tuesday morning, he said he went to vote at Hyde Park, N. Y., and he was perfectly delighted to find the polling place was open.

Some of those present thought he issued that remark as a commentary on the fact democratic elective processes still operated in America.

But Mr. Roosevelt said he would leave it to the press to make any interpretations.

"Do you think people expected it (the polling place) to be closed?" he was asked.

Smiling, the chief executive replied that evidently his interrogater had not been reading some of the papers.

He said he did not know, replying to another inquiry as to whether the results of the election would have been different if he had participated more actively in the campaigning.

Coalition May Come

A movement developed on Capitol Hill today for a Republican-Democratic "Victory Coalition" to proclaim a holiday on politics and drive toward the one common aim of winning the war.

The alliance would throw the power of both parties behind President Roosevelt for the most effective prosecution of war, but the Republicans coupled their pledge of support with demands for an end to "New Deal politics and experiments."

"We are willing to forget the election if the administration will remember the implications it contained," said Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader.

Another leading Republican, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, proposed the coalition, saying Congress should create a "unified committee on war cooperation."

But while unity in the war effort appeared to be generally applauded, political observers watched for

Democrats Count 220 Representatives, 15 Senators Elected by U. S. Voters

(By The Associated Press)

The Democrats today counted 220 representatives and 15 Senators as elected by Tuesday's elections for the 78th Congress, to convene in January, while the Republicans had 208 House members and 18 Senators. Contests for three House seats and one Senate place still were undecided.

Minor parties winning house seats were the Progressives, taking two places, a loss of one, and American-Labor and Farm-Labor taking one each.

The Democrats had 41 hold-over Senators, to give them a majority in that chamber with 56 votes, to a total of 38 for the Republicans, who had 20 holdovers. There is one progressive in the Senate holdovers. He will be the only minor party Senator after January 1.

The undecided Montana Senate race was between Democrat James E. Murray, the incumbent, and Wellington D. Rankin, Republican. Murray claimed victory, with 83,792 votes in 1,154 of the 1,185 precincts, while Rankin had 82,151.

The three House races still too close to decide a winner involved: California, 23rd district, Ed. V. Izac, Democratic incumbent and James M. Abbey, Republican; Utah, 1st district, Walter G. Granger, Democratic incumbent, and J. Bracken Lee, Republican; Pennsylvania, 22nd District, Harry L. Haines, Democratic incumbent, and Chester H. Gross, Republican.

In addition, one gubernatorial race was in doubt, the ballots in Idaho having been sealed for an official canvass, to be made November 23, when the tally showed Chase A. Clarke, the Democratic incumbent, had 71,941 and Republican C. A. Bottolfsen, 71,646.

Florida Might Escape Storm; Course Changes

(Approved by censor for publication and radio broadcast)

Miami, Fla., Nov. 6 (AP) — A storm brewed in the tempestuous Caribbean skirted along the north coast of Cuba today, but its main force apparently was headed through the straits and into the Gulf of Mexico, aimed away from peninsular Florida and its resort area.

A wide area of storm winds—reaching hurricane force of 75 miles or more near the center—threatened the central and southern Bahama Islands off the Florida coast and the island of Cuba.

The weather bureau at Miami said the main force of the tropical disturbance might pass inland over Cuba before proceeding westward toward the Gulf of Mexico.

However, the heavily-populated areas of Florida southward from Melbourne and including Palm Beach and Miami were threatened with heavy gale winds, although forecaster Ernest F. Carson expected these sections to miss the worst of it.

South of Miami and in the Key West area at the tip of the state, the threat was great and civilian and naval forces took all precautions to protect themselves against property or personal loss.

The worst of the storm apparently missed the Bahama Islands where the Duke and Duchess of Windsor maintain their official residence.

The weather bureau's official 10:45 a. m. (E.W.T.) bulletin follows:

"Tropical storm central at 8:30 a. m. Eastern War Time about 85 miles north-northeast of Nuevitas. Cuba, or latitude 22 degrees, 40 minutes north and longitude 76 degrees, 40 minutes west, moving west or west southwestward 14 to 18 miles per hour.

"This storm is attended by a wide area of gale winds to the northwest of center and hurricane or near hurricane winds near center.

"Center of storm will move westward along north Cuba coast and will move inland over Cuba this afternoon or through Florida straits just north of Cuba. Strong north to northeast winds will continue along southeast Florida coast.

"Strong north winds reaching gale force along Florida Keys.

"Caution: Advise all interests north Cuba to Florida straits and southeast coast. Storm warnings remain displayed from Melbourne to Key West."

The storm, centered in early morning at Long Island in the Bahamas, was moving west or northwest. If it maintained this course, it would pass in the vicinity of New Providence Island, where the Duke and Duchess of Windsor reside in Nassau's government house.

Along lower Florida's Atlantic coast line and down the Archipelago to Key West, vessels hurried into port. Storm shutters were fastened to windows facing seaward.

Miami's public schools were ordered closed for the day and a high school football game was cancelled. The weather bureau went on an emergency basis to keep the area informed, and wartime censorship of storm news was lifted to permit notification of all who might be threatened.

Navy officials in the area announced that hotels housing navy and coast guard personnel along the waterfront in Miami were being shuttered and that the service was taking the same precautions that civilians in the area are schooled to observe.

The storm apparently made up more rapidly than usual and the customary two or three days' advance notice was missing. Before daylight, however, the weather bureau began broadcasting its warnings and stormwise Miamians began protecting their property before 6 a. m.

O. A. Geier Dies

Mountain Lake, N. J. Nov. 6(AP)—Oscar G. Geier, 60 who piloted Switzerland's two-man bob sledding team to victory in the 1932 winter Olympic games, died last night at his home. Geier's teammate in the Olympic games was Reto Capadruit of Zurich, who came to this country at his own expense when the Swiss government decided not to send a team.

Robinson Is Outweighed

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Unbeaten Ray Robinson will give away nearly 10 pounds when he meets Vic Dellicurti in a 10-round fight at Madison Square Garden tonight. Robinson weighed in today at 144½ pounds and Dellicurti at 153¾.

Scrap Drive in Wards 8 and 9

Saturday morning in Wards 8 and 9 the metal scrap collection campaign will be continued. Trucks of the city department of public works will start out at 8 o'clock in the morning and continue throughout the day until all the scrap metal placed at the curbs is gathered. Kingston's drive is on its way toward success and the goal will be reached when the maximum cooperation on the part of the public is given. Throughout the various wards of the city, householders have responded enthusiastically and the results have been excellent. Substantial progress is expected this week.

Throughout the entire country the call for scrap is heard and as the local scrap drives gather momentum, towering stacks of scrap appear in various communities. Don't be fooled by these Victory stockpiles, and don't say "if we are really so hard up for scrap—why do they let stuff pile up for days before hauling it away."

These huge piles of scrap are America's scrap inventory. They are our reserves stored while awaiting their call to the mills. As long as the government and industry know the extent of these reserves, and know where they are, there is no danger of a decline in production brought about by a shortage of scrap.

Large stockpiles do not constitute cause for alarm. It is only when these towering peaks of metal begin to dwindle that America must begin to worry about declining production.

The local scrap metal drive affords all an opportunity to join in fighting the Axis. This is your scrap and your metal scrap is needed to win it.

Scrap Harvest Nets 593 Tons Thus Far In Ulster County

Simpson Says Campaign Will Continue; Much More Is Available for War Usage

The Ulster county scrap harvest is nearing the million and a quarter pound mark and there is more to come. Up until Monday, November 2, there had been collected in the towns of the county a total of 1,186,000 pounds of scrap metal or 593 tons, and the depositories throughout the county were still receiving the vital war metals.

With the 593 tons of metal scrap already turned in and started on its way to the vital war factories in the way of scrap to feed the steel mills during the coming winter, the people of Ulster county have contributed a very important part toward the war industry.

James A. Simpson, director of Civilian Protection, said today that the scrap metal in the county was by no means cleaned up yet and there was considerable more now on town scrap piles which will soon be started on its way to defeat the Axis.

Worker Sets Record

New York, Nov. 6 (AP) — Ray Wood, machinist in the Package Machinery Company plant, Springfield, Mass., has established a national production record by putting in 120 hours of work in one week, according to a company announcement. Wood, who volunteered to finish a precious grinding job needed immediately by the army, worked 17 hours each for five days, and 17½ hours for two more, the announcement said. The army got the parts on time, the company said here yesterday.

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today he hoped to make an Armistice Day address if he could find time to write one. Probably it will be about five minutes long, he said.

Axis Is Getting Taste of Disaster; More Is Promised

British Accounts, Sobered by Previous Conflicts, Still Leave No Doubt on Scope of Rout

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt Mackenzie, war analyst, is written today by Glenn Babb. Mackenzie, now traveling abroad, is expected to resume shortly.)

The three-power Axis alliance, dedicated at Berlin two years ago to the remaking of a new world ruled by force and terror, is being subjected now for the first time to the strains which great disaster exerts on such a combination.

While Rommel's armies struggle westward across the inhospitable Egyptian desert under skies made still more inhospitable by the R. A. F. and American Air Forces, Tokyo and Rome are reviewing the worth and costs of their ties to Berlin.

Little doubt remains that the victory of the Eighth Army has brought us to one of the war's great crises. History may nominate these days the turning point of the whole global struggle, comparable to those July days of 1918 when Foch turned back the last great German drive and seized the offensive.

Britain's leaders, twice burned in previous moments of apparent triumph in Africa can be counted on to be twice shy about overstating the completeness and magnitude of the victory in Egypt. And they leave no doubt of their conviction that Rommel has been smashed, that the elimination of the Axis from Africa is in progress.

Today's sober British headquarters communique fully bears out the exultant announcements of victory which came yesterday from General Montgomery himself and from that "high British

Hollywood Finally Has Something Colossal; It's U. S. Ban on Wages

Hollywood, Nov. 6 (AP)—The film industry, which didn't coin the word colossal but made it famous, could use the term today to describe its state of befuddlement as it awaited clarification of the new wage-ceiling order, which kept scores of highly-paid movie employes from receiving their weekly paychecks.

The seven major studios tied up the salaries of their top-bracketed actors, producers, writers and directors as batteries of lawyers studied the government's decree, which, as it is interpreted here, bars anyone from receiving more wages than he did in 1941, or more than $25,000 net, whichever is the larger sum.

There are scores—perhaps hundreds—in the studios who already have netted at least $25,000 so far this year, and one point adding to the puzzlement of the industry, it was learned, is whether they can be forced to fulfill their contracts at no added compensation.

There was a suggestion that some studios were considering halting work on productions featuring players who already had equalled their 1941 earnings. The studios remained silent on this point, as on all others in the riddle, but sources close to the industry doubted that this drastic step, involving the shelving of millions of dollars of unfinished films, would be taken.

Directors of the Screen Actors' Guild went into a huddle on the problem, but made no statement. It was generally believed that they, too, are awaiting clarification of the order and that their members will have to decide for

Battle Is Race Across Desert Area

Hitler's Command Says Allied Tanks Push With Great Pressure Against Axis

13,000 Are Taken

Allies Capture 13,000 Men; Nazis Desert Italians

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

British tanks pursuing the broken Axis armies in Egypt were reported rolling along the Mediterranean coast today within striking distance of Matruh, 104 miles west of El Alamein, while dispatches from Greece said Adolf Hitler had sent a fleet of 500 planes to rush fresh troops across the sea in an attempt to avert utter disaster.

A British communique said the triumphant Eighth Army was attacking Axis rearguards well beyond El Daba, 33 miles west of El Alamein.

German field headquarters acknowledged that the battle was raging "in the area of Fuka and Matruh."

Fast-moving British armored forces were said to have advanced 60 miles since breaking through the enemy's defenses on the El Alamein front, 80 miles west of Alexandria.

Frontline dispatches indicated that the struggle was now rapidly degenerating into a race across the desert, with the British in hot pursuit of the beaten Axis columns.

Italian headquarters said German and Italian forces engaged in "violent combat" yesterday with British tank formations between Fuka and Matruh, respectively 62 and 104 miles west of the original El Alamein line. This represented about a 40-mile British advance since yesterday.

"At dusk, the battle was still going on with unchanged bitterness," the Fascist communique said tersely.

Hitler's high command said allied tanks were striking with continuous pressure, while the Berlin radio reported that heavy fighting raged last night at Fuka.

The Nazi broadcast took the optimistic view that Marshal Rommel still retained "full freedom of action," and added:

"If he now again has adopted the tactics of a war of movement, in which he is a specialist, he will certainly have gained very considerable advantages."

Informed London quarters said there was reason to believe British tanks had succeeded in cutting in behind some of the retreating Axis forces and that "their retreat is virtually cut off."

These quarters said there were high hopes that "we may be able to annihilate them completely without having to chase them across the Libyan desert as in other advances."

The British field command told newsmen that three British armored divisions had driven two wedges through the ragged Axis lines, and were fighting inside enemy positions.

On the battlefield, Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery declared the British Eighth Army already had won "complete and absolute victory" over Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's battered legions.

A bulletin from British headquarters this morning announced:

"The Eighth Army continued its pursuit of the enemy throughout yesterday.

"Our armored forces are in contact with the enemy rearguards well west of El Daba. A minimum of 4,000 more prisoners were taken during the day."

This made a total of at least 13,000 German and Italian prisoners rounded up so far in the 14-day-old British offensive as the Eighth Army swept through Axis minefields and rolled back the German-Italian invaders along a 40-mile front.

"A further large number of Italians is being rounded up in a southern sector of the battlefield, where they appear to have been abandoned in the desert by the German mechanized formations," the British communique said.

Left to their fate by the fleeing Nazis, the Italians apparently were surrendering in large numbers.

The communique said the commander of the Italian Trento division and his chief of staff were among the prisoners and reported at least 59 more Italian and 20

Democrats Count 220 Representatives, 15 Senators Elected by U. S. Voters

(By The Associated Press)

The Democrats today counted 220 representatives and 15 Senators as elected by Tuesday's elections for the 78th Congress, to convene in January, while the Republicans had 208 House members and 18 Senators. Contests for three House seats and one Senate place still were undecided.

Minor parties winning house seats were the Progressives, taking two places, a loss of one, and American-Labor and Farm-Labor taking one each.

The Democrats had 41 hold-over Senators, to give them a majority in that chamber with 56 votes, to a total of 38 for the Republicans, who had 20 holdovers. There is one progressive in the Senate holdovers. He will be the only minor party Senator after January 1.

The undecided Montana Senate race was between Democrat James E. Murray, the incumbent, and Wellington D. Rankin, Republican. Murray claimed victory with 83,792 votes in 1,154 of the 1,185 precincts, while Rankin had 82,151.

The three House races still too close to decide a winner involved: California, 23rd district, Ed. V. Izac, Democratic incumbent and James M. Abbey, Republican; Utah, 1st district, Walter G. Granger, Democratic incumbent, and J. Bracken Lee, Republican; Pennsylvania, 22nd District, Harry L. Haines, Democratic incumbent, and Chester H. Gross, Republican.

In addition, one gubernatorial race was in doubt, the ballots in Idaho having been sealed for an official canvass, to be made November 23, when the tally showed Chase A. Clarke, the Democratic incumbent, had 71,261 and Republican C. A. Bottolfsen, 71,645.

President Dodges Queries on Voting Outcome in U. S.

Move Develops to Have Coalition Devoted Exclusively to War Prosecution

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt told a press conference today, in a brief discussion of Tuesday's election, that he assumed congress was interested in winning the war just as the president was.

The chief executive was asked whether the outcome of the balloting would make any difference in his attitude toward congress.

Why should it? he asked, adding that he assumed congress also wanted to win the war.

His questioner went on to remark, however, that what he wanted to know was whether Mr. Roosevelt would confer now with both Republicans and Democratic leaders about legislative procedure. He replied that he had been doing that.

To a question as to how he would account for the election results, which all but took away the democratic majority in the House and cut into the party's Senate Majority, Mr. Roosevelt gave a cryptic answer.

He said he had had a very pleasant surprise. On Tuesday morning, he said he went to vote at Hyde Park, N. Y., and he was perfectly delighted to find the polling place was open.

Some of those present thought he issued that remark as a commentary on the fact democratic elective processes still operated in America.

But Mr. Roosevelt said he would leave it to the press to make any interpretations.

"Do you think people expected it (the polling place) to be closed?" he was asked.

Smiling, the chief executive replied that evidently his interrogater had not been reading some of the papers.

He said he did not know, replying to another inquiry as to whether the results of the election would have been different if he had participated more actively in the campaigning.

Coalition May Come

A movement developed on Capitol Hill today for a Republican-Democratic "Victory Coalition" to proclaim a holiday on politics and drive toward the one common aim of winning the war.

The alliance would throw the power of both parties behind President Roosevelt for the most effective prosecution of war, but the Republicans coupled their pledge of support with demands for an end to "New Deal politics and experiments."

"We are willing to forget the election if the administration will remember the implications it contained," said Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader.

Another leading Republican, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, proposed the coalition, saying Congress should create a "unified committee on war cooperation."

But while unity in the war effort appeared to be generally applauded, political observers watched for

Florida Might Escape Storm; Course Changes

(Approved by censor for publication and radio broadcast)

Miami, Fla., Nov. 6 (AP) — A storm brewed in the tempestuous Caribbean skirted along the north coast of Cuba today, but its main force apparently was headed through the straits and into the Gulf of Mexico, aimed away from peninsular Florida and its resort area.

A wide area of storm winds—reaching hurricane force of 75 miles or more near the center—threatened the central and southern Bahama Islands off the Florida coast and the island of Cuba.

The weather bureau at Miami said the main force of the tropical disturbance might pass inland over Cuba before proceeding westward toward the Gulf of Mexico.

However, the heavily-populated areas of Florida southward from Melbourne and including Palm Beach and Miami were threatened with heavy gale winds, although forecaster Ernest F. Carson expected these sections to miss the worst of it.

South of Miami and in the Key West area at the tip of the state, the threat was great and civilian and naval forces took all precautions to protect themselves against property or personal loss.

The worst of the storm apparently missed the Bahama Islands where the Duke and Duchess of Windsor maintain their official residence.

The weather bureau's official 10:45 a. m. (E.W.T.) bulletin follows:

"Tropical storm central at 8:30 a. m. Eastern War Time about 85 miles north-northeast of Nuevitas, Cuba, or latitude 22 degrees, 40 minutes north and longitude 76 degrees, 40 minutes, west, moving west or west southwestward 14 to 18 miles per hour.

"This storm is attended by a wide area of gale winds to the northwest of center and hurricane or near hurricane winds near center.

"Center of storm will move westward along north Cuba coast and will move inland over Cuba this afternoon or through Florida straits just north of Cuba. Strong north to northeast winds will continue along southeast Florida coast.

"Strong north winds reaching gale force along Florida Keys.

"Caution: Advise all interests north Cuba to Florida straits and southeast coast. Storm warnings remain displayed from Melbourne to Key West."

The storm, centered in early morning at Long Island in the Bahamas, was moving west or northwest. If it maintained this course, it would pass in the vicinity of New Providence Island, where the Duke and Duchess of Windsor reside in Nassau's government house.

Along lower Florida's Atlantic coast line and down the Archipelago to Key West, vessels hurried into port. Storm shutters were fastened to windows facing seaward.

Miami's public schools were ordered closed for the day and a high school football game was cancelled. The weather bureau went on an emergency basis to keep the area informed, and wartime censorship of storm news was lifted to permit notification of all who might be threatened.

Navy officials in the area announced that hotels housing navy and coast guard personnel along the waterfront in Miami were being shuttered and that the service was taking the same precautions that civilians in the area are schooled to observe.

The storm apparently made up more rapidly than usual and the customary two or three days' advance notice was missing. Before daylight, however, the weather bureau began broadcasting its warnings and stormwise Miamians began protecting their property before 6 a. m.

O. A. Geier Dies

Geier's teammate in the Olympic games was Reto Capadrutt of Zurich, who came to this country at his own expense when the Swiss government decided not to send a team.

Scrap Drive in Wards 8 and 9

Saturday morning in Wards 8 and 9 the metal scrap collection campaign will be continued. Trucks of the city department of public works will start out at 8 o'clock in the morning and continue throughout the day until all the scrap metal placed at the curbs is gathered. Kingston's drive is on its way toward success and the goal will be reached when the maximum cooperation on the part of the public is given. Throughout the various wards of the city, householders have responded enthusiastically and the results have been excellent. Substantial progress is expected this week.

Throughout the entire country the call for scrap is heard and as the local scrap drives gather momentum, towering stacks of scrap appear in various communities. Don't be fooled by these Victory stockpiles, and don't say "if we are really so hard up for scrap—why do they let stuff pile up for days before hauling it away."

These huge piles of scrap are America's scrap inventory. They are our reserves stored while awaiting their call to the mills. As long as the government and industry know the extent of these reserves, and know where they are, there is no danger of a decline in production brought about by a shortage of scrap.

Large stockpiles do not constitute cause for alarm. It is only when these towering peaks of metal begin to dwindle that America must begin to worry about declining production.

The local scrap metal drive affords all an opportunity to join in fighting the Axis. This is your scrap and your metal scrap is needed to win it.

Simpson Says Campaign Will Continue; Much More Is Available for War Usage

The Ulster county scrap harvest is nearing the million and a quarter pound mark and there is more to come. Up until Monday, November 2, there had been collected in the towns of the county a total of 1,186,000 pounds of scrap metal or 593 tons, and the depositories throughout the county were still receiving the vital war metals.

With the 593 tons of metal scrap already turned in and started on its way to the vital war factories in the way of scrap to feed the steel mills during the coming winter, the people of Ulster county have contributed a very important part toward the war industry.

James A. Simpson, director of Civilian Protection, said today that the scrap metal in the county was by no means cleaned up yet and there was considerable more now on town scrap piles which will soon be started on its way to defeat the Axis.

Worker Sets Record

New York, Nov. 6 (AP) — Ray Wood, machinist in the Package Machinery Company plant, Springfield, Mass., has established a national production record by putting in 120 hours of work in one week, according to a company announcement. Wood, who volunteered to finish a precious grinding job needed immediately by the army, worked 17 hours each for five days, and 17½ hours for two more, the announcement said. The army got the parts on time, the company said here yesterday.

President May Speak

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today he hoped to make an Armistice Day address if he could find time to write one. Probably it will be about five minutes long, he said.

Axis Is Getting Taste of Disaster; More Is Promised

British Accounts, Sobered by Previous Conflicts, Still Leave No Doubt on Scope of Rout

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt Mackenzie, war analyst, is written today by Glenn Babb. Mackenzie, now traveling abroad, is expected to resume shortly.)

The three-power Axis alliance, dedicated at Berlin two years ago to the remaking of a new world ruled by force and terror, is being subjected now for the first time to the strains which great disaster exerts on such a combination.

While Rommel's armies struggle westward across the inhospitable Egyptian desert under skies made still more inhospitable by the R. A. F. and American Air Forces, Tokyo and Rome are reviewing the worth and costs of their ties to Berlin.

Little doubt remains that the victory of the Eighth Army has brought us to one of the war's great crises. History may nominate these days the turning point of the whole global struggle, comparable to those July days of 1918 when Foch turned back the last great German drive and seized the offensive.

Britain's leaders, twice burned in previous moments of apparent triumph in Africa can be counted on to be twice shy about overstating the completeness and magnitude of the victory in Egypt. And they leave no doubt of their conviction that Rommel has been smashed, that the elimination of the Axis from Africa is in progress.

Today's sober British headquarters communique fully bears out the exultant announcements of victory which came yesterday from General Montgomery himself and from that "high British

Hollywood Finally Has Something Colossal; It's U. S. Ban on Wages

Hollywood, Nov. 6 (AP)—The film industry, which didn't coin the word colossal but made it famous, could use the term today to describe its state of befuddlement as it awaited clarification of the new wage-ceiling order, which kept scores of highly-paid movie employes from receiving their weekly paychecks.

The seven major studios tied up the salaries of their top-bracketed actors, producers, writers and directors as batteries of lawyers studied the government's decree, which, as it is interpreted here, bars anyone from receiving more wages than he did in 1941, or more than $25,000 net, whichever is the larger sum.

There are scores—perhaps hundreds—in the studios who already have netted at least $25,000 so far this year, and one point adding to the puzzlement of the industry, it was learned, is whether they can be forced to fulfill their contracts at no added compensation.

There was a suggestion that some studios were considering halting work on productions featuring players who already had equalled their 1941 earnings. The studios remained silent on this point, as on all others in the riddle, but sources close to the industry doubted that this drastic step, involving the shelving of millions of dollars of unfinished films, would be taken.

Directors of the Screen Actors' Guild went into a huddle on the problem, but made no statement. It was generally believed that they, too, are awaiting clarification of the order and that their members will have to decide for

Hitler's Command Says Allied Tanks Push With Great Pressure Against Axis

13,000 Are Taken

Allies Capture 13,000 Men; Nazis Desert Italians

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

British tanks pursuing the broken Axis armies in Egypt were reported rolling along the Mediterranean coast today within striking distance of Matruh, 104 miles west of El Alamein, while dispatches from Greece said Adolf Hitler had sent a fleet of 500 planes to rush fresh troops across the sea in an attempt to avert utter disaster.

A British communique said the triumphant Eighth Army was attacking Axis rearguards well beyond El Daba, 33 miles west of El Alamein.

German field headquarters acknowledged that the battle was raging "in the area of Fuka and Matruh."

Fast-moving British armored forces were said to have advanced 60 miles since breaking through the enemy's defenses on the El Alamein front, 80 miles west of Alexandria.

Frontline dispatches indicated that the struggle was now rapidly degenerating into a race across the desert, with the British in hot pursuit of the beaten Axis columns.

Italian headquarters said German and Italian forces engaged in "violent combat" yesterday with British tank formations between Fuka and Matruh, respectively 62 and 104 miles west of the original El Alamein line. This represented about a 40-mile British advance since yesterday.

"At dusk, the battle was still going on with unchanged bitterness," the Fascist communique said tersely.

Hitler's high command said allied tanks were striking with continuous pressure, while the Berlin radio reported that heavy fighting raged last night at Fuka.

The Nazi broadcast took the optimistic view that Marshal Rommel still retained "full freedom of action," and added:

"If he now again has adopted the tactics of a war of movement, in which he is a specialist, he will certainly have gained very considerable advantages."

Informed London quarters said there was reason to believe British tanks had succeeded in cutting in behind some of the retreating Axis forces and that "their retreat is virtually cut off."

These quarters said there were high hopes that "we may be able to annihilate them completely without having to chase them across the Libyan desert as in other advances."

The British field command told newsmen that three British armored divisions had driven two wedges through the ragged Axis lines, and were fighting inside enemy positions.

On the battlefield, Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery declared the British Eighth Army already had won "complete and absolute victory" over Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's battered legions.

A bulletin from British headquarters this morning announced:

"The Eighth Army continued its pursuit of the enemy throughout yesterday.

"Our armored forces are in contact with the enemy rearguards well west of El Daba. A minimum of 4,000 more prisoners were taken during the day."

This made a total of at least 13,000 German and Italian prisoners rounded up in the 14-day-old British offensive as the Eighth Army swept through Axis minefields and rolled back the German-Italian invaders along a 40-mile front.

"A further large number of Italians is being rounded up in a southern sector of the battlefield, where they appear to have been abandoned in the desert by the German mechanized formations," the British communique said.

The communique said the commander of the Italian Trento division and his chief of staff were among the prisoners and reported at least 39 more Italian and 20

Tobin Outlines Course at K.H.S.

Commercial Department Works to Train Students for Retail Business

There was much interest shown at the weekly luncheon meeting of Kiwanis Thursday in the talk given by James Tobin of the commercial department, Kingston High School. Mr. Tobin discussed the program for cooperation between merchants and the school and which it is proposed to put into operation in the Kingston High School, through which students receive training that will fit them for employment in the retail distribution field. Under a federal law passed in 1937 an appropriation of $1,200,000 was made available for furtherance of this program and schools adopting it may receive 50 per cent reimbursement for money expended.

Speaking of the vast field covered by retail distribution and the variety of occupations involved, Mr. Tobin stated that there are 593 retail business establishments in Kingston, doing a business of $16,000,000 a year. On the average they employ 1,500 persons, who receive a total income of $1,550,000. In addition, he said, there are 208 service establishments—restaurants, beauty parlors, filling stations, and the like—doing a business of $888,000 a year, employing 254 persons and paying out $240,000 in wages.

Around 35 per cent of each graduating class in the Kingston High School take up work in retail enterprises. There are, said Mr. Tobin, about 120 persons, from 16 to 19 years of age, who each year take employment in distributive occupations, for which they never had any training. He noted that they lacked many essential qualities, such as social concepts, manners, ideas of store management and the like.

It is possible, the speaker stated, to give these young people an effective retail training, through class-room training and part-time employment with the retailer cooperating. Many cities already are using this program, among them being Albany, Hudson, Middletown and Port Jervis, in this area. School credits are given for the work which "closes the gap between class room work and commercial life."

The program is of definite advantage to the school, the student and the merchants, said Mr. Tobin. "Kingston can profit greatly by the organizing of such a program," he added, "but it must have the interest of the local merchants behind it." One of the advantages to the merchant arising from such a program in operation was said to be opportunity it presented to secure a trained group of extra employes during the holidays and at other rush periods.

Students taking such a course would be paid beginners wages for the hours of employment put in.

Mr. Tobin stated that he would be happy to discuss the plan with any interested merchant.

Plans Offered to Assist Farmer Transport Goods

Ithaca—Plans to help farmers accomplish their marketing with less travel were outlined in a recent meeting of the New York State U. S. D. A. War Board's committee on farm travel.

Meeting with representatives of milk producers cooperatives and milk dealers, the War Board committee suggested that the present county committees engaged in aiding farmers with certification of trucks be enlarged to handle plans for more efficient farm transport. Local committees under the county committees would work out plans for hauling farm produce and farm supplies to and from local centers.

The War Board committee suggested that transportation to individual milk plants be considered separately.

Proposed plans of organization have been submitted to the Office of Defense Transportation for approval.

Relocation of routes and zoning of farm produce markets are two of the main methods of cutting travel suggested for farmers.

Voluntary studies of milk transportation have already been made in 6 counties of the state, with the help of the New York State College of Agriculture. With the help of these studies, farmers have started reorganization of milk routes in Allegany, Broome, Cattaraugus, Chenango, Cortland, Seneca, Westchester and Wyoming counties. Milk handlers, working with farmers who supply them, have also made some savings in travel to many of their local plants.

Rough Rations Advised For Fattening Lambs

Ithaca—New York State farmers are ready to fatten thousands of western and native lambs to provide meat for winter and spring markets.

Plenty of roughage on the farms, a fairly good home-grown grain crop, and protein-rich feeds that can be purchased at reasonable price will provide economical rations for fattening lambs this year according to Prof. J. I. Miller of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Lambs can use almost any kind of protein feed, unlike chickens or hogs, so a balanced ration for lambs is easy to provide. Farmers who have good legume hay, along with corn or other grain, can feed the lambs on home-grown feed entirely. Linseed meal, soybean oil meal and corn gluten feed are good protein feeds.

Lambs make good use of much farm roughage that might otherwise go to waste, says Miller. They clean up whatever feed is left in bean fields, cabbage fields, corn fields, and pastures and meadows. They can turn even poor feeds like bean pods, corn stover and coarse hay into meat, provided they get some concentrated feeds along with the roughage.

The margin of profit for fattening lambs has never been large, Prof. Miller points out, but farmers who can use much home-grown feed can produce the meat at a low cost.

(By The Associated Press)

Not The Same Kind

St. Louis—An auditor's report to the Board of Education of "an excess of 198 dumbbells" at Central High School brought quick protest from D. H. Weir, principal.

"We admit having some dumbbells," Weir said, "but central does not have a greater proportion of dumbells than any other St. Louis High School. . . . We will never concede to them a monopoly of brains."

The auditor hastily pointed out such a concession was unnecessary—the dumbbells he referred to were of the muscle-building variety.

Better Late

Wake Forest, N. C.—Thirty-four years ago Dr. Thurman Kitchen, president of Wake Forest College, attended a little girl who was sick at Kingsdale saw mill, near Lumberton.

By mail yesterday came a $5 bill and a note from the father: "Thank you so much, and forgive me for not paying you sooner."

Not An Army Man

Pahokee, Fla.—It wasn't war or the strenuous life of a soldier that worried Marvin Berry. He could put up with all that, but his tour in the army didn't work out for another reason.

He's back home now, honorably Div. military authorities found him hopelessly allergic to wool.

Inroads of War

West Goshen, Conn.—The West Goshen post office and general store, which has survived four major wars in which the United States has been involved, will close tomorrow. Vincent Valacer, postmaster and storekeeper, is going in the army, following his partner and assistant, Corporal John V. Moraghan, by eight months.

The establishment has been in operation more than 100 years.

That Song Again

Phoenix, Ariz—A church bell donated to the metal drive by St. Mary's Catholic parish has been placed on a downtown sidewalk.

It has this sign:

"I've praised the Lord, now I go to make some ammunition."

Manpower Reservoir

Dallas, Tex.—K. D. Hancock received this answer to his ad for a painter and paperhanger:

"Gentlemen: I wish to apply for a job as a paperhanger. Am hunting bears at present, but am about out of ammunition. Anyway, I am a better paperhanger than I am a bear hunter—Adolf Hitler.

"P. S.—Please rush answer as this job is playing out and may have to move soon."

Special Service Class Formed in Naval Reserve

College graduates who have not been able to meet the rigid physical qualifications for the Navy's Class V-7 may now be accepted in a V-7 Special Service classification and win their commissions as ensigns in the United States Naval Reserve, it was announced today.

There has been no relaxation of the physical requirements for the General Service classification of V-7, Lieutenant Commander W. Pratt Thomas, U. S. N. R., senior member of the V-7 Selection Board, Third Naval District, pointed out. The Navy needs men in this group as well, but in order to secure the services of men with unusual capabilities who do not quite come up to the general service requirements, the new special service classification has been instituted.

Both of the V-7 classes are open to college juniors and seniors as well as to college graduates, but the Navy has urgent need for men who have college degrees to enroll at once so that they will be eligible for training beginning in December, 1942, and in January, 1943. There is a particular need at this time for men having degrees in electrical engineering.

As these men will go into combat duty immediately upon graduation, they will assume tremendous responsibilities. Therefore, only those applicants possessing officer-like qualifications will be accepted.

Applicants for enlistment in either of the classes of V-7 must be male citizens of the United States, must be not less than 18 years of age and must not have reached 28.

College undergraduates must be unmarried and must agree not to marry prior to completion of midshipman training. College graduates who are married and who meet all educational qualifications will be accepted.

For Class V-7, General Service, applicants must be not less than five feet, five and one-half inches and not more than six feet, four inches in height. Vision must be 18/20 correctable to 20/20 in each eye and must have good color perception. Weight must be in proportion to height but not less than 132 pounds. The applicant must have 20 serviceable permanent teeth, including four opposed molars—two of which are directly opposed on each side of the dental arch—and four directly opposed incisors.

For Class V-7, Special Service, applicants must be not less than five feet, four inches or more than six feet, four inches in height. A 12/20 vision in each eye correctable to 20/20 is permitted and a minimum weight of 124 pounds, if in proportion to height, is allowed. Deficiency in color perception is allowed. The applicant must have 18 sound vital teeth with at least two molars in functional occlusion, with not more than four incisors missing which have been satisfactorily replaced.

For both classifications, applicants, if graduates, must possess a degree from an accredited university or college. Under-graduates must be regularly-enrolled, full-time juniors or seniors in accredited universities or colleges. Transcripts of credits must show successful completion of two one-semester courses of mathematics of college grade. In addition, a course in trigonometry must have been completed satisfactorily either in secondary school or college.

Applicants for the Special Service classification must possess, or be candidates for, a baccalaureate degree with major in engineering, naval architecture, mathematics, physics, electronics, meteorology, industrial management or business administration. Students majoring in Japanese, Chinese, Russian or Malaysian or other fields of special value to the naval service, may be accepted in limited number upon prior approval of the Bureau of Naval Personnel.

Candidates should apply in person to the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 33 Pine street, New York, N. Y., or in Buffalo, N. Y., at the Liberty Bank Building.

Those who are accepted will be enlisted as apprentice seamen. After one month of indoctrination training, those who have successfully completed the course will be appointed midshipmen. Upon the successful completion of three more months of training, they will be commissioned ensigns in the United States Naval Reserve.

Legion Books Six Acts for Annual Armistice Ball

A variety show such as can be seen only on the leading circuits is promised those who attend the American Legion Victory Ball Wednesday evening at the auditorium by William E. Mellert, Jr., commander of the local post and chairman of the entertainment committee. Mellert completed arrangements yesterday with Harry A. Shea, New York city theatrical agent, for six acts, all of which come direct from the top-notch circuits.

The act termed entirely different, novel and truly successful in the art of deception will be that put on by "The Maginies," who have been deceiving audiences for years. The manner in which they perform their stunts is reported by those who have seen them to be truly amazing, and the fact that they have been called back time and time again to the same spots indicates their popularity with entertainment-goers.

"Musical Comedy's Favorite Dance Team"—Ann Pritchard and Jack Lord—will present a number of dances in artistic fashion. These two enjoy unusually high rating with patrons of night clubs and other places of amusement.

The "Memory Lane Trio" will offer "Songs You'll Love to Hear" in their "210 Years of Harmony." As soloists with Primrose and West, the performers in the trio have appeared in the leading theatres of the country.

Other acts on the program will be announced in a day or two.

Maple Syrup Conference Will Be Held Saturday

Ithaca — The fifth annual Maple Syrup Conference for New York state, on Saturday, November 6, will be at Syracuse instead of at the New York State College of Agriculture here, as formerly, in order to make travel to it easier from all parts of the state.

The annual conference, scheduled in order to give all members of the maple syrup trade a chance to discuss latest information on production, marketing, and equipment, will this year also include study of price ceilings of maple products.

Maple syrup and sugar buyers, manufacturers of equipment, producers, and representatives of producer-cooperatives will be present, according to Prof. J. A. Cope of the College of Agriculture. They will confer with federal and state officials, including men from the Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva and the Extension Service of the New York State College of Agriculture, who have worked with the maple syrup trade in former years.

Representatives of cooperatives from Vermont and from Canada, as well as in-state, will attend the meeting. (The one-day session is scheduled at the Onondaga Hotel.)

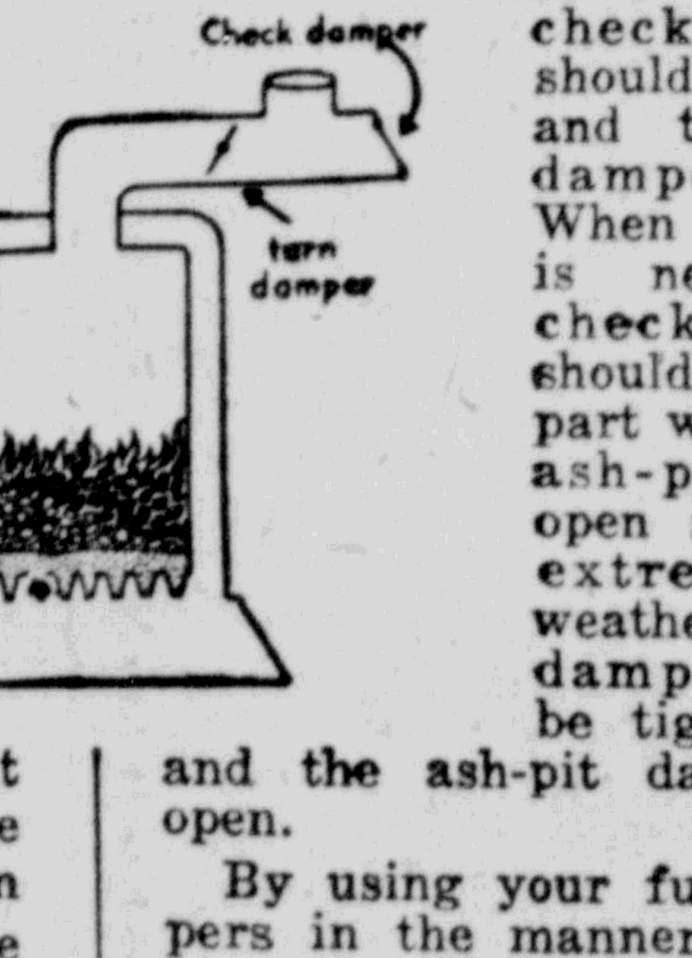
How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home

BY John Barclay

AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

Correct Regulation of Dampers

Every furnace should be equipped with three dampers—the ash-pit damper, the turn damper, and the check damper. The ash-pit damper is located near the base of the furnace below the grate level. The butterfly or turn damper is located in the smoke-pipe between the check damper and the boiler. The check damper is in the smoke-pipe between the turn damper and the chimney.



The turn damper regulates the amount of air that passes through the fire. It should be closed as tightly as possible up to the point where odors do not seep in to the basement. The ash-pit damper when open permits the air to enter the ash-pit. When closed this supply is cut off. The check damper is the flap-like damper in the chimney pipe. This damper when open retards the burning speed of the fire. When closed it increases the burning speed.

For best results, the ash-pit and check dampers should work together. When one is closed the other should be open. In mild weather when a slow, lasting fire is desired, the check damper should be open and the ash-pit damper closed. When more heat is needed, the check damper should be closed part way and the ash-pit damper open slightly. In extreme cold weather the check damper should be tightly closed and the ash-pit damper wide open.

By using your furnace dampers in the manner suggested, you can keep your home comfortably heated at all times with a minimum amount of fuel consumed. (5)

128 Sailors Escape

Escapes that began in 1940 and have continued at intervals have resulted in a total of 123 members of the Graf Spee escaping from internment, it is announced at Buenos Aires, Argentina. The German pocket battleship's crew of 1,055 officers and men was interned under terms of international law when the warship was trapped by British Navy craft.

Income of the British Lifeboat Institution for this year is over $1,550,000, the highest figure ever known, and Britons declare the lifeboat men's bravery also reached a new peak.

Tobin Outlines Course at K.H.S.

Commercial Department Works to Train Students for Retail Business

There was much interest shown at the weekly luncheon meeting of Kiwanis Thursday in the talk given by James Tobin of the commercial department, Kingston High School. Mr. Tobin discussed the program for cooperation between merchants and the school and which it is proposed to put into operation in the Kingston High School, through which students receive training that will fit them for employment in the retail distribution field. Under a federal law passed in 1937 an appropriation of $1,200,000 was made available for furtherance of this program and schools adopting it may receive 50 per cent reimbursement for money expended.

Speaking of the vast field covered by retail distribution and the variety of occupations involved, Mr. Tobin stated that there are 593 retail business establishments in Kingston, doing a business of $16,000,000 a year. On the average they employ 1,500 persons, who receive a total income of $1,550,000. In addition, he said, there are 208 service establishments—restaurants, beauty parlors, filling stations, and the like—doing a business of $888,000 a year, employing 254 persons and paying out $240,000 in wages.

Around 35 per cent of each graduating class in the Kingston High School take up work in retail enterprises. There are, said Mr. Tobin, about 120 persons, from 16 to 19 years of age, who each year take employment in distributive occupations, for which they never had any training. He noted that they lacked many essential qualities, such as social concepts, manners, ideas of store management and the like.

It is possible, the speaker stated, to give these young people an effective retail training, through class-room training and part-time employment with the retailer co-operating. Many cities already are using this program, among them being Albany, Hudson, Middletown and Port Jervis, in this area. School credits are given for the work which "closes the gap between class room work and commercial life."

The program is of definite advantage to the school, the student and the merchants, said Mr. Tobin. "Kingston can profit greatly by the organizing of such a program," he added, "but it must have the interest of the local merchants behind it." One of the advantages to the merchant arising from such a program in operation was said to be opportunity it presented to secure a trained group of extra employes during the holidays and at other rush periods.

Students taking such a course would be paid beginners wages for the hours of employment put in.

Mr. Tobin stated that he would be happy to discuss the plan with any interested merchant.

Plans Offered to Assist Farmer Transport Goods

Ithaca—Plans to help farmers accomplish their marketing with less travel were outlined in a recent meeting of the New York State U. S. D. A. War Board's committee on farm travel.

Meeting with representatives of milk producers cooperatives and milk dealers, the War Board committee suggested that the present county committees engaged in aiding farmers with certification of trucks be enlarged to handle plans for more efficient farm transport. Local committees under the county committees would work out plans for hauling farm produce and farm supplies to and from local centers.

The War Board committee suggested that transportation to individual milk plants be considered separately.

Proposed plans of organization have been submitted to the Office of Defense Transportation for approval.

Relocation of routes and zoning of farm produce markets are two of the main methods of cutting travel suggested for farmers.

Voluntary studies of milk transportation have already been made in 6 counties of the state, with the help of the New York State College of Agriculture. With the help of these studies, farmers have started reorganization of milk routes in Allegany, Broome, Cattaraugus, Chenango, Cortland, Seneca, Westchester and Wyoming counties. Milk handlers, working with farmers who supply them, have also made some savings in travel to many of their local plants.

Rough Rations Advised For Fattening Lambs

Ithaca—New York State farmers are ready to fatten thousands of western and native lambs to provide meat for winter and spring markets.

Plenty of roughage on the farms, a fairly good home-grown grain crop, and protein-rich feeds that can be purchased at reasonable price will provide economical rations for fattening lambs this year according to Prof. J. I. Miller of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Lambs can use almost any kind of protein feed, unlike chickens or hogs, so a balanced ration for lambs is easy to provide. Farmers who have good legume hay, along with corn or other grain, can feed the lambs on home-grown feed entirely. Linseed meal, soybean oil meal and corn gluten feed are good protein feeds.

Lambs make good use of much farm roughage that might otherwise go to waste, says Miller. They clean up whatever feed is left in bean fields, cabbage fields, corn fields, and pastures and meadows. They can turn even poor feeds like bean pods, corn stover and coarse hay into meat, provided they get some concentrated feeds along with the roughage.

The margin of profit for fattening lambs has never been large, Prof. Miller points out, but farmers who can use much home-grown feed can produce the meat at a low cost.

American War Music formed the general title of the program of the Music Study Club, meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Willard Burke. Mrs. Irving Rathgeb was assisting hostess. Mrs. Nathan Williams read the opening number of War Music, giving from the Revolution to the present. The article credited the music used during the Civil War as the most lasting. For the Civil War period, there was a piano duet played by Mrs. N. D. Williams and Miss Curry, "Dixie"; then with Mrs. Oliver Kent at the piano, a group of songs, popular at that time, were played. "The Vacant Chair," Keller's "American Hymn," "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," "Just Before the Battle Mother," were some of them. The group added, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," and sang it. Mrs. Elmer Fisher, who had prepared the program, read the story of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," which was then sung. FORBIDDEN PILGRIMAGE

Pity the poor government of India. The independence movement is giving it plenty of trouble from Gandhi and his Hindus. Heretofore the Mohammedan opposition has kept them on fairly good terms with their British rulers. Now the war has compelled the government to interfere with one of the most precious items in the Mohammedan creed, the pilgrimage to Mecca.

Every good Mohammedan is supposed at least once in his lifetime to visit Mecca, the sacred city of Arabia. Many go several times. From India have gone 1,000 pilgrims a year, necessarily traveling by sea. Now enemy submarines are making the ocean trip impossible.

Says the government: "A pilgrim ship is slow and crowded, and its sailings would be matters of public knowledge. A blackout cannot be enforced because most of the passengers cook, sleep and live on deck, so they cannot be included in a convoy. In case of a submarine attack, the loss of life would be heavy."

It is a hard chioce. To forbid the pilgrimage is to enrage the Indian Mohammedans. To permit it and undergo the sinking of one or more heavily laden pilgrim ships would have incalculable results. Facing two such alternatives, most people would rejoice that they were not governing India.

TOY BANK TROUBLE

Throw away the children's piggy banks and other small coin receptacles for the duration, urges M. J. Fleming, president of one of the Federal Reserve banks. They swallow up pennies and nickels until the mints are working 24 hours a day in a vain effort to keep up with them. They are draining away, by hundreds of tons, copper and nickel that American industry needs to produce war materials. By encouraging them, patriotic Americans are unconsciously doing an unpatriotic thing.

Empty those banks, but continue the saving in a better way. Listen to what he says.

"As a banker I have always been an apostle of thrift. Far be it from me to advocate rifling the baby's bank, although we are at war. But a valued contribution could be made to the war effort, without loss of thrift, if the piggy banks and sugar bowls were emptied, and the coins were used to buy War Savings Stamps or Bonds, or deposited in banks, were they would be available for use by the business man."

Tell the children that is good business, and they'll gain by it, because then their pennies will earn more cents and nickels.

THE LIQUOR RUSH

There haven't been lately any of the old "runs on the bank" that used to be so common, but there was a most terrific run on liquor stores in many cities last week. Some stores reported as much as $25,000 worth of retail business a day. There were long lines of customers, some of them waiting for hours, and in many stores nearly everything in stock was sold out. There were quarrels, too, over precedence in the waiting line.

The performance wasn't very admirable. It was caused by an approaching rise of 50 cents a quart on liquors. And it came as a surprise, because for years nearly all such stores, while doing a steady business, had been very unobtrusive.

The rush may continue, or be resumed on pay days, but there seems to be no sound reason for it. Intoxicating liquors are not produced any more; but there are supposed to be enough in storage to last for three or four years. By that time the war will probably be over and manufacture may be resumed.

AUTUMN THOUGHTS

There are compensations for nearly everything. The northerner finds it sad to see the leaves falling from the trees, but their dying beauty makes up for it. Eternal greenness would lose its charm. Fall blasts bring an occasional shiver, but they blow away summer's lethargy, stimulate physical activity, make work easier and enhance fireside pleasures. A field of snow is as lovely as a meadow full of flowers. Nearly all change is good in its own time. Even an occasional change for the worse gives a person, by contrast, more appreciation of his blessings.

Next to pain, perhaps the worst thing in life is monotony. Right now most of us can't have much to complain of on that score.

TROUBLE FOR JAPAN

We hear about our own shipping losses, and they are serious. Not so much is said about what the other fellow is suffering: yet that is an important part of the picture. Premier Tojo recently said that Japan needs 15 millions tons of shipping. Not more than four million tons are in service, and Japan's facilities do not permit of building more than half a million annually.

If that is true, the Japanese situation is serious. We are nibbling steadily at her scanty supply. With luck to aid us, her plight will be desperate before long.

DWINDLING FARM STATES

The war is already doing things to the population rank of the states. Census reports, just released, show that more than half the states have lost in the last 25 months. New York, Pennsylvania and Oklahoma are the chief sufferers.

The cause is the shift from farms to defense industries. For years the farming states have lost in population. A state like Iowa has steadily lost ground to more industrialized commonwealths.

If the war continues long, some striking redistributions will appear.

HOT FRUIT JUICE

Coffee weak and short? Tea fading away? Cocoa nearly gone? Well, what's the matter with starting breakfast with hot orange juice? Or grapefruit juice, if the breakfaster likes that better? Or pineapple if it's available? Or tomato? Or apple? Or grape?

The cold mornings call for hot drinks, and the native fruits are all available. Hot fruit juice, hot cakes with maple syrup—what could be sweeter or more satisfying?

It's surprising, when people once get used to the idea, how little driving they really have to do. And restful, too. And thrifty.

LEAN MEN LIVE LONGER

One hundred years ago the expectation of life was about forty years; today it is more than 65 years. A gain of 25 years in life span in less than one hundred years breaks all previous records. The fact that more babies are saved at birth and during the first year is one big factor in lengthening the life span; another is the saving of life from the infectious diseases of childhood by the use of vaccines. And now with the use of the sulfanilamide drugs, pneumonia, which formerly had a death rate of nearly ten per cent, has a death rate of less than three per cent.

It is, of course, true that if the lives of youngsters and young and middle-aged are prolonged, there will be twice as many older individuals to be cared for than at present. This means that more cases of heart disease, cancer and diabetes will occur.

What can be done to prevent these three diseases that are so frequent at and immediately after middle age? While infection can cause or aggravate these three diseases, overeating and the acquiring of much excess weight is a most important factor. Fortunately, overweight can be prevented by care and sacrifice on the part of the individual and proper treatment of difficult cases by the family physician.

By leaving the table when still hungry, eating more leafy vegetables instead of potatoes and bread, using skimmed milk instead of cream, and by taking more exercise, overweight can be prevented. It is also known that overweights are poor surgical risks and throw off ailments slowly.

Aside from the above diseases caused or aggravated by overweight is the matter of the life span. In his book 'Diabetic Manual', Dr. E. P. Joslin has an illustration showing how ten fat men and ten lean men, aged thirty, fare as they walk through life. At the age of forty there are 9 fat men and 9 lean men living; at fifty there are only 6 fat men but still 9 lean men; at seventy there are three fat men and 5 lean men; and at eighty there is one fat man and three lean men living.

The lesson then is that if we want to feel well, be able to play or work at our best, and live longer, we should avoid overweight.

Overweight and Underweight

To obtain it just send ten cents and a three cent stamp to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., mentioning The Kingston Daily Freeman.

Today in Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 6—The Democratic party is faced today with a crisis from within. Its defeat is due largely to the arbitrary and capricious manner in which left-wingers possessed of vast powers over the citizenry have abused their positions, especially in wartime. Unless the leadership of men like Jim Farley, who foresaw the reaction of the New Deal and tried to stem the tide, is taken, there will be a worse defeat for the Democrats in 1944.

This is the kind of comment one is hearing nowadays on Capitol Hill, where, among the Democrats in particular, the feeling is one of resentment and bitterness against presidentially appointed administrators who, without experience with the psychological reactions of the public gained in running for office, have piled up red tape and restrictions without warrant of law and without regard to the effects on the electorate.

Basically, the Democrats in Congress from the south, who are non-radical, are the ones who are loudest in their protestations that the defeat of their northern brethren is due to mismanagement of the civilian economy by New Dealers. Renewed demand is being made that the 40-hour-week law be amended and that the tremendous expense of time-and-a-half in overtime either be curtailed or at least revised so that longer work weeks can solve the manpower shortage.

There is a revival, too, of criticism of the operations of the draft law, with its unfair quota system and lack of uniformity in applying occupational deferments, especially as they relate to farm labor. Administration of the draft probably played as big a part as any single thing in arousing resentment among the voters, unless perhaps it was the way Washington officials bungled the rubber situation and gasoline rationing.

There is no doubt that the New Dealers have a defense for their acts and that many wartime restrictions were necessary, but they ignored the necessity of informing the public and advising it of the sacrifices needed to attain the wartime objectives. Thus for instance, the press would have been willing and indeed has been anxious to cooperate in every way with the government in helping to prepare the people for wartime restrictions. But the administration seemed to think it was more important to start a fight with the newspapers by making more than a thousand of the publishers of daily newspapers defendants in a lawsuit over ancient issues that could have waited to post-war days for settlement.

The administration's policy toward the press—a most important channel of communication between the government and the people—just doesn't make sense. The President, as the leader of the Democratic party, has taken occasion to antagonize the press, and after his recent inspection trip he did not fail to accuse writers and editors of telling lies to the public. This is hardly a means of winning the cooperation of the press, because people don't become enthusiastic cooperationists in America after being beaten over the head with a crowbar.

It is fair to say that the press has been critical, but in a democracy the way to avoid criticism is to see to it that the evidence which gives rise to the criticism is met by corrective or remedial policies. Sensitiveness and resentments have no place in governmental operations. It is most unfortunate that in wartime the administration should be believed by many publishers to be carrying on a feud because the Associated Press happened to deny membership to a newspaper politically allied with the administration.

The congressional election results will stir up domestic issues and point a warning finger against the bureaucrats who have been riding high here in Washington in utter disregard of the people's wishes. The war effort will not be impaired, but actually assisted when the new Congress takes office in January. The Republicans, together with a group of southern Democrats, will control the House. Undoubtedly there will be a wave of investigations to get at the manner in which public power has been used by the bureaucrats. Heretofore, the administration has been able to squelch practically every attempt to get at the facts.

In the Senate there will be a coalition majority, too. The spirit of the new majority will be one of prodding to get things done quickly and shorten the war. Too many people have been writing to Washington saying they believe the war is being prolonged unduly and that a more efficient mechanism would have gotten ships and planes and munitions manufactured much sooner and at a much less cost than has been the case to date.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

Christmas Is Coming!

Babson Sees Good Holiday Trade

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 6—Though Christmas is a few weeks ahead, the holiday buying season is already at hand. When the gong rings and the scores are added up, dollar sales, and the size of the crowds jamming into stores everywhere will make impressive totals. Probably this year all previous records will be broken. The most important factors are: Money in circulation, widespread employment, coming rationing and scarcities of merchandise, heavy buying for men in the armed services, and a determination on the part of millions of families to, "Shoot the works" this year if never again!

Cash to Spend

Money in circulation per individual in this country has risen from $59.50 in 1940 to $103.38 on the same fall date in 1942. Total currency in the hands of the public is now over $13,854,000,000 and is expanding at the rate of over $400,000,000 per month. This does not include individually-owned funds on deposit in savings, checking, or Christmas Club accounts. Furthermore, no allowance is made for the improved credit position of millions of shoppers whose names are now in good standing on the books of merchants.

Millions of families are today enjoying the largest incomes they have ever had. Rural sections as well as defense areas are participating in the employment and profits boom. Wages for the country as a whole have increased more than $1,000,000,000 a month for the past two years. Total such disbursements for the current year will be in the neighborhood of $75,000,000,000. Incomes from other sources may swell this to a national income of $117,000,000,000. Hence, from a spending point of view merchants should have nothing to worry over.

Effect of Coming Scarcities

No ration books containing coupons governing the purchase of clothes, other types of soft or even hard goods, luxuries, and other kinds of merchandise will be pulled on the public until after the holiday season. Right now stores are able to offer a wide assortment of goods. Again I refer you to the advertisements in your local papers to substantiate this fact. What the future holds is highly problematical. We know that the manufacture of many civilian goods has topped. Production of much other merchandise is decreasing. Until the War's end, 1942 will mark the high point in the value of available goods for retail distribution.

Entirely aside from the customary purchase of gifts, shoppers have a real excuse for stocking up on durable goods and are justified in doing so. Among the items that may bulk large among purchases this year are luxury goods, particularly jewelry and precious stones; shoes, family clothing, women's wear, furniture and household furnishings; such electrical appliances as are available, including radios; dry goods, and notions. In spite of the millions of men in uniform, sales of men's furnishings should rank high. Paint and hardware items, not usually classified as Christmas purchases, should enjoy heavy sales.

Gifts for Service Men

This is the first Christmas in twenty-five years that we have had an opportunity to "go to town" for members of the family, relatives and friends who are at war. For weeks past gift packages have been leaving our shores for fighting men abroad. More will go and a great quantity will likewise be distributed to the boys in camps here. We are all determined that each and every service man wherever located shall be remembered with some kind of a gift this year. Incidentally, in this connection, consult your shopping service or local department store manager for a list of the things that these men will most appreciate.

Service men in training or on active duty, need and deserve all of the comforts of ordinary life that those at home can send them. Thus, automatically the armed forces of any nation open up greater avenues and markets of trade. Hence, do not delay in purchasing, wrapping, and sending off your gifts. More entertaining will be done this Christmas season. Many a boy will have a Christmas furlough and bring a pal for dinner. Families without a boy in service will invite some lonesome lad for a real old-fashioned Christmas. In preparation for this, local fruit, grocery, and chain store sales will be heavy.

Not the Last Christmas

Because many families were deprived of various goods and services in recent past years they feel, due to the effects of more cash in the pocket and the cleaning up of back bills, that this year they will make up for deprivations of the past. Gone are the apple sellers, bread lines, groups of unemployed, the dust bowl, and the "oakies." Families are entitled to enjoy themselves but times are too precarious to have this Christmas season representative only of a spending spree and of a grand good time. When December 25 comes let us pause and remember that the day we are really celebrating is the birth of Jesus. Besides this all else pales.

Let us also remember that because of our belief in Christianity of which the Christmas Day is a symbol, we are engaged in this war. We shall win without a doubt but not until we get down and back to true fundamentals. Next year may bring a better or a more difficult Christmas season, but whatever comes we should pray for the faith, the courage, the spiritual and the financial reserves to weather it. To be practical, I would suggest that while we freely give this year to others, we hang on to some of our cash for another Christmas which may not be so bright.

"THE LAST MAN COMES HOME," by Stephen Longstreet.

In all the stacks of half-raw boks on how to win the war, how to win the peace and what Hitler said to Putzi on the first of October, 1934, it is a relief to find something you can laugh at. Something like Stephen Longstreet's "The Last Man Comes Home."

It is true that a confirmed looker for meanings can discover a meaning in Mr. Longstreet's book. It is a kind of composite picture of the parts of America he has been visiting the last few years—the cabooses of freight trains, Boston, Hollywood and innumerable bus stops. I suppose Mr. Longstreet's moral may be that America, for all its vagaries, is a pretty darn good place after all. But me—I just read the book for fun.

It is fun. The author is a man who can throw any handful of syllables into the air and have them come down in amusing order. Sometimes he does it with an idea in mind, and sometimes just to see what the tea leaves say. Either way is fascinating. He used the same method in "Last Man Around the World," which was the story of a world cruise undertaken just before the world was made unfit for cruising. Now he uses the same method again, and even part of the same title.

Take James Peachpit, Mr. Longstreet has sequestered himself somewhere in Yellowstone Park or territory contiguous. He did this to write a novel, which is scheduled for publication next season. After a certain period of time he got restless, found a boat recently constructed by James Peachpit, and engaged that Indian to pilot him down the Yellowstone river to the Missouri, and down that stream to St. Louis. James Peachpit provides one of the best sections—he got drunk and disrupted an entire town, ending up in a butcher's icebox carving steaks off beef quarters.

You take James Peachpit. Quite honestly, I doubt some of his exploits, and would not be surprised at all if the entire journey took place in the limitless confines of Mr. Longstreet's head. I suspect he could see more and tell it more amusingly in a hotel room than most of us could were we to walk the continent.

And he writes as if his typewriter spurted champagne.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Nov. 5—The local school attendance average for the first two months was 94 per cent. Pupils having perfect attendance were: Louise Colange, Rosetta Colange, Louzette Schmoekel, Anthony Colange and Albert Harrison. Health roll members who qualified were: Louise Colange, Rosetta Colange, Louzette Schmoekel and Anthony Colange. After last Friday's session a party was held at the schoolhouse. The following won pumpkins: Elbert Harrison, Calvin Palen, Kenneth Kahrs, Rosetta Colange, Anthony Colange, Frederick Kahrs and Louise Colange. The costume prize went to Calvin Palen. The prizes for those masked went to Rosetta Colange, Louzette Schmoekel, Anthony Colange and Russell Kahrs. A former pupil, Warren Hyde, who attended the party, won the prize in the "Halloween Cat." Russell Kahrs won the prize for the placing of the pumpkin's nose, the consolation prize went to Louzette Schmoekel.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Professional football attracted the attention of grid fans in the fall of 1927, when the Yellow Jackets were reorganized and played many thrilling games with strong out of town teams at the Kingston Fair Grounds.

Manager Bill Dwyer was in charge of the Yellow Jackets that year and included in the lineup were such local football stars as Vince Rice, Earl McLane, Sammons, L. O'Reilly, "Big Bill" O'Reilly, Clark, Carroll, Joe Hoffman, Colvin, Cirone and Lee Hasbrouck.

W. Scott Van Keuren, who served the newly organized Board of Public Works as its first superintendent, during the administration of Mayor Palmer Canfield, in October, 1927, filed his resignation with Mayor E. J. Dempsey. Mr. Van Keuren served under three mayors as superintendent of the board—Mayors Canfield, Morris Block and E. J. Dempsey.

Mr. Van Keuren proved one of the most efficient men ever to serve that board as its superintendent.

I recall that on October 6, 1907, Bethany Chapel on Washington avenue, celebrated its 50th anniversary with an appropriate program.

I also recall that the corner stone of the new Franklin street A.M.E. Zion Church was laid with appropriate ceremonies on October 16, 1927.

This church was founded in 1848 and for many years the old edifice stood on Broadway at the corner of Franklin street, and in 1863 was moved to the present location on Franklin street. In 1927 the old church was torn down and the present fine edifice erected.

The cornerstone ceremonies were held in the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon, October 16, 1927, where addresses were made by Charles Ramsey, chairman of the citizens' building committee, which helped raise the funds to erect the new church; the Rev. Dr. Stephen A. McNeil, presiding elder of this district, and the Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe, president of the Kingston Ministerial Association.

Following the services in the church the congregation walked to the site of the new church where the cornerstone was laid.

The Rev. E. O. Clarke was serving the Franklin street church at that time, and had been called as pastor of the church in 1920.

The captains and workers of the financial drive for the Maternal Health Center met at luncheon at the Stuyvesant Hotel today. The speaker was Dr. Elizabeth Moore, medical director of the center.

The captains reported on the progress of the drive and there is every indication that the drive will "go over the top." Mrs. William Fuller, chairman of the special gifts committee, secured the largest number of new contributors. Mrs. Henry L. Haight Must Die In Electric Chair

Jury of Six Women, Six Men Finds Him Guilty

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Edward Haight must die in the electric chair for the slaying of two little sisters.

The Stamford, Conn., laborer smiled in Westchester county court yesterday when a jury of six men and six women found him guilty on two first degree murder charges. The verdict carries a mandatory death sentence.

The jurors deliberated 96 minutes after hearing testimony as to how Haight on September 14 lured Margaret, 7, and Helen Lynch, 8, into a stolen station wagon, tried to rape one, maltreated the other, and tossed both into Westchester waters to drown.

One of the children was found in a shallow stream near their Bedford Village, N. Y., home. Haight directed police to the second in nearby Kensico reservoir.

Throughout the trial, Haight retained the carefree attitude he had displayed ever since his arrest, and while the defense and prosecution summed up their cases, he frequently nodded agreement.

The defense retained a psychiatrist in an attempt to prove that Haight was insane, but the state called two psychiatrists who testified that the youth knew what he was doing.

When District Attorney Elbert T. Gallagher displayed a photograph of the children's bodies, two jurors wiped away tears.

Haight laughed.

He will be sentenced next Tuesday.

For Trained Experts, Says President of Investors

Minneapolis, Nov. 6—Health, foundation of the nation, will demand the most trained experts after the war, declared E. E. Crabb, president of Investors Syndicate, here today in reporting on predictions of 346 American colleges, technical schools and universities.

"Nearly one of every three predictions by American educators on post-war demands for trained experts, perhaps reflecting the maxim, 'health alone is victory', forecast health or allied activities," continued Mr. Crabb. "Over a fifth of the replies mentioned business or associated fields. Natural sciences received 18.4%, other professions 13.2%, social work 6.4%, miscellaneous experts 3.6%, and government specialists 3.4%, of the total mentions.

"Ten occupations accounted for 72.36 per cent of the total mentions in the list of 65 specific types of experts. The number of times such experts were mentioned and their percentages to the total follow: doctors 118, or 11.6%; engineers 104, or 10.2%; foreign trade specialists 99, or 9.7%; nutritionists and social workers each 54, or 5.3%; occupational therapists 46, or 4.5%; dentists 37, or 3.5%; economists 33, or 3.2%; and business administrators 31, or 3 per cent."

A summary of predictions on demands for trained experts, after victory and peace, with co-educational, men's, and women's schools combined, by groups, follows:

GROUP	Mention	% To Total
Health	334	32.8
Business	228	22.4
Natural Sciences	188	18.4
"Other" professions	132	13.0
Social Workers	65	6.4
Miscellaneous	36	3.6
Government	34	3.6
Total Mentions		1,017

Medicine Leads in Men's Schools

"What trained experts will be most in demand after the war?" the nation's higher educational institutions were asked. Three hundred and forty-six schools—261 coeducational, 54 women's and 31 men's—replied, many of them mentioning more than one type of experts in their aggregate of 1,071 mentions.

Doctors led the list in both coeducational and men's colleges. Teachers headed the list in women's schools. Engineers came second in both coeducational and men's universities, while nutritionists held that place in women's institutions. Foreign trade ranked third in both coeducational and men's faculties, though sixth in women's colleges. Medical technologists took third place in schools exclusively for women.

"Doctors received 15, or 16.1% of the 93 mentions predicted by exclusively men's schools," continued Mr. Crabb. "Others mentioned and their percentages in the men's school predictions follow: engineers 13, or 14%; dentists, foreign traders, and teachers each 6, or 6.5%; clergymen, economists, and statisticians, each 4, or 4.3%; accountants, advertising experts, business administrators, and financiers, each 3, or 3.2%; agriculturists, distribution experts, government specialists, and social workers each 2, or 2.2%. Mentioned once each were: adjusters, lawyers, linguists, occupational therapists, physical educational trainers, pharmacists, transportation experts, veteriarians, and writers. These men's schools did not mention aviation.

Teaching Leads in Women's Schools

"Teaching got 23 mentions, or 17.8% of the 130 mentions from exclusively women's colleges. Other predictions by this school group included: nutritionists 17, or 13.1%; medical technologists 15, or 11.6%; social workers 14, or 10.8% occupational therapists 11, or 8.5%; foreign trade specialists 8, or 6.2%; linguists 5, or 3.9%; doctors, economists, and nurses, each 4, or 3.1%; business administrators, chemists, and secretaries each 3, or 2.3%. Mentioned twice each were: agriculturists, dentists, and librarians. Those predicted once each included: aviators, international relations experts, lawyers, mathematicians, physicists physical educational trainers, physictherapists, recreation workers, and statesmen.

themselves whether they will fulfill their commitments without pay, or take a rest.

One source, declining to be identified, said that several stars for a major studio had offered to work the remainder of the year without salary. Others, however, felt differently, opining they wouldn't mind working for nothing if the government were going to get the money but seeing no reason why the studios should benefit.

This school of thought is represented by Franchot Tone.

"When Franchot wants to work for nothing he'll work for the government," said his agent, Mike Levy, in disclosing Tone had cancelled his contract with Warner Brothers. And Paulette Goddard cancelled a scheduled radio appearance because she already has reached the ceiling.

The agents, those ubiquitous ten percenters, were watching the situation closely. Ten per cent of nothing is nothing.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Not The Same Kind

St. Louis—An auditor's report to the Board of Education of "an excess of 198 dumbbells" at Central High School brought quick protest from D. H. Weir, principal.

"We admit having some dumbbells," Weir said, "but central does not have a greater proportion of dumbells than any other St. Louis High School. . . . We will never concede to them a monopoly of brains."

The auditor hastily pointed out such a concession was unnecessary—the dumbbells he referred to were of the muscle-building variety.

Better Late

Wake Forest, N. C.—Thirty-four years ago Dr. Thurman Kitchen, president of Wake Forest College, attended a little girl who was sick at Kingsdale saw mill, near Lumberton.

By mail yesterday came a $5 bill and a note from the father: "Thank you so much, and forgive me for not paying you sooner."

Not An Army Man

Pahokee, Fla.—It wasn't war or the strenuous life of a soldier that worried Marvin Berry. He could put up with all that, but his tour in the army didn't work out for another reason.

He's back home now, honorably Div. military authorities found him hopelessly allergic to wool.

Inroads of War

West Goshen, Conn.—The West Goshen post office and general store, which has survived four major wars in which the United States has been involved, will close tomorrow. Vincent Valacer, postmaster and storekeeper, is going in the army, following his partner and assistant, Corporal John V. Moraghan, by eight months.

The establishment has been in operation more than 100 years.

That Song Again

Phoenix, Ariz—A church bell donated to the metal drive by St. Mary's Catholic parish has been placed on a downtown sidewalk.

It has this sign:

"I've praised the Lord, now I go to make some ammunition."

Manpower Reservoir

Dallas, Tex.—K. D. Hancock received this answer to his ad for a painter and paperhanger:

"Gentlemen: I wish to apply for a job as a paperhanger. Am hunting bears at present, but am about out of ammunition. Anyway, I am a better paperhanger than I am a bear hunter—Adolf Hitler.

"P. S.—Please rush answer as this job is playing out and may have to move soon."

Firms in South Africa that have been asked to salvage waste paper are protesting that unnecessary government correspondence is wasting it faster than they can save it.

Special Service Class Formed in Naval Reserve

College graduates who have not been able to meet the rigid physical qualifications for the Navy's Class V-7 may now be accepted in a V-7 Special Service classification and win their commissions as ensigns in the United States Naval Reserve, it was announced today.

There has been no relaxation of the physical requirements for the General Service classification of V-7, Lieutenant Commander W. Pratt Thomas, U. S. N. R., senior member of the V-7 Selection Board, Third Naval District, pointed out. The Navy needs men in this group as well, but in order to secure the services of men with unusual capabilities who do not quite come up to the general service requirements, the new special service classification has been instituted.

Both of the V-7 classes are open to college juniors and seniors as well as to college graduates, but the Navy has urgent need for men who have college degrees to enroll at once so that they will be eligible for training beginning in December, 1942, and in January, 1943. There is a particular need at this time for men having degrees in electrical engineering.

As these men will go into combat duty immediately upon graduation, they will assume tremendous responsibilities. Therefore, only those applicants possessing officer-like qualifications will be accepted.

Applicants for enlistment in either of the classes of V-7 must be male citizens of the United States, must be not less than 18 years of age and must not have reached 28.

College undergraduates must be unmarried and must agree not to marry prior to completion of midshipman training. College graduates who are married and who meet all educational qualifications will be accepted.

For Class V-7, General Service, applicants must be not less than five feet, five and one-half inches and not more than six feet, four inches in height. Vision must be 18/20 correctable to 20/20 in each eye and must have good color perception. Weight must be in proportion to height but not less than 132 pounds. The applicant must have 20 serviceable permanent teeth, including four opposed molars—two of which are directly opposed on each side of the dental arch—and four directly opposed incisors.

For Class V-7, Special Service, applicants must be not less than five feet, four inches or more than six feet, four inches in height. A 12/20 vision in each eye correctable to 20/20 is permitted and a minimum weight of 124 pounds, if in proportion to height, is allowed. Deficiency in color perception is allowed. The applicant must have 18 sound vital teeth with at least two molars in functional occlusion, with not more than four incisors missing which have been satisfactorily replaced.

For both classifications, applicants, if graduates, must possess a degree from an accredited university or college. Under-graduates must be regularly-enrolled, full-time juniors or seniors in accredited universities or colleges. Transcripts of credits must show successful completion of two one-semester courses of mathematics of college grade. In addition, a course in trigonometry must have been completed satisfactorily either in secondary school or college.

Applicants for the Special Service classification must possess, or be candidates for, a baccalaureate degree with major in engineering, naval architecture, mathematics, physics, electronics, meteorology, industrial management or business administration. Students majoring in Japanese, Chinese, Russian or Malaysian or other fields of special value to the naval service, may be accepted in limited number upon prior approval of the Bureau of Naval Personnel.

Candidates should apply in person to the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 33 Pine street, New York, N. Y., or in Buffalo, N. Y., at the Liberty Bank Building.

Those who are accepted will be enlisted as apprentice seamen. After one month of indoctrination training, those who have successfully completed the course will be appointed midshipmen. Upon the successful completion of three more months of training, they will be commissioned ensigns in the United States Naval Reserve.

Chile's Naval School, at Valparaiso, recently celebrated its 124th anniversary, and a plaque bearing the named of the first cadets of the Institution was unveiled.

Legion Books Six Acts for Annual Armistice Ball

A variety show such as can be seen only on the leading circuits is promised those who attend the American Legion Victory Ball Wednesday evening at the auditorium by William E. Mellert, Jr., commander of the local post and chairman of the entertainment committee. Mellert completed arrangements yesterday with Harry A. Shea, New York city theatrical agent, for six acts, all of which come direct from the top-notch circuits.

The act termed entirely different, novel and truly successful in the art of deception will be that put on by "The Maginies," who have been deceiving audiences for years. The manner in which they perform their stunts is reported by those who have seen them to be truly amazing, and the fact that they have been called back time and time again to the same spots indicates their popularity with entertainment-goers.

"Musical Comedy's Favorite Dance Team"—Ann Pritchard and Jack Lord will present a number of dances in artistic fashion. These two enjoy unusually high rating with patrons of night clubs and other places of amusement.

The "Memory Lane Trio" will offer "Songs You'll Love to Hear" in their "210 Years of Harmony." As soloists with Primrose and West, the performers in the trio have appeared in the leading theatres of the country.

Other acts on the program will be announced in a day or two.

Maple Syrup Conference Will Be Held Saturday

Ithaca — The fifth annual Maple Syrup Conference for New York state, on Saturday, November 6, will be at Syracuse instead of at the New York State College of Agriculture here, as formerly, in order to make travel to it easier from all parts of the state.

The annual conference, scheduled in order to give all members of the maple syrup trade a chance to discuss latest information on production, marketing, and equipment, will this year also include study of price ceilings of maple products.

Maple syrup and sugar buyers, manufacturers of equipment, producers, and representatives of producer-cooperatives will be present, according to Prof. J. A. Cope of the College of Agriculture. They will confer with federal and state officials, including men from the Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva and the Extension Service of the New York State College of Agriculture, who have worked with the maple syrup trade in former years.

Representatives of cooperatives from Vermont and from Canada, as well as in-state, will attend the meeting. (The one-day session is scheduled at the Onondaga Hotel.)

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home

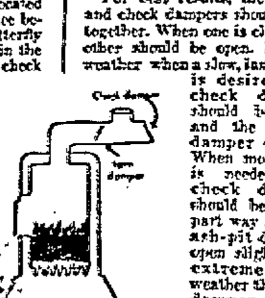
AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

Correct Regulation of Dampers

EVERY furnace should be equipped with three dampers—the ash-pit damper, the turn damper, and the check damper. The ash-pit damper is located near the base of the furnace below the grate level. The butterfly or turn damper is located in the smoke-pipe between the check damper and the boiler. The check damper is in the smoke-pipe between the turn damper and the chimney.

The turn damper regulates the amount of air that passes through the fire. It should be closed as tightly as possible up to the point where odors do not seep in to the basement. The ash-pit damper when open permits the air to enter the ash-pit. When closed this supply is cut off. The check damper is the flap-like damper in the chimney pipe. This damper when open retards the burning speed of the fire. When closed it increases the burning speed.

For best results, the ash-pit and check dampers should work together. When one is closed the other should be open. In mild weather when a slow, lasting fire is desired, the check damper should be open and the ash-pit damper closed. When more heat is needed, the check damper should be closed part way and the ash-pit damper open slightly. In extreme cold weather the check damper should be tightly closed and the ash-pit damper wide open.



By using your furnace dampers in the manner suggested, you can keep your home comfortably heated at all times with a minimum amount of fuel consumed.

128 Sailors Escape

Escapes that began in 1940 and have continued at intervals have resulted in a total of 123 members of the Graf Spee escaping from internment, it is announced at Buenos Aires, Argentina. The German pocket battleship's crew of 1,055 officers and men was interned under terms of international law when the warship was trapped by British Navy craft.

Income of the British Lifeboat Institution for this year is over $1,550,000, the highest figure ever known, and Britons declare the lifeboat men's bravery also reached a new peak.

Controls Are Suggested For Menace of Field Mice

Ithaca—The season when field mice do the greatest damage to orchards and gardens is close at hand, and only a constant war against them will prevent the loss of millions of dollars to agriculture.

Common to almost all of New York State, field mice take more dollars out of the farmer's pocket than any other wild animal except the rat, according to Professor W. R. Eadie of Cornell University.

Main damage done by mice is the girdling of fruit trees in fall, winter and spring, when there is little green vegetation for mice to eat. Control of the mice must be accomplished in fall, before snowfall, to be effective. Mechanical protectors, clean cultivation, trapping, poisioning, hunting, and natural enemies of mice may all be used to get rid of them.

Mechanical protectors of wire screen, burlap or paper may be wrapped about the trunks of trees. Cinders or sand may be placed about the base of each tree to prevent burrowing by the mice, under cover of grass.

Trapping will control mice only in small orchards or gardens. Poisons are most effective in large orchards. Both poison baits and traps must be placed in the runways of the mice to be effective.

Persons who want further information on mouse control may write to the Office of Publications of the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y., for a copy of a new War Emergency Bulletin 50, 'Field Mouse and Rabbit Control."

Bookmakers Defended

Protest against defrauding bookmakers was voiced by Judge J. H. Campbell of Belfast, Northern Ireland, when he sentenced Andrew M'Carroll to a month's imprisonment. M'Carroll was accused of altering a better document. The jurist said bookmakers "pay their debts honestly, have plenty to contend with, and are not to be shot at" in pronouncing sentence.

TRADE MARK REG.

Loyalty

Loyalty is a mighty word. It is a postive word. It rings true. Loyalty means that one will work with the same degree of intensity when the boss is absent as when he is present.

Loyalty brings men and women to their places of employment and keeps them there till quitting time and after, if necessary. Loyalty goes home with you. It persuades you to so use your hours of unemployment that your physical and mental standard are not lowered during the hours of employment.

Loyalty puts you to bed early. It teaches you and shows you that your duty is not only to work for your employer, but to guard his interests as well.

Wife—The new nurse is very scientific. She never lets any one kiss the baby when she is around.

Husband—Who would want to?

ALL PEOPLE. It is becoming apparent that trade unionism must learn the same lesson it was necessary to teach capital, namely that its own selfish interests cannot be advanced at the expense of society. This nation is still greater than any of its component parts.

Big Soldier—Shine, boy.

The boy looked down at the vast expanse of boot before him.

Shine Boy—Bert, gimme a hand—I've got an army contract.

Have you heard about the baby Kangaroo? He ran off and left his mother holding the bag.

Fred—Did anyone ever tell you how wonderful you are?

Marge—Don't believe they ever did.

Fred—Then, where did you get the idea?

I am not afraid of tomorrow because I have known yesterday and I love today.

—Wm. Allen White.

Divorce will continue to be popular as long as marriages are put on the inside pages and divorces on the front pages.

No country can long endure half Knave and half Spree.

Political indifference is far more dangerous than political differences.

A good loser is a bad sport—he takes away half the joy of winning from the victor.

One reason why the old songs are best is because no one sings them any more.

English Woman (in Scotland)—I want a sheep's head, and it must be English.

Butcher (flinging a head to his assistant)—Here, Jack, take the brains out o' this.

In the United States there are 1,030 "career" women who have taken up law. There are also several million other women who lay it down.

The adult age is when you've stopped growing at both ends, but not in the middle.

Newburgh Is Listed

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—The War Production Board yesterday placed Newburgh, N. Y., on its defense housing critical area list. The designation entitles an area to priority assistance for construction of dwelling units for war workers and families of military personnel. The designation for Newburgh was confined to rehabilitation work.

Commission for Post-War Public Works Planning

Board Also Has Embarked Upon Program of Municipal Work for After War.

Tentatively deciding upon a program of post-war public works projects totalling $755,000,000, the Temporary State Commission for Post-War Public Works Planning recently provided funds for the preparation of plans of approximately $13,000,000 of construction in various state institutions. This, added to the funds which have already been made available for the design of $60,000,000 of grade crossing elimination, $80,000,000 of public housing projects, $90,000,000 of highways and parkways, will make a reservoir at this time of plans for capital construction totalling some $243,000,000, which can be started immediately at the close of the war. In addition to this program, the commission expects to request the legislature during the next two years for sufficient funds so that plans can be prepared for some $222,000,000 more of construction — $107,000,000 for highways and parkways, $100,000,000 for state institutions, and $15,000,000 for miscellaneous work. Altogether this will make a total state program of post war projects aggregating $465,000,000.

In conjunction with the state program the commission has already embarked upon a program of municipal projects. Letters have been sent to all the communities requesting that they file with the commission a list of projects which they have planned, are planning, or would like to plan for post war construction. In order to aid the communities with plans which have not yet been prepared, the commission has agreed to recommend to the next legislature that sufficient funds be provided so that the state might contribute fifty per cent towards the cost of these plans. The commission has suggested that these projects be comparatively small so that they may be started quickly and so that the fund available can be spread throughout the state. It has also emphasized that these should be needed, worthwhile projects of a permanent nature. It is the commission's aim to develop a program of plans for local projects totalling some $290,000,000.

State Budget Director J. Buckley Bryan, chairman of the commission, in commenting upon this municipal program, stated: "I wish to urge all municipalities to file their projects with our commission. Naturally the old adage of "the early bird catches the worm" still applies. I would like to be able to have the first phase of our municipal program ready by the time the legislature meets next January so that when funds are available we will be in a position to allocate them without delay. Some people seem to believe that the purpose of this commission is to formulate an economic or social plan for the post war period. This is far from the intention of the legislature or the ideas of the members of the commission. The commission has a very definite, concrete purpose, and that is to develop a reservoir of plans of needed—yes, urgent—projects. In most cases the projects that already have been approved by the commission and for which moneys have been allocated for their plans are projects which would have been financed from current budget appropriations if the war had not come along. They are projects which would have now been deferred because of the war. They are not hypothetical projects developed by some visionary ideologist.

"Let me call your attention to one paragraph of a letter received from one of the soldiers at the front, as reported in Time magazine, October 12, 1942—'Personally, I think we shall win this war, but only after tens of thousands of people have been needlessly killed but let me offer this warning; — If this generation of soldiers returns home to a collapsed and chaotic economic system due to inflation, or any other cause that might easily have been prevented had the people but realized the dangers of their short-sightedness, we shall not stand docilely on street corners selling apples; we shall not ashamedly wait in line to receive bread, * * * .'

"This is exactly the situation which this commission is attempting to avoid. By preparing plans for needed, worthwhile projects, not "made work," the commission expects to be able to provide work for many of the people thrown out of employment because of the cancellation of war contracts, or because of the demobilization of an army. It also hopes that by such a program private industry will be stimulated at a time when such stimulation will be very badly needed.

"The preparation of a program of post-war public works projects by this commission is equivalent to purchasing insurance against a period of unemployment such as was experienced during the late "thirties." In view of these circumstances, I earnestly urge that the localities submit to the commission as soon as possible their proposed post war projects."

Dewey's House Damaged

Pawling, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP)—Governor-elect Thomas E. Dewey's Quaker Hill home was damaged last night by a fire, the flames being confined to one outer wall. Fire Chief Ray Dalzell said the blaze evidently was caused by a defective brick in the living room fireplace. Firemen ripped away a section of the outside wall and quickly extinguished the flames. The chief estimated damage at about $100. Mrs. Dewey was home at the time. Her husband is in New York city.

FORBIDDEN PILGRIMAGE

Pity the poor government of India. The independence movement is giving it plenty of trouble from Gandhi and his Hindus. Heretofore the Mohammedan opposition has kept them on fairly good terms with their British rulers. Now the war has compelled the government to interfere with one of the most precious items in the Mohammedan creed, the pilgrimage to Mecca.

Every good Mohammedan is supposed at least once in his lifetime to visit Mecca, the sacred city of Arabia. Many go several times. From India have gone 1,000 pilgrims a year, necessarily traveling by sea. Now enemy submarines are making the ocean trip impossible.

Says the government: "A pilgrim ship is slow and crowded, and its sailings would be matters of public knowledge. A blackout cannot be enforced because most of the passengers cook, sleep and live on deck, so they cannot be included in a convoy. In case of a submarine attack, the loss of life would be heavy."

It is a hard chioce. To forbid the pilgrimage is to enrage the Indian Mohammedans. To permit it and undergo the sinking of one or more heavily laden pilgrim ships would have incalculable results. Facing two such alternatives, most people would rejoice that they were not governing India.

TOY BANK TROUBLE

Throw away the children's piggy banks and other small coin receptacles for the duration, urges M. J. Fleming, president of one of the Federal Reserve banks. They swallow up pennies and nickels until the mints are working 24 hours a day in a vain effort to keep up with them. They are draining away, by hundreds of tons, copper and nickel that American industry needs to produce war materials. By encouraging them, patriotic Americans are unconsciously doing an unpatriotic thing.

Empty those banks, but continue the saving in a better way. Listen to what he says.

"As a banker I have always been an apostle of thrift. Far be it from me to advocate rifling the baby's bank, although we are at war. But a valued contribution could be made to the war effort, without loss of thrift, if the piggy banks and sugar bowls were emptied, and the coins were used to buy War Savings Stamps or Bonds, or deposited in banks, were they would be available for use by the business man."

Tell the children that is good business, and they'll gain by it, because then their pennies will earn more cents and nickels.

THE LIQUOR RUSH

There haven't been lately any of the old "runs on the bank" that used to be so common, but there was a most terrific run on liquor stores in many cities last week. Some stores reported as much as $25,000 worth of retail business a day. There were long lines of customers, some of them waiting for hours, and in many stores nearly everything in stock was sold out. There were quarrels, too, over precedence in the waiting line.

The performance wasn't very admirable. It was caused by an approaching rise of 50 cents a quart on liquors. And it came as a surprise, because for years nearly all such stores, while doing a steady business, had been very unobtrusive.

The rush may continue, or be resumed on pay days, but there seems to be no sound reason for it. Intoxicating liquors are not produced any more; but there are supposed to be enough in storage to last for three or four years. By that time the war will probably be over and manufacture may be resumed.

AUTUMN THOUGHTS

There are compensations for nearly everything. The northerner finds it sad to see the leaves falling from the trees, but their dying beauty makes up for it. Eternal greenness would lose its charm. Fall blasts bring an occasional shiver, but they blow away summer's lethargy, stimulate physical activity, make work easier and enhance fireside pleasures. A field of snow is as lovely as a meadow full of flowers. Nearly all change is good in its own time. Even an occasional change for the worse gives a person, by contrast, more appreciation of his blessings.

Next to pain, perhaps the worst thing in life is monotony. Right now most of us can't have much to complain of on that score.

TROUBLE FOR JAPAN

We hear about our own shipping losses, and they are serious. Not so much is said about what the other fellow is suffering: yet that is an important part of the picture. Premier Tojo recently said that Japan needs 15 millions tons of shipping. Not more than four million tons are in service, and Japan's facilities do not permit of building more than half a million annually.

If that is true, the Japanese situation is serious. We are nibbling steadily at her scanty supply. With luck to aid us, her plight will be desperate before long.

DWINDLING FARM STATES

The war is already doing things to the population rank of the states. Census reports, just released, show that more than half the states have lost in the last 25 months. New York, Pennsylvania and Oklahoma are the chief sufferers.

The cause is the shift from farms to defense industries. For years the farming states have lost in population. A state like Iowa has steadily lost ground to more industrialized commonwealths.

If the war continues long, some striking redistributions will appear.

HOT FRUIT JUICE

Coffee weak and short? Tea fading away? Cocoa nearly gone? Well, what's the matter with starting breakfast with hot orange juice? Or grapefruit juice, if the breakfaster likes that better? Or pineapple if it's available? Or tomato? Or apple? Or grape?

The cold mornings call for hot drinks, and the native fruits are all available. Hot fruit juice, hot cakes with maple syrup—what could be sweeter or more satisfying?

It's surprising, when people once get used to the idea, how little driving they really have to do. And restful, too. And thrifty.

LEAN MEN LIVE LONGER

One hundred years ago the expectation of life was about forty years; today it is more than 65 years. A gain of 25 years in life span in less than one hundred years breaks all previous records. The fact that more babies are saved at birth and during the first year is one big factor in lengthening the life span; another is the saving of life from the infectious diseases of childhood by the use of vaccines. And now with the use of the sulfanilamide drugs, pneumonia, which formerly had a death rate of nearly ten per cent, has a death rate of less than three per cent.

It is, of course, true that if the lives of youngsters and young and middle-aged are prolonged, there will be twice as many older individuals to be cared for than at present. This means that more cases of heart disease, cancer and diabetes will occur.

What can be done to prevent these three diseases that are so frequent at and immediately after middle age? While infection can cause or aggravate these three diseases, overeating and the acquiring of much excess weight is a most important factor. Fortunately, overweight can be prevented by care and sacrifice on the part of the individual and proper treatment of difficult cases by the family physician.

By leaving the table when still hungry, eating more leafy vegetables instead of potatoes and bread, using skimmed milk instead of cream, and by taking more exercise, overweight can be prevented. It is also known that overweights are poor surgical risks and throw off ailments slowly.

Aside from the above diseases caused or aggravated by overweight is the matter of the life span. In his book 'Diabetic Manual', Dr. E. P. Joslin has an illustration showing how ten fat men and ten lean men, aged thirty, fare as they walk through life. At the age of forty there are 9 fat men and 9 lean men living; at fifty there are only 6 fat men but still 9 lean men; at seventy there are three fat men and 5 lean men; and at eighty there is one fat man and three lean men living.

The lesson then is that if we want to feel well, be able to play or work at our best, and live longer, we should avoid overweight.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

Christmas Is Coming!

Babson Sees Good Holiday Trade

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 6—Though Christmas is a few weeks ahead, the holiday buying season is already at hand. When the gong rings and the scores are added up, dollar sales, and the size of the crowds jamming into stores everywhere will make impressive totals. Probably this year all previous records will be broken. The most important factors are: Money in circulation, widespread employment, coming rationing and scarcities of merchandise, heavy buying for men in the armed services, and a determination on the part of millions of families to, "Shoot the works" this year if never again!

Cash to Spend

Money in circulation per individual in this country has risen from $59.50 in 1940 to $103.38 on the same fall date in 1942. Total currency in the hands of the public is now over $13,854,000,000 and is expanding at the rate of over $400,000,000 per month. This does not include individually-owned funds on deposit in savings, checking, or Christmas Club accounts. Furthermore, no allowance is made for the improved credit position of millions of shoppers whose names are now in good standing on the books of merchants.

Millions of families are today enjoying the largest incomes they have ever had. Rural sections as well as defense areas are participating in the employment and profits boom. Wages for the country as a whole have increased more than $1,000,000,000 a month for the past two years. Total such disbursements for the current year will be in the neighborhood of $75,000,000,000. Incomes from other sources may swell this to a national income of $117,000,000,000. Hence, from a spending point of view merchants should have nothing to worry over.

Effect of Coming Scarcities

No ration books containing coupons governing the purchase of clothes, other types of soft or even hard goods, luxuries, and other kinds of merchandise will be pulled on the public until after the holiday season. Right now stores are able to offer a wide assortment of goods. Again I refer you to the advertisements in your local papers to substantiate this fact. What the future holds is highly problematical. We know that the manufacture of many civilian goods has topped. Production of much other merchandise is decreasing. Until the War's end, 1942 will mark the high point in the value of available goods for retail distribution.

Entirely aside from the customary purchase of gifts, shoppers have a real excuse for stocking up on durable goods and are justified in doing so. Among the items that may bulk large among purchases this year are luxury goods, particularly jewelry and precious stones; shoes, family clothing, women's wear, furniture and household furnishings; such electrical appliances as are available, including radios; dry goods, and notions. In spite of the millions of men in uniform, sales of men's furnishings should rank high. Paint and hardware items, not usually classified as Christmas purchases, should enjoy heavy sales.

Gifts for Service Men

This is the first Christmas in twenty-five years that we have had an opportunity to "go to town" for members of the family, relatives and friends who are at war. For weeks past gift packages have been leaving our shores for fighting men abroad. More will go and a great quantity will likewise be distributed to the boys in camps here. We are all determined that each and every service man wherever located shall be remembered with some kind of a gift this year. Incidentally, in this connection, consult your shopping service or local department store manager for a list of the things that these men will most appreciate.

Service men in training or on active duty, need and deserve all of the comforts of ordinary life that those at home can send them. Thus, automatically the armed forces of any nation open up greater avenues and markets of trade. Hence, do not delay in purchasing, wrapping, and sending off your gifts. More entertaining will be done this Christmas season. Many a boy will have a Christmas furlough and bring a pal for dinner. Families without a boy in service will invite some lonesome lad for a real old-fashioned Christmas. In preperation for this, local fruit, grocery, and chain store sales will be heavy.

Not the Last Christmas

Because many families were deprived of various goods and services in recent past years they feel, due to the effects of more cash in the pocket and the cleaning up of back bills, that this year they will make up for deprivations of the past. Gone are the apple sellers, bread lines, groups of unemployed, the dust bowl, and the "oakies." Families are entitled to enjoy themselves but times are too precarious to have this Christmas season representative only of a spending spree and of a grand good time. When December 25 comes let us pause and remember that the day we are really celebrating is the birth of Jesus. Besides this all else pales.

Let us also remember that because of our belief in Christianity of which the Christmas Day is a symbol, we are engaged in this war. We shall win without a doubt but not until we get down and back to true fundamentals. Next year may bring a better or a more difficult Christmas season, but whatever comes we should pray for the faith, the courage, the spiritual and the financial reserves to weather it. To be practical, I would suggest that while we freely give this year to others, we hang on to some of our cash for another Christmas which may not be so bright.

Democrats Have Their Own Crisis and It Is One of Internal Hatching, Due to Abuse of Power

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 6—The Democratic party is faced today with a crisis from within. Its defeat is due largely to the arbitrary and capricious manner in which left-wingers possessed of vast powers over the citizenry have abused their positions, especially in wartime. Unless the leadership of men like Jim Farley, who foresaw the reaction of the New Deal and tried to stem the tide, is taken, there will be a worse defeat for the Democrats in 1944.

This is the kind of comment one is hearing nowadays on Capitol Hill, where, among the Democrats in particular, the feeling is one of resentment and bitterness against presidentially appointed administrators who, without experience with the psychological reactions of the public gained in running for office, have piled up red tape and restrictions without warrant of law and without regard to the effects on the electorate.

Basically, the Democrats in Congress from the south, who are non-radical, are the ones who are loudest in their protestations that the defeat of their northern brethren is due to mismanagement of the civilian economy by New Dealers. Renewed demand is being made that the 40-hour-week law be amended and that the tremendous expense of time-and-a-half in overtime either be curtailed or at least revised so that longer work weeks can solve the manpower shortage.

There is a revival, too, of criticism of the operations of the draft law, with its unfair quota system and lack of uniformity in applying occupational deferments, especially as they relate to farm labor. Administration of the draft probably played as big a part as any single thing in arousing resentment among the voters, unless perhaps it was the way Washington officials bungled the rubber situation and gasoline rationing.

There is no doubt that the New Dealers have a defense for their acts and that many wartime restrictions were necessary, but they ignored the necessity of informing the public and advising it of the sacrifices needed to attain the wartime objectives. Thus for instance, the press would have been willing and indeed has been anxious to cooperate in every way with the government in helping to prepare the people for wartime restrictions. But the administration seemed to think it was more important to start a fight with the newspapers by making more than a thousand of the publishers of daily newspapers defendants in a lawsuit over ancient issues that could have waited to post-war days for settlement.

The administration's policy toward the press—a most important channel of communication between the government and the people—just doesn't make sense. The President, as the leader of the Democratic party, has taken occasion to antagonize the press, and after his recent inspection trip he did not fail to accuse writers and editors of telling lies to the public. This is hardly a means of winning the cooperation of the press, because people don't become enthusiastic cooperationists in America after being beaten over the head with a crowbar.

It is fair to say that the press has been critical, but in a democracy the way to avoid criticism is to see to it that the evidence which gives rise to the criticism is met by corrective or remedial policies. Sensitiveness and resentments have no place in governmental operations. It is most unfortunate that in wartime the administration should be believed by many publishers to be carrying on a feud because the Associated Press happened to deny membership to a newspaper politically allied with the administration.

The congressional election results will stir up domestic issues and point a warning finger against the bureaucrats who have been riding high here in Washington in utter disregard of the people's wishes. The war effort will not be impaired, but actually assisted when the new Congress takes office in January. The Republicans, together with a group of southern Democrats, will control the House. Undoubtedly there will be a wave of investigations to get at the manner in which public power has been used by the bureaucrats. Heretofore, the administration has been able to squelch practically every attempt to get at the facts.

In the Senate there will be a coalition majority, too. The spirit of the new majority will be one of prodding to get things done quickly and shorten the war. Too many people have been writing to Washington saying they believe the war is being prolonged unduly and that a more efficient mechanism would have gotten ships and planes and munitions manufactured much sooner and at a much less cost than has been the case to date.

By JOHN SELBY

"THE LAST MAN COMES HOME," by Stephen Longstreet.

In all the stacks of half-raw boks on how to win the war, how to win the peace and what Hitler said to Putzi on the first of October, 1934, it is a relief to find something you can laugh at. Something like Stephen Longstreet's "The Last Man Comes Home."

It is true that a confirmed looker for meanings can discover a meaning in Mr. Longstreet's book. It is a kind of composite picture of the parts of America he has been visiting the last few years—the cabooses of freight trains, Boston, Hollywood and innumerable bus stops. I suppose Mr. Longstreet's moral may be that America, for all its vagaries, is a pretty darn good place after all. But me—I just read the book for fun.

It is fun. The author is a man who can throw any handful of syllables into the air and have them come down in amusing order. Sometimes he does it with an idea in mind, and sometimes just to see what the tea leaves say. Either way is fascinating. He used the same method in "Last Man Around the World," which was the story of a world cruise undertaken just before the world was made unfit for cruising. Now he uses the same method again, and even part of the same title.

Take James Peachpit, Mr. Longstreet has sequestered himself somewhere in Yellowstone Park or territory contiguous. He did this to write a novel, which is scheduled for publication next season. After a certain period of time he got restless, found a boat recently constructed by James Peachpit, and engaged that Indian to pilot him down the Yellowstone river to the Missouri, and down that stream to St. Louis. James Peachpit provides one of the best sections—he got drunk and disrupted an entire town, ending up in a butcher's icebox carving steaks off beef quarters.

You take James Peachpit. Quite honestly, I doubt some of his exploits, and would not be surprised at all if the entire journey took place in the limitless confines of Mr. Longstreet's head. I suspect he could see more and tell it more amusingly in a hotel room than most of us could were we to walk the continent.

And he writes as if his typewriter spurted champagne.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Professional football attracted the attention of grid fans in the fall of 1927, when the Yellow Jackets were reorganized and played many thrilling games with strong out of town teams at the Kingston Fair Grounds.

Manager Bill Dwyer was in charge of the Yellow Jackets that year and included in the lineup were such local football stars as Vince Rice, Earl McLane, Sammons, L. O'Reilly, "Big Bill" O'Reilly, Clark, Carroll, Joe Hoffman, Colvin, Cirone and Lee Hasbrouck.

W. Scott Van Keuren, who served the newly organized Board of Public Works as its first superintendent, during the administration of Mayor Palmer Canfield, in October, 1927, filed his resignation with Mayor E. J. Dempsey. Mr. Van Keuren served under three mayors as superintendent of the board—Mayors Canfield, Morris Block and E. J. Dempsey.

Mr. Van Keuren proved one of the most efficient men ever to serve that board as its superintendent.

I recall that on October 6, 1907, Bethany Chapel on Washington avenue, celebrated its 50th anniversary with an appropriate program.

I also recall that the corner stone of the new Franklin street A.M.E. Zion Church was laid with appropriate ceremonies on October 16, 1927.

This church was founded in 1848 and for many years the old edifice stood on Broadway at the corner of Franklin street, and in 1863 was moved to the present location on Franklin street. In 1927 the old church was torn down and the present fine edifice erected.

The cornerstone ceremonies were held in the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon, October 16, 1927, where addresses were made by Charles Ramsey, chairman of the citizens' building committee, which helped raise the funds to erect the new church; the Rev. Dr. Stephen A. McNeil, presiding elder of this district, and the Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe, president of the Kingston Ministerial Association.

Following the services in the church the congregation walked to the site of the new church where the cornerstone was laid.

The Rev. E. O. Clarke was serving the Franklin street church at that time, and had been called as pastor of the church in 1920.

FATHER OF 6 FINED

Because he believed a clairvoyant, a father of six received an $80 fine for bigamy. John William Bonvill Evans, 65, told a Glasgow, Scotland, court the clairvoyant informed him his wife, whom he had not seen for 24 years, was dead. He then married the soothsayer.

Wiltwyck Chapter Gives Skit On First Gathering of Group

A large attendance of members was present at the monthly meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., yesterday afternoon as the chapter continued in the celebration of its 50th year with a special program. Mrs. William Macgregor Mills, regent, presided.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Clair S. Sheaffer, chairman of the Ellis Island Committee, announced that the next meeting would be the Christmas meeting when the members would be asked to bring gifts for the Ellis Island work. Since the work is being done among young Merchant Marine men who are being hospitalized on the island and among the Coast Guard men who are stationed there, the materials desired are somewhat different from those given in previous years.

Mrs. William Finch, chairman of the National Defense Committee, announced that her committee had contacted all members in regard to the donation for the blood plasma work. She also announced that the box would be at each meeting for War Bond and Stamp purchase notations.

The time of meetings was changed from 3 o'clock to 2:30 p. m. and the new time will go into effect at the next meeting, December 3. Mrs. Mills spoke on the death last month of William Tyler Page, author of the American's Creed. She also made an appeal for blood donors in the city and members are requested to contact Dr. Taylor at the City Laboratory. She also requested members to save all cancelled stamps for the war relief work.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Mills introduced Mrs. Lloyd LeFever, program chairman, who in turn presented Mrs. Charles Terwilliger as director of the day's program. Mrs. Terwilliger gave a brief outline of the program. Several of the members re-enacted the first gathering of the chapter at the home of Miss Mary Isabella Forsyth, organizing regent. This meeting took place February 18, 1892. Mrs. Terwilliger also announced that there were three women at the meeting, yesterday, who were in the first group: Miss Helen Westbrook, Mrs. William Davis who was then Miss Elizabeth Deyo, and Mrs. Philip Elting who was then Miss Catherine Ridenour. Mrs. Elting's name appears on the charter as the first secretary of the chapter.

The list of members who were present at the first gathering are: Mrs. Van Deusen, Miss Sarah Reynolds, Mrs. Julia Dillon, Mrs. F. J. R. Clarke, Mrs. John Searing, Mrs. William Kenyon, Miss Kate Westbrook, Miss Sarah Bernard, Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. F. A. Waters, Miss Mary Isabella Forsyth, Miss Katherine B. Forsyth, Miss Petronella Forsyth, Miss Mary Livingston.

The skit as arranged by Mrs. Terwilliger and Mrs. R. R. Gross did not include all of these personages since the plot was a compilation of the early events of the chapter. The cast was as follows:

Miss Mary Isabella Forsyth	Mrs. Burdette R. Tuttle
Miss Sarah Reynolds	Mrs. James Scott
Mrs. William Kenyon	Mrs. G. N. Wood
Mrs. Burhans	Mrs. Lancelot Phelps
Mrs. Searing	Miss Sarah Hasbrouck
Miss Bernard..	Mrs. W. Dean Hays
Mrs. Bruyn	Mrs. E. O. Allen
Miss Livingston	Mrs. Philip Elting
Mrs. Maude Young Hasbrouck ..	Mrs. R. R. Gross

At this first meeting as portrayed yesterday, the business conducted was sending for the charter, naming of the chapter, Wiltwyck, the meeting place to be at the Forsyth home on the first Thursday of each month. A collection of Revolutionary antiques was to be made in the Senate House as a nucleus for a museum. Contributions were gathered of silver, gold, copper and 200 pennies for the Liberty Bell at Columbian Exposition held in Chicago. The skit closed with appropriate remarks by Miss Forsyth and Mrs. Hasbrouck sang "Long, Long Ago," "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Augustus H. Van Buren accompanied Mrs. Gross as she impersonated Mrs. Hasbrouck.

The second part of the program was composed of brief accounts given by each of the living regents as introduced by Mrs. Terwilliger. Regents giving these reports of events in their administrations were Mrs. Philip Elting, Mrs. William M. Davis, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, Mrs. G. N. Wood, Miss Louise van Hoevenberg's report was read by Mrs. Terwilliger, Mrs. Burdette R. Tuttle and Mrs. Terwilliger, herself.

RETURNING AN EMPLOYER'S INVITATION

The impulse to return hospitality with like hospitality is both natural and proper, but on occassions it is also proper that returns be made in nothing more than personal helpfulness and appreciation. This, in part, answers the following letter: "One of the executives in our office has at various times invited members of the office staff, the members of their families to a Sunday buffet luncheon. One other woman in the office is married and we are both housekeeping, but very modestly. We feel perhaps since we have our own homes that we should make some return for all this past kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Employer. But we hesitate. They live so differently from the way we do. We wonder if you would help us to decide what we should do — or what we could do—that would be in keeping with the situation?"

In answer you are really not expected to return hospitality. It would probably make Mrs. Employer feel very uncomfortable should you do so. If there is something that you can do for her that you happen to know would please her,—somewhere you can ask her to go, something you could get for her, or make for her, in return for a number of courtesies, this would surely be appreciated. By the way though, don't misunderstand my saying "no return is expected" as being personal to you. Return in kind is not expected for any big party even by nearest neighbors living in houses that duplicate her own.

An Occasion When Clothes Should Have Been Specified

Dear Mrs. Post: Not long ago my husband and I were invited to a wedding in the evening—at eight o'clock. Our invitation to the wedding and reception was given to my husband at the office over the telephone with the explanation that it was to be very small and held in the Chapel of the Church. We knew the groom would have to wear service uniform. This fact added to the informality of a telephoned invitation resulted in our not wearing evening dress. Unfortunately we were the only ones present who were not in strictly formal evening dress. Don't you think that we should have been told to wear evening dress?

Answer: Ordinarily they would not notify you because it would be taken for granted that at an evening wedding evening clothes would be expected. But under the circumstances you describe especially those concerning the uniform of the bridegroom, I think you were quite right in supposing that very simple clothes would be worn. In other words I wouldn't feel chagrined if I were you.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Do You Know Your ABC's in Manners?" Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Refers to Residence Here in First World War

In a recent issue of The Freeman appeared a picture of Cadet W. Eustice Canfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kenneth Canfield, a grandson of Dr. W. E. E. Little, late of this city, and also a grandson of James E. Canfield of Schenectady, a former resident of this city and during the first World War secretary and treasurer of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, and city treasurer here in 1918.

During the first World War J. Kenneth Canfield, son of James E. Canfield, served in the armed forces of his country as his son is doing now. In addition a second grandson of James E. Canfield is now serving in the armed forces. Lester V. Adams, Jr., entered the armed services by enlistment and is now in the Air Corps stationed at Lowry Field, Denver, Colorado. Two grandsons of the late Mrs. James E. Canfield are in the army service. In a letter to The Freeman, Mr. Canfield refers to his residence here in his native city during the first World War days and while he served as city treasurer and in the Chamber of Commerce. He also writes of his recollections of "pleasant associations in civic and home front war service, with the efficient city editor of The Freeman" during that period.

3-B's Can Be Had For War Plant Work

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP).—Three-A men can become 3-B's by getting a job in a war plant, even if it's only as elevator pilot.

Selective service officials say they hope to induce large numbers of men now holding nonessential jobs to shift to war work by offering them longer draft deferment.

A barber classified as 3-A because he has dependents, for example, should be reclassified as 3-B if he goes to work in an airplane factory, regardless of the nature of the job.

Russians Improve Stalingrad Front

Operations on Black Sea Continue; 1,000 Nazis Slain in Caucasus

Moscow, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Russians said today counterattacking garrison troops had improved their positions somewhat in a Stalingrad factory area while the Red Army maintained active operations on the Black Sea front and slew 1,000 invaders in the battle for the central Caucasus.

Two companies of tank-supported Nazi infantrymen were declared smashed as Russian forces struck across a debris-littered expanse of north Stalingrad after repulsing enemy attacks.

Russian artillerymen destroyed eight German tanks by point blank fire and Soviet fliers struck heavily at German troop positions, the noon communique said.

Bombs and gunfire of the Russian aircraft were reported to have destroyed 13 enemy batteries and 28 machine-gun positions within 24 hours.

Three more batteries were silenced and 19 German dugouts and blockhouses were wrecked by Soviet shells on the Steppes northwest of Stalingrad, it was announced.

The Moscow radio reported that the defenders of the city, in a letter expressing determination to fight to the last heart beat, said that "we are sure the time is not far off when we shall hear of the opening of a second front."

The letter was addressed to Premier Stalin. Delivered on the eve of the 25th anniversary of the Bolshevist Revolution, it expressed confidence that the troops would "deal a crushing blow to the enemy from Stalingrad."

"The entire world is watching our struggle," it said. "The voices of our allies are reaching us from all corners of the globe, expressing admiration for our resistance. Accepting this moral aid, we are sure the time is not far off when we shall hear of the opening of a second front. This will be not only a moral but a real support for the defenders of Stalingrad and will hasten and help achieve victory over the enemy."

Hawaii to Export Japanese to America

Honolulu, T.H., Nov. 6 (AP)—Hawaii is going to become more self-sufficient and have fewer Japanese mouths to feed under plans disclosed by the islands' military commander, Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons.

"We are taking no chances with the security of these islands," General Emmons said in announcing the new program yesterday, "enough chances were taken before December 7 and we are not going to be foolish again if I can help it."

He announced the appointment of Walter F. Dillingham as director of food production on the islands and disclosed that some of Hawaii's 161,000 Japanese soon would be evacuated to the American mainland.

"I want to make two points clear," General Emmons told reporters in commenting on the evacuation program. "First, it will not be a mass movement like that on the Pacific coast, second, it will be on a resettlement plan movement to areas where schools and employment will be available. And we don't plan to evacuate very many.

"We do not propose to interfere with the economy of the islands, but we would like to get rid of as many non-production people as we can. The islands are overcrowded."

General Emmons said 10,000 cases of liquor and hundreds of tons of turkey were being sent here for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Portland Faces Meat Shortage

Only Week's Supply Remains Under Quotas

Portland, Ore., Nov. 6 (AP)—Portland's war-whetted appetite, growing daily as new workers arrive and threaten to pop the city's seams, today faced the prospect of meatless days—not once a week, but for the rest of the year.

Whatever the cause—a dispute rages on that point—only about one week's supply of meat remains under Office of Price Administration quotas for November and December.

Gov. Charles A. Sprague wired a protest to Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and also asked Sen. Charles A. McNary to put on pressure in Washington to relieve the shortage.

Morton Tompkins, master of the Oregon State Grange, charging Washington with "woefully inadequate knowledge of food problems," said something must be done. And all small meat packing firms in the city said that unless it were done right away they would close down, and that was that.

Meanwhile, Portland's thousands—almost 200,000 more than during peacetime and many of them hungry shipyard laborers—looked on dazed while the controversy over what caused the shortage grew white hot.

Richard Montgomery, Oregon O. P. A. director, blamed the packers. He said they paid little or no attention to the O. P. A. quotas, went right ahead and butchered the rest of the year's allotted supply.

The packers said flatly that the O. P. A. quotas were ridiculously inadequate for the city's growing population, that they couldn't operate on a part time basis anyway.

O. P. A. quotas, they contended, meant handling an insufficient volume of meat which would preclude running their plants day in and day out. As soon as they shut down for a few days, they said, their labor would quit and take steady jobs in the shipyards.

So all the small packers got together and announced they would close down—for good—November 13, which would leave only the big Swift and Armour plants operating. But they hastened to add that they really didn't mean it, that it was mostly big talk to force the O. P. A. to boost the quotas.

Today they wondered if they really did mean it and didn't know it.

Haight Must Die In Electric Chair

Jury of Six Women, Six Men Finds Him Guilty

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 6 (UP)—Seventeen-year-old Edward Haight must die in the electric chair for the slaying of two little sisters.

The Stamford, Conn., laborer smiled in Westchester county court yesterday when a jury of six men and six women found him guilty on two, first degree murder charges. The verdict carries a mandatory death sentence.

The jurors deliberated 96 minutes after hearing testimony as to how Haight on September 14 lured Margaret, 7, and Helen Lynch, 8, into a stolen station wagon, tried to rape one, maltreated the other, and tossed both into Westchester waters to drown.

One of the children was found in a shallow stream near their Bedford Village, N. Y., home. Haight directed police to the second in nearby Kensico reservoir.

Throughout the trial, Haight retained the carefree attitude he had displayed ever since his arrest, and while the defense and prosecution summed up their cases, he frequently nodded agreement.

The defense retained a psychiatrist in an attempt to prove that Haight was insane, but the state called two psychiatrists who testified that the youth knew what he was doing.

When District Attorney Elbert T. Gallagher displayed a photograph of the children's bodies, two jurors wiped away tears.

Haight laughed.

He will be sentenced next Tuesday.

For Trained Experts, Says President of Investors

Minneapolis, Nov. 6—Health, foundation of the nation, will demand the most trained experts after the war, declared E. E. Crabb, president of Investors Syndicate, here today in reporting on predictions of 346 American colleges, technical schools and universities.

"Nearly one of every three predictions by American educators on post-war demands for trained experts, perhaps reflecting the maxim, 'health alone is victory', forecast health or allied activities," continued Mr. Crabb. "Over a fifth of the replies mentioned business or associated fields. Natural sciences received 18.4%, other professions 13.2%, social work 6.4%, miscellaneous experts 3.6%, and government specialists 3.4%, of the total mentions.

"Ten occupations accounted for 72.36 per cent of the total mentions in the list of 65 specific types of experts. The number of times such experts were mentioned and their percentages to the total follow: doctors 118, or 11.6%; engineers 104, or 10.2%; foreign trade specialists 99, or 9.7%; nutritionists and social workers each 54, or 5.3%; occupational therapists 46, or 4.5%; dentists 37, or 3.5%; economists 33, or 3.2%; and business administrators 31, or 3 per cent."

A summary of predictions on demands for trained experts, after victory and peace, with co-educational, men's, and women's schools combined, by groups, follows:

GROUP	Mention	% To Total
Health	334	32.8
Business	228	22.4
Natural Sciences	188	18.4
"Other" professions	132	13.0
Social Workers	65	6.4
Miscellaneous	36	3.6
Government	34	3.6
Total Mentions		1,017

Medicine Leads in Men's Schools

"What trained experts will be most in demand after the war?" the nation's higher educational institutions were asked. Three hundred and forty-six schools—261 coeducational, 54 women's and 31 men's—replied, many of them mentioning more than one type of experts in their aggregate of 1,071 mentions.

Doctors led the list in both coeducational and men's colleges. Teachers headed the list in women's schools. Engineers came second in both coeducational and men's universities, while nutritionists held that place in women's institutions. Foreign trade ranked third in both coeducational and men's faculties, though sixth in women's colleges. Medical technologists took third place in schools exclusively for women.

"Doctors received 15, or 16.1% of the 93 mentions predicted by exclusively men's schools," continued Mr. Crabb. "Others mentioned and their percentages in the men's school predictions follow: engineers 13, or 14%; dentists, foreign traders, and teachers each 6, or 6.5%; clergymen, economists, and statisticians, each 4, or 4.3%; accountants, advertising experts, business administrators, and financiers, each 3, or 3.2%; agriculturists, distribution experts, government specialists, and social workers each 2, or 2.2%. Mentioned once each were: adjusters, lawyers, linguists, occupational therapists, physical educational trainers, pharmacists, transportation experts, veterinarians, and writers. These men's schools did not mention aviation.

Teaching Leads in Women's Schools

"Teaching got 23 mentions, or 17.8% of the 130 mentions from exclusively women's colleges. Other predictions by this school group included: nutritionists 17, or 13.1%; medical technologists 15, or 11.6%; social workers 14, or 10.8%; occupational therapists 11, or 8.5%; foreign trade specialists 8, or 6.2%; linguists 5, or 3.9%; doctors, economists, and nurses, each 4, or 3.1%; business administrators, chemists, and secretaries each 3, or 2.3%. Mentioned twice each were: agriculturists, dentists, and librarians. Those predicted once each included: aviators, international relations experts, lawyers, mathematicians, physicists physical educational trainers, physicitherapists, recreation workers, and statesmen.

themselves whether they will fulfill their commitments without pay, or take a rest.

One source, declining to be identified, said that several stars for a major studio had offered to work the remainder of the year without salary. Others, however, felt differently, opining they wouldn't mind working for nothing if the government were going to get the money but seeing no reason why the studios should benefit.

This school of thought is represented by Franchot Tone.

"When Franchot wants to work for nothing he'll work for the government," said his agent, Mike Levy, in disclosing Tone had cancelled his contract with Warner Brothers. And Paulette Goddard cancelled a scheduled radio appearance because she already has reached the ceiling.

The agents, those ubiquitous ten percenters, were watching the situation closely. Ten per cent of nothing is nothing.

PENNEY'S THRIFTY WAY IS THE AMERICAN WAY

Notre Dame Gets Nod Over Army Eleven for Saturday

L.S.U. Is Picked Over Rams; Lions Will Be Underdogs

Syracuse Is Slight Choice Over Penn State; Temple No Match for Strong Boston College

By HERB BARKER

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Taking the weekly aim in the general direction of football winners (and hitting some, perhaps):

Wisconsin-Iowa: Not as easy as some might think. It seems certain that Wisconsin will have lost some of its fine edge after the victory over Ohio State and Iowa boasts a real scoring punch when Tommy Farmer's pitching arm is in shape. Still, a vote for Harder, Hirsch, Schreiner and Wisconsin.

Notre Dame-Army: Normally this is close every year. It probably will be again. Despite the Penn defeat, Army is a well-rounded outfit and should extend the Irish to the limit. Doubtfully, Notre Dame.

Texas-Baylor: The upset of T. C. U. proved Baylor's class but even so this stubborn guesser goes along with Texas on this one.

Georgia-Florida: Frankie Sinkwich and his mates will have trouble getting "up" for this one but there is entirely too much class in the Georgia ensemble to permit any choice but Georgia.

Kentucky-Georgia Tech: Georgia Tech.

Temple-Boston College: If Boston's Eagles aren't the best team in the east, somebody will have to prove it to this corner. Boston College.

Pitt-Ohio State: Ohio State.

Indiana-Minnesota: The Gophers are clicking in accustomed style now and that spells trouble for the Hoosiers. Minnesota.

South Carolina-Alabama: The gamecocks have been a disappointment. Alabama.

Penn Over Navy

Navy-Penn: Penn is the undisputed powerhouse of the East's Ivy Leaguers with a hard-bitten line and a set of great backs led by Bert stiff. No reason to expect Navy to do more than make it close. Penn.

California-Southern California: Throw out the form charts here. California seems to have pulled itself together finally. The Trojans have had two weeks to get ready. All of which leaves us just where we started. On the flip of a coin, Southern California.

Harvard-Michigan: Perhaps this will be no run-away but there's no reason to believe the easterners can cope successfully with the Wolverines. Michigan.

Missouri-Nebraska: A solid vote for Missouri.

Louisiana State-Fordham: This Fordham outfit is well below par. Despite last week's rout by Tennessee, we'll take a flier on L. S. U.

Mississippi State-Tulane: Tough enough. Out of the hat, Tulane.

Colgate-Columbia: Perhaps this is the spot for the Red Raiders to get back in winning stride. Colgate.

Yale Over Cornell

Cornell-Yale: If Wally Kretz returns to action there is a strong temptation to pick Cornell. Resisting the impulse, Yale.

Dartmouth-Princeton: No real surprise either way. Resorting to the coin. . . . Princeton.

Great Lakes-Purdue: The edge belongs to the sailors. Great Lakes.

Georgia Naval-Auburn: Ditto in this one. Georgia Naval.

Holy Cross-Brown: A timid vote for Holy Cross.

Mississippi-Vanderbilt: Stringing along with Vanderbilt.

Maryland-Duke: The Terrapins sprang a big upset at Florida's expense last week but this ballot is cast for Duke.

Michigan State-Washington State: It's a long ride for the Spartans and for that reason alone, Washington State.

Northwestern-Illinois: Illinois.

St. Mary's-Duquesne: Taking Duquesne.

Texas A. & M.-Southern Methodist: Having finally found the scoring combination maybe the Aggies can keep it. Texas A. and M.

Texas Christian-Texas Tech: Should be T. C. U.

Chalkline Predictions

North Carolina Naval-Georgetown: Taking the pre-flighters.

Rice-Arkansas: Looks like Rice.

Virginia Military-Wake Forest: Wake Forest.

Davidson-North Carolina: Taking North Carolina.

Skipping over the chalklines otherwise: Villanova over Iowa State; Tennessee over Cincinnati; Furman over Citadel; Clemson over George Washington; Iowa Naval over Ft. Knox; Oklahoma over Kansas State; Oregon State over Montana; Tulsa over Oklahoma A. and M.; William & Mary over Randolph-Macon; Virginia Tech over Richmond; Virginia over Washington & Lee; Kansas over Washington (St. Louis); Lafayette over Rutgers; Colorado over Utah; Colorado State over Utah State; Denver over Brigham Young; Marquette over Manhattan; Santa Clara over Loyola.

Robinson Favorite To Continue Streak Tonight in Garden

Harlem Hammerer to Box Vic Dellicurti in 10-Rounder; Bout on WOR at 10 P.M.

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Although Ray Robinson, Harlem's tap-dancing, zoot-suited fighter, is a 5 to 12 favorite to win his 38th consecutive professional bout tonight approximately 10,000 fans are expected for his 10-round scrap with Vic Dellicurti in Madison Square Garden. The fight will be broadcast over WOR at 10 o'clock.

It will be Robinson's second start in the middleweight ranks, having easily polished off Jake Lamotta recently.

The Harlem hammerer will take a 12-pound weight handicap into the ring with him against Dellicurti but expects to offset this with his heavier attack, longer reach and his greater height.

Dellicurti will weigh in the neighborhood of 156 while Robinson, who exhausted the supply of welterweight opposition while building up his victory string, will come in at about 144. Dellicurti, stopped only by Steve Belloise, is only a squat 5 foot seven, however, while Robinson towers to 5 feet, 11¾ inches.

Despite the general odds against him, Dellicurti is regarded by some as having the style which will trouble Robinson.

He is a sturdy, rugged two-fisted fighter who prefers to do his slugging at close range with the mid-section as the target. Although others have tried the same style of attack against Sugar Ray, he has gone unbeaten in 125 amateur and 37 pro bouts.

Nocando League Results

W. Relyea highlighted the bowling matches in the Nocando League at Emerick's alleys Wednesday night when he lashed out a solid 215 single and 581 series. His other scores were 198 and 168. Perc Slover crashed 515. Relyea sparked Scholls to two triumphs over Standards who had Jack Martin as top man with a 510.

Fredericks captured three straight from Emericks with Beatty doig the good work with a 196 single and 517 series, both high in the match. Mike Abdallah had a 465 for the losers.

The Wildcats took two from Eichlers as Ray Kubicek took honors with a 206 single and 515 triple. His other scores were 164 and 145. Ken VanEtten had a 505 for the winners. Bill Mohr's 503 topped the Eichlers.

Silver Palace League

Two bowlers in the Silver Palace League at Emericks took the divided limelight Wednesday night. Kuehnen of Teetsels blasted out a sizzling 236 single and wound up with a 525 series. Scott Vining of Vining and Smith posted a 544 triple.

Starting off the Joneses captured three from Vogels as Harold Broskie paced the winners with a 519 triple. George Robinson, who seemed pretty dumb-founded after the third game when he rolled a meagre 104, took high single honors with a 182 single in his first game. R. Halbert had a 465 for the losers.

Although Kuehnen featured with his nifty 236 single game, Teetsels dropped two games to the Shultis bowlers. Ray DuBois had a 517 series for the winners.

With Scott Vining doing some pretty efficient kegling, the Vining and Smith representatives walloped the Eichlers in two decisions. Vining had a 138, 219 and 187 for his 544. Earl Mellow followed with 514. Ken VanEtten of the losing club, posted a 531 series.

Wiltwyck League Notes

The veteran Ken Van Etten, popular bowler and secretary of various loops in this city, turned his attention to high scoring bowling last night at the Central Recreation alleys as he proceeded to walk off with high single and high triple honors in the Wiltwyck Bowling League.

Ken, who usually has his work cut out for him both during the regular bowling season and also in post-season work, saw the writing on the wall last night as he bowled anchor for Morgans against the Roller Rink squad. Van Etten registered a 229 single in his first try, giving the Morgan bowlers a win. Ken wound up with a sizzling 556 series, high all night. Joe Abdallah had a 627 series for the losers.

George Dougherty's 208 single and 523 triple paced the Roller Rinkers to two victories. Morgans were handicapped a total of 109 pins in each game.

Clark Hits 534

The Electrol No. 1 bowlers won two from the Rescuers as B. Clark pounded out a 200 single and 534 triple. Mike Provenzano helped out with a 201 single. Fred Ferraro was high for the losers with 524.

Nick LaLima's bowling helped the Go-Getters to two triumphs over the Helpers. Nick blasted out a 521 triple on a string of 188, 156 and 177. Engles had a 514. Haber's 490 was high for the Helpers.

The final match found the Electdol No. 2 keglers taking two from Merris. E. Muller had a 192 and 492 for the losers. J. Simmons' 436 took honors for the winning bowlers.

Major League Scores

Georgie Robinson, leadoff kegler for Doblers, played an unusual role last night in the Central Major League at the Rec alleys. Robbie blasted out a terrific 234 single game and finished with a blazing 636 triple, both marks taking the top perch in the results last night. Still, the Doblers were soundly beaten in all three games by the Hymes bowlers.

Hymes took the first game, 1023-920 as Robinson shot a 213 His team had 920. Hymes rolled 945 to the Doblers 847 in the second as Robbie was high again with 189. The Hymes club pounded out 918 to the Doblers' 887 in the final as George had a 234 single score.

Following Robinson's high were Lew Hymes with a 597 triple, Stan Winne with 579, Keuhn 547, Joe Hoffman 570 and Bill Mergendahl with 521. Rice had a 540 for the Doblers followed by Steve Breitfeller's 521.

Costello Hits 607

"Coke" Costello had a similar fate with the U. P. A team as he blasted a 216 single and 607 triple but his club managed to win one game from Steins. Larry Petersen, Jr., had a 601 for the winners. Naigles had 553 and Huck Svirsky 502, Lou Guadagnola and Phil Masters followed Costello with 550 and 535.

The Joneses, although Meyers had a 227 and 595 for the Trailways, won two games from that club. Smith paced the winners with a 566 while Ken Williams followed with 565. Alward had a 555. John Ferraro posted a 583 series for the Trailways. His high single was 224.

In the only other match last night Grunenwalds walloped Mickeys in two decisions. Again the high scorers were on the losing team. Joe Scholar had a 558 series for Mickeys while Dwight McEntee posted a 199 single. Charlie Grunenwald had a 529 triple for the winners.

Investigate Before You Donate, Says Mr. Lyon

Chicago, Nov. 6 (AP)—Citizens of major cities frequently are asked to contribute disporportionately large sums to fund raising campaigns, Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said today.

Lyon, formerly a professor of economics at the University of Chicago and for many years, executive vice-president of the Brookings Institution, said in an interview, that leading citizens who accept local sponsorship of drives ostensibly conducted nationally should investigate the extent of the campaign.

"They are approaching for additional contributions," Lyon stated, "a public already harassed by mounting taxes, by insistent appeals for purchase of war bonds and by rising living costs."

War Service Shrine To Be Dedicated

First Baptist Church Will Hold Special Service

Armistice Sunday is to be observed at the First Baptist Church by the dedication of a new "War Service Shrine" and an observance of communion in remembrance of those in the armed forces. The time of the service is 11 a. m.

A center alcove in the narthex of the church has been set aside to house the Service Shrine and when unveiled Sunday, will contain the service flag, a light which is to burn continuously until peace returns and a book of remembrance with the names, pictures and service records of all First Baptist men. Various individuals of the church have contributed the separate articles making up the Shrine. Their names will be revealed Sunday. At the very top of the Shrine there will appear the words, "They Shall Not March Alone" as a reminder to pray for the men in service and by acts of thoughtfulness to maintain their morale.

A feature of the Armistice Day communion is the fact that 25 men and young men, relatives and friends of those serving their country, will come forward as each name is read to sit in a reserved section of the church and receive communion for those in the armed forces. At this time the pastor will read a message from Corp. John A. Martin, now in the Officers Candidate School at Fort Benning, Ga., which was written by request especially for this service. The communion meditation will be given by the pastor, the Rev. H. Victor Kane, on the topic, "Not Yet, But—." A special musical program has been prepared by Mrs. Lester A. Decker, organist-director, and will include organ numbers. "Priere a Notre Dame" by Boellman and "Chansonette" by Thompson; an anthem, "O Land of Mine," by Mendelssohn; and a soprano solo, "There Is No Death," by O'Hara, to be sung by Miss Helen Schoonmaker.

There will also be an evening service Sunday at 7:30 o'clock, when the pastor will begin a series of messages on "The Revelation," a New Testament book which has been the subject of much interest, confusion and controversy. The theme for he entire series of sermons will be, "The Immortal Book With An Immediate Message."

A Day at Goldsboro Air Base

by Gurnsey Burger, Jr.

Up in the morning at the stroke of four,
Make my bed and sweep the floor;
Arrange my clothes, we're taught just how,
Then grab my mess kit and march to chow.
Back to the barracks at quarter to six,
To wash our hands and scour our kits;
Then sit down and wait for the whistle to blow,
For that's the signal to tell us to go.
From six to twelve we go to school,
To become mechanics by the Army rule;
Then off to dinner and when we're through,
We march back to the barracks and rest till two.
From two to three we have to march,
Then for an hour we do exercises,
To build up our bodies and strengthen our eyes.
From four to five we read our mail,
Or wash our clothes in a twelve quart pail;
We take a shower just before chow,
So we could pass an inspection if we had one now.
We do our home work from six to eight,
Or write letters home to the ones who wait;
Then off to bed, for our day is done,
To dream of the days after the war is won.

Controls Are Suggested For Menace of Field Mice

Ithaca—The season when field mice do the greatest damage to orchards and gardens is close at hand, and only a constant war against them will prevent the loss of millions of dollars to agriculture.

Common to almost all of New York State, field mice take more dollars out of the farmer's pocket than any other wild animal except the rat, according to Professor W. R. Eadie of Cornell University.

Main damage done by mice is the girdling of fruit trees in fall, winter and spring, when there is little green vegetation for mice to eat. Control of the mice must be accomplished in fall, before snowfall, to be effective. Mechanical protectors, clean cultivation, trapping, poisoning, hunting, and natural enemies of mice may all be used to get rid of them.

Mechanical protectors of wire screen, burlap or paper may be wrapped about the trunks of trees. Cinders or sand may be placed about the base of each tree to prevent burrowing by the mice, under cover of grass.

Trapping will control mice only in small orchards or gardens. Poisons are most effective in large orchards. Both poison baits and traps must be placed in the runways of the mice to be effective.

Persons who want further information on mouse control may write to the Office of Publications of the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y., for a copy of a new War Emergency Bulletin 50, "Field Mouse and Rabbit Control."

Bookmakers Defended

Protest against defrauding bookmakers was voiced by Judge J. H. Campbell of Belfast, Northern Ireland, when he sentenced Andrew M'Carroll to a month's imprisonment. M'Carroll was accused of altering a bettor document. The jurist said bookmakers "pay their debts honestly, have plenty to contend with, and are not to be shot at" in pronouncing sentence.

OFFICE CAT

TRADE MARK REG.

By Junius

Loyalty

Loyalty is a mighty word. It is a postive word. It rings true. Loyalty means that one will work with the same degree of intensity when the boss is absent as when he is present.

Loyalty brings men and women to their places of employment and keeps them there till quitting time and after, if necessary. Loyalty goes home with you. It persuades you to so use your hours of unemployment that your physical and mental standard are not lowered during the hours of employment.

Loyalty puts you to bed early. It teaches you and shows you that your duty is not only to work for your employer, but to guard his interests as well.

The instructor had just given a group of paratroop volunteers a lecture on handling parachutes.

Instructor—And if it doesn't open—well, men, that is known as "jumping to a conclusion."

One book that always has a sad ending is a check book.

Little Junior was suffering from a cold, so his mother gave him a bottle of cough mixture to take while he was at school. When he came home she asked him if he had taken his medicine regularly.

"Oh, no," replied Junior, "but Billy did. He liked it, so I swapped it for a handful of peanuts."

Wife—The new nurse is very scientific. She never lets any one kiss the baby when she is around.

Husband—Who would want to?

ALL PEOPLE. It is becoming apparent that trade unionism must learn the same lesson it was necessary to teach capital, namely that its own selfish interests cannot be advanced at the expense of society. This nation is still greater than any of its component parts.

Big Soldier—Shine, boy.

The boy looked down at the vast expanse of boot before him.

Shine Boy—Bert, gimme a hand—I've got an army contract.

Have you heard about the baby Kangaroo? He ran off and left his mother holding the bag.

Fred—Did anyone ever tell you how wonderful you are?

Marge—Don't believe they ever did.

Fred—Then, where did you get the idea?

I am not afraid of tomorrow because I have known yesterday and I love today.

—Wm. Allen White.

Divorce will continue to be popular as long as marriages are put on the inside pages and divorces on the front pages.

No country can long endure half Knave and half Spree.

Political indifference is far more dangerous than political differences.

A good loser is a bad sport—he takes away half the joy of winning from the victor.

One reason why the old songs are best is because no one sings them any more.

English Woman (in Scotland)—I want a sheep's head, and it must be English.

Butcher (flinging a head to his assistant)—Here, Jack, take the brains out o' this.

In the United States there are 1,000 "easter" women who have taken up law. There are also several million other women who lay it down.

The adult age is when you've stopped growing at both ends, but not in the middle.

Finding a dozen large eggs in a creek in northern Australia, an American soldier visioned a feast of young turtles and induced the camp cook to prepare them, but when the eggs were opened embryo crocodiles popped out, and the feast was called off.

Murray Calls Election His Personal Victory

Helena, Mont., Nov. 6 (AP)—Senator James E. Murray, claiming reelection, says he regards the Tuesday election result as a personal victory in the face of "powerful opposition of Senator Burton K. Wheeler's Democratic machine."

With unofficial results from all but 31 of Montana's 1,185 precincts counted, Murray, the state's junior Democratic senator, held a lead of 1,641 votes today over Republican Wellington D. Rankin.

Rankin has not conceded defeat.

Murray's statement last night said:

"I consider my election a personal victory . . . I was opposed by a strong Republican state organization and the powerful opposition of Senator Wheeler's Democratic machine, with a national trend against those in office."

Murray campaigned on promises to continue supporting the federal administration.

Senator Wheeler's office was not at stake Tuesday.

Board Also Has Embarked Upon Program of Municipal Work for After War.

Tentatively deciding upon a program of post-war public works projects totalling $755,000,000, the Temporary State Commission for Post-War Public Works Planning recently provided funds for the preparation of plans of approximately $13,000,000 of construction in various state institutions. This, added to the funds which have already been made available for the design of $60,000,000 of grade crossing elimination, $80,000,000 of public housing projects, $80,000,000 of highways and parkways, will make a reservoir at this time of plans for capital construction totalling some $243,000,000, which can be started immediately at the close of the war. In addition to this program, the commission expects to request the legislature during the next two years for sufficient funds so that plans can be prepared for some $222,000,000 more of construction — $107,000,000 for highways and parkways, $100,000,000 for state institutions, and $15,000,000 for miscellaneous work. Altogether this will make a total state program of post war projects aggregating $465,000,000.

In conjunction with the state program the commission has already embarked upon a program of municipal projects. Letters have been sent to all the communities requesting that they file with the commission a list of projects which they have planned, are planning, or would like to plan for post war construction. In order to aid the communities with plans which have not yet been prepared, the commission has agreed to recommend to the next legislature that sufficient funds be provided so that the state might contribute fifty per cent towards the cost of these plans. The commission has suggested that these projects be comparatively small so that they may be started quickly and so that the fund available can be spread throughout the state. It has also emphasized that these should be needed, worthwhile projects of a permanent nature. It is the commission's aim to develop a program of plans for local projects totalling some $290,000,000.

State Budget Director J. Buckley Bryan, chairman of the commission, in commenting upon this municipal program, stated: "I wish to urge all municipalities to file their projects with our commission. Naturally the old adage of "the early bird catches the worm" still applies. I would like to be able to have the first phase of our municipal program ready by the time the legislature meets next January so that when funds are available we will be in a position to allocate them without delay. Some people seem to believe that the purpose of this commission is to formulate an economic or social plan for the post war period. This is far from the intention of the legislature or the ideas of the members of the commission. The commission has a very definite, concrete purpose, and that is to develop a reservoir of plans of needed—yes, urgent—projects. In most cases the projects that already have been approved by the commission and for which moneys have been allocated for their plans are projects which would have been financed from current budget appropriations if the war had not come along. They are projects which would have now been deferred because of the war. They are not hypothetical projects developed by some visionary ideologist.

"Let me call your attention to one paragraph of a letter received from one of the soldiers at the front, as reported in Time magazine, October 12, 1942—'Personally, I think we shall win this war, but only after tens of thousands of people have been needlessly killed but let me offer this warning: — If this generation of soldiers returns home to a collapsed and chaotic economic system due to inflation, or any other cause that might easily have been prevented had the people but realized the dangers of their short-sightedness, we shall not stand docilely on street corners selling apples; we shall not ashamedly wait in line to receive bread. * * *.'

"This is exactly the situation which this commission is attempting to avoid. By preparing plans for needed, worthwhile projects, not "made work," the commission expects to be able to provide work for many of the people thrown out of employment because of the cancellation of war contracts, or because of the demobilization of an army. It also hopes that by such a program private industry will be stimulated at a time when such stimulation will be very badly needed.

"The preparation of a program of post-war public works projects by this commission is equivalent to purchasing insurance against a period of unemployment such as was experienced during the late "thirties." In view of these circumstances, I earnestly urge that the localities submit to the commission as soon as possible their proposed post war projects."

Dewey's House Damaged

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Stocks with a peace-time rating gave the best account of themselves in today's market as the crack-up of the Axis forces in Egypt revived faint visions of a quicker ending of the war than most had expected.

The list was somewhat ragged at the start. While many issues lacked bids, prices generally stiffened around mid-day and, with activity moderate, recoveries of fractions to a point or so predominated near the fourth hour.

In addition to the inspiration of the brightening international picture, trade buying based on the election results was reported. Light year-end selling persisted as a handicap.

Bonds and commodities steadied after early irregularity.

Among stocks International Telephone was a speedy sprinter, going into new high ground for the year along with General Motors. Others in the advancing ranks included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Kennecott, Homestake, du Pont, Westinghouse, General Electric, Boeing, American Telephone, American Locomotive, International Harvester, Texas Co., Johns-Manville, N. Y. Central and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Three Glasco Men Held on Rape Charges

James Amendola, 20, Bennie Rinaldi, 26 and Angelo Ferraro, 17, all of Glasco, were arrested Thursday at Glasco by Chief of Police Richter of Saugerties on charges of rape in the second degree. They were arraigned before Justice Ernest E. Schirmer of Saugerties, who held them for action of the grand jury. Amendola and Ferraro furnished bail and were released, while Rinaldi was held at the Ulster county jail.

a possibility that House Republicans and conservative Democrats might develop a joint drive not only to halt "New Idealism" but to erase some of its established works.

The first post-election session of the House heard demands from a Democrat and a Republican for repeal of the National Labor Relations (Wagner) Act and the Wage-Hour Law. On the other side of the capitol, Senator O'Daniel (D., Tex.) introduced a bill to suspend the 40-hour week for the duration "to help solve our manpower problem."

The strength that would be engendered behind a movement to knock down New Deal structures was doubtful, however, as many House members showed a disposition to avoid all controversy that might impede the war effort. Their attitude was voiced by Rep. Ramspeck of Georgia, the Democratic whip, who said:

"It seems to me Congress will devote itself almost exclusively to legislation designed to winning the war.

"I think the one thing we can agree on is our desire to win the war as quickly as possible and it will be wise if we postpone controversy over matters which make no direct contribution to the war effort until we finish that job."

While the Democrats retained control of the House in Tuesday's Republican sweep, the margin was so narrow that a federation of Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats can muster a majority whenever party lines are not involved.

Vandenberg described the elections as a demonstration of popular dissatisfaction with the conduct of the war, and declared the administration "should deal more openly with Congress" and with the country.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) attributed Democratic reverses to what he termed the New Deal's "passion for regulating people and their lack of talent for doing so."

Vice President Wallace visited President Roosevelt yesterday, and on leaving the White House told newspapermen the President was in "excellent spirits."

"The breath-taking thing about it," he said, "is the success of the President in holding both Houses through six elections."

Calls It Major Victory

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt analyzed the allied campaign in North Africa today as having the appearance of a victory of major proportions.

Stalin Raps Lack Of Second Front

Moscow, Nov. 6 (AP) — Joseph Stalin declared today that because of the lack of a second front the Germans had been able to break through the Russian lines in the west last summer and in five months advance about 300 miles.

The Germans' aim in the southwestern drive was to divert the main Soviet reserves in order to attack Moscow from the south, Stalin said.

He said the year had shown that the German army has its weaknesses.

"The Germans," he added, "are not strong enough to attack the southwest and north at the same time, like last summer, but are still strong enough to launch a serious attack in one direction."

Halwick Pleads Not Guilty to Reckless Driving

John Halwick of Lake Katrine, through his attorney, Andrew J. Cook, entered a plea of not guilty in police court today to a charge of reckless driving that had been lodged against him by Elmer A. Dressler of 34 Mead street, and the hearing was adjourned for one week.

Mr. Halwick's arrest followed an automobile crash between his car and that of Mr. Dressler at the intersection of Hasbrouck and Foxhall avenues at 8:38 o'clock Thursday evening.

According to the police report, Miss Anna Kelly of Prince street, suffered an injured ankle which was treated at the Kingston Hospital. She was riding in the Dressler car.

Both cars were damaged in the collision.

James Edward Leonard of 108 North Front street, charged with disorderly conduct in front of Reade's Kingston Theatre on Wall street at 10 o'clock last night, was fined $5 when arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court.

Lodge Will Meet

All members of Colonial City Lodge No. 733, I.B.P.O.E. of W. are requested to meet Friday, November 6, at 8 p. m. at the home of their late brother, Charles M. Clerks, 63 Ponckhockie street, in full regalia, to conduct services, in his honor. The members of Unity Temple No. 617, Daughters of I. B. P.O.E. of W. are also invited.

Septuagenarians are no longer disqualified for service on South African railways.

President Wires Mrs. George Cohan

Funeral Is to Be Held Tomorrow Morning

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—George M. Cohan, one of the great figures of the American theatre, will be buried tomorrow in the family mausoleum in Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

A solemn requiem Mass will be offered at 10 a. m. in St. Patrick's Cathedral for the composer of some of America's best-known songs including "Over There," "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy," and "You're a Grand Old Flag." He died yesterday at the age of 64.

Among many messages of condolence received by Cohan's family was one from President Roosevelt whom Cohan portrayed in "I'd Rather Be Right"—his last musical comedy appearance.

"A beloved figure is lost to our national life in the passing of your husband," the Chief Executive telegraphed Mrs. Cohan. "He will be mourned by millions whose lives were brightened and whose burdens were eased by his genius as a funmaker and as a dispeller of gloom. My heartfelt sympathy to you and all the family."

Fined $50 on Dog Charge

Calale, 35, of Newburgh was fined $50 in recorder's court in that city Thursday when he pleaded guilty to permitting his dog to be at large without being properly muzzled for the sixth offense in respect to the offending animal. Wiltwyck Chapter Gives Skit On First Gathering of Group

A large attendance of members was present at the monthly meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., yesterday afternoon as the chapter continued in the celebration of its 50th year with a special program. Mrs. William Macgregor Mills, regent, presided.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Clair S. Sheuffer, chairman of the Ellis Island Committee, announced that the next meeting would be the Christmas meeting when the members would be asked to bring gifts for the Ellis Island work. Since the work is being done among young Merchant Marine men who are being hospitalized on the island and among the Coast Guard men who are stationed there, the materials desired are somewhat different from those given in previous years.

Mrs. William Finch, chairman of the National Defense Committee, announced that her committee had contacted all members in regard to the donation for the blood plasma work. She also announced that the box would be at each meeting for War Bond and Stamp purchase notations.

The time of meetings was changed from 3 o'clock to 2:30 p. m. and the new time will go into effect at the next meeting, December 3. Mrs. Mills spoke on the death last month of William Tyler Page, author of the American's Creed. She also made an appeal for blood donors in the city and members are requested to contact Dr. Taylor at the City Laboratory. She also requested members to save all cancelled stamps for the war relief work.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Mills introduced Mrs. Lloyd LeFever, program chairman, who in turn presented Mrs. Charles Terwilliger as director of the day's program. Mrs. Terwilliger gave a brief outline of the program. Several of the members re-enacted the first gathering of the chapter at the home of Miss Mary Isabella Forsyth, organizing regent. This meeting took place February 18, 1892. Mrs. Terwilliger also announced that there were three women at the meeting, yesterday, who were in the first group: Miss Helen Westbrook, Mrs. William Davis who was then Miss Elizabeth Deyo, and Mrs. Philip Elting who was then Miss Catherine Ridenour. Mrs. Elting's name appears on the charter as the first secretary of the chapter.

The list of members who were present at the first gathering are: Mrs. Van Deusen, Miss Sarah Reynolds, Mrs. Julia Dillon, Mrs. F. J. R. Clarke, Mrs. John Searing, Mrs. William Kenyon, Miss Kate Westbrook, Miss Sarah Bernard, Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. F. A. Waters, Miss Mary Isabella Forsyth, Miss Katherine B. Forsyth, Miss Petronella Forsyth, Miss Mary Livingston.

The skit as arranged by Mrs. Terwilliger and Mrs. R. R. Gross did not include all of these personages since the plot was a compilation of the early events of the chapter. The cast was as follows:

Miss Mary Isabella Forsyth	Mrs. Burdette R. Tuttle
Miss Sarah Reynolds	Mrs. James Scott
Mrs. William Kenyon	Mrs. C. N. Wood
Mrs. Burhans	Mrs. Lancelot Phelps
Mrs. Searing	Miss Sarah Hasbrouck
Miss Bernard	Mrs. W. Dean Hays
Mrs. Bruyn	Mrs. E. O. Allen
Mrs. Maude Young Hasbrouck	Mrs. R. R. Gross

At this first meeting as portrayed yesterday, the business conducted was sending for the charter, naming of the chapter, Wiltwyck, the meeting place to be at the Forsyth home on the first Thursday of each month. A collection of Revolutionary antiques was to be made in the Senate House as a nucleus for a museum. Contributions were gathered of silver, gold, copper and 200 pennies for the Liberty Bell at Columbian Exposition held in Chicago. The skit closed with appropriate remarks by Miss Forsyth and Mrs. Hasbrouck sang "Long, Long Ago," "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Augustus H. Van Buren accompanied Mrs. Gross as she impersonated Mrs. Hasbrouck.

The second part of the program was composed of brief accounts given by each of the living regents as introduced by Mrs. Terwilliger. Regents giving these reports of events in their administrations were Mrs. Philip Elting, Mrs. William M. Davis, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, Mrs. G. N. Wood, Miss Louise van Hoevenberg's report was read by Mrs. Terwilliger, Mrs. Burdette R. Tuttle and Mrs. Terwilliger, herself.

W.P.B. Endorses ManpowerMeasure

Nelson Doubts, However, That Compulsion Will Be Necessary

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—War Production Chief Donald Nelson today endorsed the principle of manpower legislation but predicted that 99 times in 100 compulsion would be unnecessary to get Americans into the war effort.

"It seems to me it is always better to do a job with a clean cut law passed by congress than by administrative acts, he told the senate military committee, which is considering half a dozen manpower control bills.

Senator Hill (D-Ala.) asked Nelson if he did not think it time for congress to act.

Nelson reiterated his preference for legislation rather than administrative orders and added that "I think it would be well for congress to survey the situation and determine what the needs are."

A few minutes earlier, shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser had told senators he thought voluntary enlistments in the armed services should be halted and that a nine-member committee should be established to control the distribution of manpower and womanpower for the nation's war needs.

Nelson, too, said he believed voluntary enlistments should be halted and cited five additional ways in which he thought the country could realize greater production from its reserves of workers.

The work week might be lengthened, he suggested; production could be increased through better management; greater use should be made of minority groups; less essential uses of manpower should be cut off, and worker absenteeism should be stopped.

Kaiser testified before a senate labor committee.

No Opposition to Woodstock Tax Budget

At a public hearing on the town tax budget held Wednesday night in Woodstock, there was no appearance of opposition to the tentative budget submitted at that time and the town board will meet Monday evening to adopt it.

On Thursday, the board met for an audit of the town accounts and until the surplus or balances now on hand have been determined, the exact amount of money which it will be necessary to raise by levy will not be known. Any existing balances will be deducted from the amounts stated in the tentative budget and the money to be raised by taxation in the town probably will be somewhat lower than the amounts stated in the tentative budget as required for operations of the town business in 1943.

Unexpended balances under the law are not carried over as a surplus but are deducted from the amount to be raised by taxation in the coming year.

Prisoners confined to the Ulster county jail during the coming winter will have no cause to worry over the current fuel oil shortage and Sheriff Howard C. Anderson is in a position to keep his prisoners warm. In response to the request of the federal authorities that consumption of fuel oil be cut one third, County Purchasing Agent Jay Heaton has had an Iron Fireman coal stoker installed in the boiler which heats the county jail.

The jail has in the past been heated by an oil fired boiler while the court house proper has been heated by two boilers which are likewise oil fired. By converting the jail boilers to coal the fuel oil problem has been solved and the request of the federal authorities met as to use of oil. Not only will the jail be heated well this winter but it is anticipated that the conversion will be a step along the economy line too.

Prospective Land Army girls in Australia must now spend 10 days in camp to learn punctuality, order, camp cooking and community living before being sent to a job.

Allies Advance To Near Matruh

Retreating Axis columns were pictured as clogging the Mediterranean coastal road, under a tempest of bombing and machine-gunning attacks by allied warplanes.

Dispatches reaching Ankara, Turkey, from Greece said Hitler was desperately attempting to bolster Rommel's shattered forces with troops hurriedly shifted from the Russian front via transport planes across the Mediterranean to North Africa.

These reports said four trainloads of German soldiers from the eastern front passed through Athens on Monday and transport planes had been shuttling them across the sea since Tuesday.

Asks Japs for Help

Informed Japanese quarters in Ankara said Hitler, realizing his armies in Egypt were in peril, had even appealed to Tokyo for help in the form of a Japanese naval attack on Madagascar or South Africa which might force the British to divert strength southward.

Tokyo turned down Hitler's appeal, it was said, explaining that Japan lacked the necessary naval strength because of punishment inflicted by the U. S. fleet in the Pacific in recent months.

Meanwhile the German radio for the third successive day broadcast reports of a great allied armada massing at Gibraltar, across the narrow strait from the Tangier international zone and nearby French Morocco.

Intimating that the allies were planning a smash at Rommel's rear, the German broadcast said a total of 125 British warships was concentrated at Gibraltar and that a new convoy of 14 allied merchant ships reached the port Wednesday.

Previously, a Vichy (French) broadcast declared that transports carrying large contingents of American troops were anchored in Gibraltar Harbor. These reports all lacked confirmation from United Nations quarters.

Coincident with the Axis rout in Egypt, other good news came from the Russian, Southern Pacific and Madagascar theatres of the war:

Reds Improve Positions

Soviet front—Red army headquarters reported that Russian troops improved their positions in the 74-day-old siege of Stalingrad, captured another height in fighting along the Black Sea coast, and killed 1,000 Germans in the central Caucasus.

Everywhere, dispatches said, the Red armies were either standing firm or slowly driving the Germans back.

Two companies of tank-led Nazi infantrymen were reported wiped out as Russian shock troops struck across the rubble-strewn factory district of north Stalingrad, where the Germans had been renewing their mass assaults.

"Throwing his reserves into action, the enemy repeatedly attacked our positions but was repulsed every time," the Russian command announced.

In a message to Premier Stalin, the Soviet garrison declared more than 100,000 Germans had already been killed and 800 tanks and 1,000 planes destroyed since the siege began.

Southwest Pacific—U. S. army troops and marines were officially credited with striking deeper into the Japanese flank on Guadalcanal Island, despite the arrival of still more enemy reinforcements, and threatening another.

At the same time, the navy disclosed that American warships supporting the defenders of Guadalcanal again shelled Japanese positions on the island's north coast on the night of November 3-4.

A navy communuique said American troops scored a two-mile advance westward through the jungles on November 3, killing 350 Japanese and captured a dozen 37-millimeter guns, three field pieces and 30 machineguns.

Marines Press Attack

A synchronized thrust to the east met an "initial repulse" by the reinforced enemy, the navy said, but "the marines are pressing their attack on these enemy troops."

The latest Japanese landings on the east coast were carried out under cover of darkness, November 3 and 4, after previous reinforcements had arrived five days ago.

New Guinea front—Gen, Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that allied troops had pushed the Japanese well back beyond the halfway point at Kokoda, 60 miles inland from the main enemy invasion base at Buna.

Madagascar — Authoritative London quarters reported that Vichy French troops in southeast Madagascar had asked for an armistice and that hostilities ceased at 2 p. m. (Madagascar time) yesterday.

In effect, this means the end of the British campaign to eliminate Madagascar as a base for Axis submarines preying on allied communications to India, China and the Middle East, since the only recent fighting has been in the southeast of the 1,000-mile-long island.

Escaped Germans Are Recaptured

Men Who Evaded Army Guards Found in Barn

Bowling Green, Ky., Nov. 6 (AP)—Police Chief R. E. Monahan reported today that three Germans who escaped from army guards aboard a train late Tuesday had been arrested in a barn about six miles from here.

He said the men gave their names as Hans Richard Jonat, 27, Karl Luft, 19, and Paul Theodore Hitzegrad, 38. Jonat and Luft said they had been members of the German merchant marine and Hitzegrad said he was merely a German citizen who had been arrested as an enemy alien.

Chief Monahan said two of the men had knives but were unarmed otherwise and offered no resistance when Sheriff Boyd Downey and two deputies awakened them in a barn where they had spent the night.

Truck Owners Warned To Get Certificates

The Farm Bureau is sending out notices to its members warning them that after November 15, it will be necessary to have a certificate of war necessity from the Office of Defense Transportation, to get gasoline, etc., for all trucks.

While most truck owners have received application forms which must be filled out before certificates will be issued, there are many farmers, it is said, who have not yet obtained these forms. All such are advised to write immediately to the Office of Defense Transportation at Peekskill, asking for such forms. When writing applicants should give the make, year, capacity, type and license number (if any) of their truck, or trucks for which certificates will be asked. This will facilitate a prompt reply.

These application forms should be filled out as soon as received and mailed to the address given in order that no further delay may ensue in getting the certificates.

It is understood that after November 15, applications for gasoline ration or for tires will not be honored unless the applicants can produce a certificate of necessity.

official" in London who doubtless spoke with the highest authority and on the basis of the most complete information. Where previous war bulletins have announced the continued advance of the Eighth Army, today's notes the altered character of the battle with its introduction: "The Eighth Army continued its pursuit of the enemy."

Italians Are Abandoned

Then it notes that Rommel's mechanized forces apparently are abandoning their hapless Italian allies on the battlefield, where lack of transport leaves no choice but death or surrender. Rommel, perhaps still hoping to achieve one of those near-miracles of recovery which gained him renown in happier times, is bent on saving his own armored corps at any cost to his confederates.

This will not be lost on Rome, where the Egyptian disaster already has produced premonitions of doom for Mussolini and his Roman empire. The United Nations leave no room for doubt that the Egyptian victory is merely the prelude to other campaigns to rid the whole African continent of the Axis and restore domination of the Mediterranean to Britain and her allies. Then the soft underside of Hitler's Europe will be laid open to Allied attack; Sicily and Sardinia will lie at the mercy of a constantly more powerful air and naval combination and the Italian homeland itself will be marked for conquest. To this, as Winston Churchill told the Italian people two years ago when today's picture was only a dream of his imagination, Benito Mussolini will have brought them.

At this juncture Japan has summoned all her diplomats in Europe to conclave in Berlin. The announced purpose is to consider methods of more fruitful cooperation within the three-power alliance, but undoubtedly the entire question of the value to Japan of her German alliance will be under sober consideration.

From the outset there has been great doubt as to Japan's readiness to dovetail her strategic plans with those of her European partners. She is striving to create her own new order in the Orient and the fight in Europe and Africa has been little more than an opportunity offered by her gods to grab what she can while the white nations are at each other's throats. Those Japanese-sponsored reports from Turkey, of Tokyo's rejection of Hitler's hurried call for a naval diversion in the Indian ocean, may be apocryphal, but there is little doubt that they indicate the basic Japanese attitude.

One very definite result of the Egyptian victory should be the laying of one of the United Nations' most frightening bogeys of a few months ago, a Japanese-German juncture somewhere in the Middle East. Japan's fundamental purposes being what they are—creation of an East Asiatic empire—that bogey probably never had much substance. But what is happening in Africa is likely to produce a further separation of the European and Pacific phases of the war as far as the Axis is concerned, with Japan concentrating on her increasingly bitter effort to hold what she has and letting her allies seek their own salvation.

Helme Testifies Men Had $170,000 To Bribe Workers

Chicago, Nov. 6 (AP)—A Federal Bureau of Investigation agent testified in federal court yesterday that the eight German saboteurs who came to this country in submarines last June had $170,000 which was to be used in an effort to bribe American workers to help them in their intended plot to destroy vital war industries.

The testimony was by W. B. Helme, special F. B. I. agent, in the treason trial of six Chicago men and women who are charged with giving aid and comfort to Herbert Hans Haupt, one of the German saboteurs. He and five others were executed in Washington last August 8.

Helme testified that he and F. B. I. Agent James L. Handley, in questioning Otto Richard Wergin, one of the defendants, used a digest of Haupt's confession, which he said contained the information about the $170,000.

Helme said Wergin had denied that young Haupt ever told him of being trained in Germany as a saboteur or having been in Germany with Wergin's son, Wolfgang. He added that a memorandum of Haupt's confession disclosed "that Haupt had told Wergin he had left Wolfgang in Germany and that he had returned here with seven other saboteurs in a submarine on a mission of destruction.

"Haupt's confession stated they had been given $170,000 to bribe American workmen to assist them in their mission here."

Defense Attorney Paul A. Warnholtz failed to block introduction of Wergin's statement to the F. B. I. agents and it was read to the jury by U. S. Attorney J. Albert Woll. The statement related that Wergin knew his son had left the country with Haupt in 1941 and that he talked to Haupt at his home last June 21 and 22.

American Submarine Becomes Hospital Ship

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 6 (AP)—An American submarine, roving the far south Pacific preying on Japanese shipping, became a hospital ship recently while five of the crew successfully performed an emergency appendectomy. And only one of the five had any operating experience.

The details were related today in a letter written by Lieut. Franz Hoskins, 27, formerly of Tacoma, and second in command of the submarine.

Heading the "surgical staff" of amateurs was a chief pharmacist's make, the only one of the five who had previously witnessed an operation.

"It was operate or certain death, for the patient had a temperature of 106 degrees," Hoskins wrote. "It took us two and one half hours and now the patent is convalescing in great shape."

The Lieutenant said "you know, we have experienced many a rare event in this last year: bombings, depth charges, torpedo fire and all the like but one of the rarest yet recorded out here was one that took place on board our little 'home'. Yes sir, the mysteries never cease. Our pharmacist's mate, plus the executive officer, myself and two machinist's mates performed a successful appendectomy.

"Yes siree, there's one for the records. The only one of us who had seen an operation performed was the pharmacist's mate, but the patient had a high temperature and it was either operate or certain death. So we operated. I performed the anesthetic and encouraged the 'Doc' and the executive office along as they were doing the 'actual cutting and digging'."

Lieut. Hoskins, in the service since May 1941, is the son of a Tacoma newspaperman, Henry A. Hoskins.

David, who is just past 19 years of age, enlisted January 14, 1941 and is a radio mechanic in the Air Corps. In a recent letter by his parents he warned them to watch out for the magazine, as his group had "put on a show" and Life's photographer had taken a lot of pictures.

Good Taste Today

RETURNING AN EMPLOYER'S INVITATION

The impulse to return hospitality with like hospitality is both natural and proper, but on occassions it is also proper that returns be made in nothing more than personal helpfulness and appreciation. This, in part, answers the following letter: "One of the executives in our office has at various times invited members of the office staff, the members of their families to a Sunday buffet luncheon. One other woman in the office is married and we are both housekeeping, but very modestly. We feel perhaps since we have our own homes that we should make some return for all this past kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Employer. But we hesitate. They live so differently from the way we do. We wonder if you would help us to decide what we should do — or what we could do—that would be in keeping with the situation?"

In answer you are really not expected to return hospitality. It would probably make Mrs. Employer feel very uncomfortable should you do so. If there is something that you can do for her that you happen to know would please her,—somewhere you can ask her to go, something you could get for her, or make for her, in return for a number of courtesies, this would surely be appreciated. By the way though, don't misunderstand my saying "no return is expected" as being personal to you. Return in kind is not expected for any big party even by nearest neighbors living in houses that duplicate her own.

An Occasion When Clothes Should Have Been Specified

Dear Mrs. Post: Not long ago my husband and I were invited to a wedding in the evening—at eight o'clock. Our invitation to the wedding and reception was given to my husband at the office over the telephone with the explanation that it was to be very small and held in the Chapel of the Church. We knew the groom would have to wear service uniform. This fact added to the informality of a telephoned invitation resulted in our not wearing evening dress. Unfortunately we were the only ones present who were not in strictly formal evening dress. Don't you think that we should have been told to wear evening dress?

Answer: Ordinarily they would not notify you because it would be taken for granted that at an evening wedding evening clothes would be expected. But under the circumstances you describe especially those concerning the uniform of the bridegroom, I think you were quite right in supposing that very simple clothes would be worn. In other words I wouldn't feel chagrined if I were you.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Do You Know Your ABC's in Manners?" Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Refers to Residence Here in First World War

In a recent issue of The Freeman appeared a picture of Cadet W. Eustice Canfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kenneth Canfield, a grandson of Dr. W. E. E. Little, late of this city, and also a grandson of James E. Canfield of Schenectady, a former resident of this city and during the first World War secretary and treasurer of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, and city treasurer here in 1918.

During the first World War J. Kenneth Canfield, son of James E. Canfield, served in the armed forces of his country as his son is doing now. In addition a second grandson of James E. Canfield is now serving in the armed forces. Lester V. Adams, Jr., entered the armed services by enlistment and is now in the Air Corps stationed at Lowry Field, Denver, Colorado. Two grandsons of the late Mrs. James E. Canfield are in the army service. In a letter to The Freeman, Mr. Canfield refers to his residence here in his native city during the first World War days and while he served as city treasurer and in the Chamber of Commerce. He also writes of his recollections of "pleasant associations in civic and home front war service, with the efficient city editor of The Freeman" during that period.

3-B's Can Be Had For War Plant Work

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—Three-A men can become 3-B's by getting a job in a war plant, even if it's only as elevator pilot.

Selective service officials say they hope to induce large numbers of men now holding non-essential jobs to shift to war work by offering them longer draft deferment.

A barber classified as 3-A because he has dependents, for example, should be reclassified as 3-B if he goes to work in an airplane factory, regardless of the nature of the job.

Russians Improve Stalingrad Front

Operations on Black Sea Continue; 1,000 Nazis Slain in Caucasus

Moscow, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Russians said today counterattacking garrison troops had improved their positions somewhat in a Stalingrad factory area while the Red Army maintained active operations on the Black Sea front and slew 1,000 invaders in the battle for the central Caucasus.

Two companies of tank-supported Nazi infantrymen were declared smashed as Russian forces struck across a debris-littered expanse of north Stalingrad after repulsing enemy attacks.

Russian artillerymen destroyed eight German tanks by point blank fire and Soviet fliers struck heavily at German troop positions, the noon communique said.

Bombs and gunfire of the Russian aircraft were reported to have destroyed 13 enemy batteries and 28 machine-gun positions within 24 hours.

Three more batteries were silenced and 19 German dugouts and blockhouses were wrecked by Soviet shells on the Steppes northwest of Stalingrad, it was announced.

The Moscow radio reported that the defenders of the city, in a letter expressing determination to fight to the last heart beat, said that "we are sure the time is not far off when we shall hear of the opening of a second front."

The letter was addressed to Premier Stalin. Delivered on the eve of the 25th anniversary of the Bolshevist Revolution, it expressed confidence that the troops would "deal a crushing blow to the enemy from Stalingrad."

"The entire world is watching our struggle," it said. "The voices of our allies are reaching us from all corners of the globe, expressing admiration for our resistance. Accepting this moral aid, we are sure the time is not far off when we shall hear of the opening of a second front. This will be not only a moral but a real support for the defenders of Stalingrad and will hasten and help achieve victory over the enemy."

Hawaii to Export Japanese to America

Honolulu, T.H., Nov. 6 (AP)—Hawaii is going to become more self-sufficient and have fewer Japanese mouths to feed under plans disclosed by the islands' military commander, Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons.

"We are taking no chances with the security of these islands," General Emmons said in announcing the new program yesterday, "enough chances were taken before December 7 and we are not going to be foolish again if I can help it."

He announced the appointment of Walter F. Dillingham as director of food production on the islands and disclosed that some of Hawaii's 161,000 Japanese soon would be evacuated to the American mainland.

"I want to make two points clear," General Emmons told reporters in commenting on the evacuation program. "First, it will not be a mass movement like that on the Pacific coast, second, it will be on a resettlement plan movement to areas where schools and employment will be available. And we don't plan to evacuate very many.

"We do not propose to interfere with the economy of the islands, but we would like to get rid of as many non-production people as we can. The islands are overcrowded."

General Emmons said 10,000 cases of liquor and hundreds of tons of turkey were being sent here for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Portland Faces Meat Shortage

Only Week's Supply Remains Under Quotas

Portland, Ore., Nov. 6 (AP)—Portland's war-whetted appetite, growing daily as new workers arrive and threaten to pop the city's seams, today faced the prospect of meatless days—not once a week, but for the rest of the year.

Whatever the cause—a dispute rages on that point—only about one week's supply of meat remains under Office of Price Administration quotas for November and December.

Gov. Charles A. Sprague wired a protest to Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and also asked Sen. Charles A. McNary to put on pressure in Washington to relieve the shortage.

Morton Tompkins, master of the Oregon State Grange, charging Washington with "woefully inadequate knowledge of food problems," said something must be done. And all small meat packing firms in the city said that unless it were done right away they would close down, and that was that.

Meanwhile, Portland's thousands—almost 200,000 more than during peacetime and many of them hungry shipyard laborers—looked on dazed while the controversy over what caused the shortage grew white hot.

Richard Montgomery, Oregon O. P. A. director, blamed the packers. He said they paid little or no attention to the O. P. A. quotas, went right ahead and butchered the rest of the year's allotted supply.

The packers said flatly that the O. P. A. quotas were ridiculously inadequate for the city's growing population, that they couldn't operate on a part time basis anyway.

O. P. A. quotas, they contended, meant handling an insufficient volume of meat which would preclude running their plants day in and day out. As soon as they shut down for a few days, they said, their labor would quit and take steady jobs in the shipyards.

So all the small packers got together and announced they would close down—for good—November 13, which would leave only the big Swift and Armour plants operating. But they hastened to add that they really didn't mean it, that it was mostly big talk to force the O. P. A. to boost the quotas.

Today they wondered if they really did mean it and didn't know it.

Notre Dame Gets Nod Over Army Eleven for Saturday

Syracuse Is Slight Choice Over Penn State; Temple No Match for Strong Boston College

By HERB BARKER

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Taking the weekly aim in the general direction of football winners (and hitting some, perhaps):

Wisconsin-Iowa: Not as easy as some might think. It seems certain that Wisconsin will have lost some of its fine edge after the victory over Ohio State and Iowa boasts a real scoring punch when Tommy Farmer's pitching arm is in shape. Still, a vote for Harder, Hirsch, Schreiner and Wisconsin.

Notre Dame-Army: Normally this is close every year. It probably will be again. Despite the Penn defeat, Army is a well-rounded outfit and should extend the Irish to the limit. Doubtfully, Notre Dame.

Texas-Baylor: The upset of T. C. U. proved Baylor's class but even so this stubborn guesser goes along with Texas on this one.

Georgia-Florida: Frankie Sinkwich and his mates will have trouble getting "up" for this one but there is entirely too much class in the Georgia ensemble to permit any choice but Georgia.

Kentucky-Georgia Tech: Georgia Tech.

Temple-Boston College: If Boston's Eagles aren't the best team in the east, somebody will have to prove it to this corner. Boston College.

Pitt-Ohio State: Ohio State.

Indiana-Minnesota: The Gophers are clicking in accustomed style now and that spells trouble for the Hoosiers. Minnesota.

Penn Over Navy

Navy-Penn: Penn is the undisputed powerhouse of the East's Ivy Leaguers with a hard-bitten line and a set of great backs led by Bert stiff. No reason to expect Navy to do more than make it close. Penn.

California-Southern California: Throw out the form charts here. California seems to have pulled itself together finally. The Trojans have had two weeks to get ready. All of which leaves us just where we started. On the flip of a coin, Southern California.

Harvard-Michigan: Perhaps this will be no run-away but there's no reason to believe the easterners can cope successfully with the Wolverines. Michigan.

Missouri-Nebraska: A solid vote for Missouri.

Louisiana State-Fordham: This Fordham outfit is well below par. Despite last week's rout by Tennessee, we'll take a flier on L. S. U.

Mississippi State-Tulane: Tough enough. Out of the hat, Tulane.

Colgate-Columbia: Perhaps this is the spot for the Red Raiders to get back in winning stride. Colgate.

Yale Over Cornell

Cornell-Yale: If Wally Kretz returns to action there is a strong temptation to pick Cornell. Resisting the impulse, Yale.

Dartmouth-Princeton: No real surprise either way. Resorting to the coin. . . . Princeton.

Great Lakes-Purdue: The edge belongs to the sailors. Great Lakes.

Georgia Naval-Auburn: Ditto in this one. Georgia Naval.

Mississippi-Vanderbilt: Stringing along with Vanderbilt.

Maryland-Duke: The Terrapins sprang a big upset at Florida's expense last week but this ballot is cast for Duke.

Michigan State-Washington State: It's a long ride for the Spartans and for that reason alone, Washington State.

Northwestern-Illinois: Illinois.

St. Mary's-Duquesne: Taking Duquesne.

Texas A. & M.-Southern Methodist: Having finally found the scoring combination maybe the Aggies can keep it. Texas A. and M.

Texas Christian-Texas Tech: Should be T. C. U.

Washington-Stanford: Who can figure these far western teams? Stanford.

Chalkline Predictions

North Carolina Naval-Georgetown: Taking the pre-flighters.

Rice-Arkansas: Looks like Rice.

Virginia Military-Wake Forest: Wake Forest.

Davidson-North Carolina: Taking North Carolina.

Skipping over the chalklines otherwise: Villanova over Iowa State; Tennessee over Cincinnati; Furman over Citadel; Clemson over George Washington; Iowa Naval over Ft. Knox; Oklahoma over Kansas State; Oregon State over Montana; Tulsa over Oklahoma A. and M.; William & Mary over Randolph-Macon; Virginia Tech over Richmond; Virginia over Washington & Lee; Kansas over Washington (St. Louis); Lafayette over Rutgers; Colorado over Utah; Colorado State over Utah State; Denver over Brigham Young; Marquette over Manhattan; Santa Clara over Loyola.

Robinson Favorite To Continue Streak Tonight in Garden

Harlem Hammerer to Box Vic Dellicurti in 10-Rounder; Bout on WOR at 10 P.M.

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Although Ray Robinson, Harlem's tap-dancing, zoot-suited fighter, is a 5 to 12 favorite to win his 38th consecutive professional bout tonight approximately 10,000 fans are expected for his 10-round scrap with Vic Dellicurti in Madison Square Garden. The fight will be broadcast over WOR at 10 o'clock.

It will be Robinson's second start in the middleweight ranks, having easily polished off Jake Lamotta recently.

The Harlem hammerer will take a 12-pound weight handicap into the ring with him against Dellicurti but expects to offset this with his heavier attack, longer reach and his greater height.

Dellicurti will weigh in the neighborhood of 156 while Robinson, who exhausted the supply of welterweight opposition while building up his victory string, will come in at about 144. Dellicurti, stopped only by Steve Belloise, is only a squat 5 foot seven, however, while Robinson towers to 5 feet, 11½ inches.

Despite the general odds against him, Dellicurti is regarded by some as having the style which will trouble Robinson.

He is a sturdy, rugged two-fisted fighter who prefers to do his slugging at close range with the mid-section as the target. Although others have tried the same style of attack against Sugar Ray, he has gone unbeaten in 125 amateur and 37 pro bouts.

Nocando League Results

W. Relyea highlighted the bowling matches in the Nocando League at Emerick's alleys Wednesday night when he lashed out a solid 215 single and 581 series. His other scores were 198 and 168. Pere Slover crashed 515. Relyea sparked Scholls to two triumphs over Standards who had Jack Martin as top man with a 510.

Fredericks captured three straight from Emericks with Beatty doig the good work with a 196 single and 517 series, both high in the match. Mike Abdallah had a 465 for the losers.

The Wildcats took two from Eichlers as Ray Kubicek took honors with a 206 single and 515 triple. His other scores were 164 and 145. Ken VanEtten had a 505 for the winners. Bill Mohr's 503 topped the Eichlers.

Silver Palace League

Two bowlers in the Silver Palace League at Emericks took the divided limelight Wednesday night. Kuehnen of Teetsels blasted out a sizzling 236 single and wound up with a 525 series. Scott Vining of Vining and Smith posted a 544 triple.

Starting off the Joneses captured three from Vogels as Harold Broskie paced the winners with a 519 triple. George Robinson, who seemed pretty dumb-founded after the third game when he rolled a meagre 104, took high single honors with a 182 single in his first game. R. Halbert had a 465 for the losers.

Although Kuehnen featured with his nifty 236 single game, Teetsels dropped two games to the Shultis bowlers. Ray DuBois had a 517 series for the winners.

With Scott Vining doing some pretty efficient kegling, the Vining and Smith representatives walloped the Eichlers in two decisions. Vining had a 138, 219 and 187 for his 544. Earl Mellow followed with 514. Ken VanEtten of the losing club, posted a 531 series.

Wiltwyck League Notes

The veteran Ken Van Etten, popular bowler and secretary of various loops in this city, turned his attention to high scoring bowling last night at the Central Recreation alleys as he proceeded to walk off with high single and high triple honors in the Wiltwyck Bowling League.

Ken, who usually has his work cut out for him both during the regular bowling season and also in post-season work, saw the writing on the wall last night as he bowled anchor for Morgans against the Roller Rink squad. Van Etten registered a 229 single in his first try, giving the Morgan bowlers a win. Ken wound up with a sizzling 556 series, high all night. Joe Abdallah had a 627 series for the losers.

George Dougherty's 208 single and 523 triple paced the Roller Rinkers to two victories. Morgans were handicapped a total of 109 pins in each game.

Clark Hits 534

The Electrol No. 1 bowlers won two from the Rescuers as B. Clark pounded out a 200 single and 534 triple. Mike Provenzano helped out with a 201 single. Fred Ferraro was high for the losers with 524.

Nick LaLima's bowling helped the Go-Getters to two triumphs over the Helpers. Nick blasted out a 521 triple on a string of 188, 156 and 177. Engles had a 514. Haber's 490 was high for the Helpers.

The final match found the Electrol No. 2 keglers taking two from Merris. E. Muller had a 192 and 492 for the losers. J. Simmons' 436 took honors for the winning bowlers.

Major League Scores

Georgie Robinson, leadoff kegler for Doblers, played an unusual role last night in the Central Major League at the Rec alleys. Robbie blasted out a terrific 234 single game and finished with a blazing 636 triple, both marks taking the top perch in the results last night. Still, the Doblers were soundly beaten in all three games by the Hymes bowlers.

Hymes took the first game, 1023-920 as Robinson shot a 213 His team had 920. Hymes rolled 945 to the Doblers 847 in the second as Robbie was high again with 189. The Hymes club pounded out 918 to the Doblers' 887 in the final as George had a 234 single score.

Following Robinson's high were Lew Hymes with a 597 triple, Stan Winne with 579, Keuhn 547, Joe Hoffman 570 and Bill Mergendahl with 521. Rice had a 540 for the Doblers followed by Steve Breitfeller's 521.

Costello Hits 607

"Coke" Costello had a similar fate with the U. P. A. team as he blasted a 216 single and 607 triple but his club managed to win one game from Steins. Larry Petersen, Jr., had a 601 for the winners. Naigles had 553 and Huck Svirsky 502. Lou Guadagnola and Phil Masters followed Costello with 550 and 535.

The Joneses, although Meyers had a 227 and 595 for the Trailways, won two games from that club. Smith paced the winners with a 566 while Ken Williams followed with 565. Alward had a 555. John Ferraro posted a 583 series for the Trailways. His high single was 224.

In the only other match last night Grunenwalds walloped Mickeys in two decisions. Again the high scorers were on the losing team. Joe Scholar had a 558 series for Mickeys while Dwight McEntee posted a 199 single. Charlie Grunenwald had a 529 triple for the winners.

Investigate Before You Donate, Says Mr. Lyon

Chicago, Nov. 6 (AP)—Citizens of major cities frequently are asked to contribute disporportionately large sums to fund raising campaigns, Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said today.

Lyon, formerly a professor of economics at the University of Chicago and for many years, executive vice-president of the Brookings Institution, said in an interview, that leading citizens who accept local sponsorship of drives ostensibly conducted nationally should investigate the extent of the campaign.

"They are approaching for additional contributions," Lyon stated, "a public already harassed by mounting taxes, by insistent appeals for purchase of war bonds and by rising living costs."

War Service Shrine To Be Dedicated

First Baptist Church Will Hold Special Service

Armistice Sunday is to be observed at the First Baptist Church by the dedication of a new "War Service Shrine" and an observance of communion in remembrance of those in the armed forces. The time of the service is 11 a. m.

A center alcove in the narthex of the church has been set aside to house the Service Shrine and when unveiled Sunday, will contain the service flag, a light which is to burn continuously until peace returns and a book of remembrance with the names, pictures and service records of all First Baptist men. Various individuals of the church have contributed the separate articles making up the Shrine. Their names will be revealed Sunday. At the very top of the Shrine there will appear the words, "They Shall Not March Alone" as a reminder to pray for the men in service and by acts of thoughtfulness to maintain their morale.

A feature of the Armistice Day communion is the fact that 25 men and young men, relatives and friends of those serving their country, will come forward as each name is read to sit in a reserved section of the church and receive communion for those in the armed forces. At this time the pastor will read a message from Corp. John A. Martin, now in the Officers Candidate School at Fort Benning, Ga., which was written by request especially for this service. The communion meditation will be given by the pastor, the Rev. H. Victor Kane, on the topic, "Not Yet, But—." A special musical program has been prepared by Mrs. Lester A. Decker, organist-director, and will include organ numbers, "Priere a Notre Dame" by Boellman and "Chansonette" by Thompson; an anthem, "O Land of Mine," by Mendelssohn; and a soprano solo, "There Is No Death," by O'Hara, to be sung by Miss Helen Schoonmaker.

There will also be an evening service Sunday at 7:30 o'clock, when the pastor will begin a series of messages on "The Revelation," a New Testament book which has been the subject of much interest, confusion and controversy. The theme for he entire series of sermons will be, "The Immortal Book With An Immediate Message."

A Day at Goldsboro Air Base

by Gurnsey Burger, Jr.

Up in the morning at the stroke of four,
Make my bed and sweep the floor;
Arrange my clothes, we're taught just how,
Then grab my mess kit and march to chow.
Back to the barracks at quarter to six,
To wash our hands and scour our kits;
Then sit down and wait for the whistle to blow,
For that's the signal to tell us to go.
From six to twelve we go to school,
To become mechanics by the Army rule;
Then off to dinner and when we're through,
We march back to the barracks and rest till two.
From two to three we have to march,
Then for an hour we do exercises,
To build up our bodies and strengthen our eyes.
From four to five we read our mail,
Or wash our clothes in a twelve quart pail;
We take a shower just before chow,
So we could pass an inspection if we had one now.
We do our home work from six to eight,
Or write letters home to the ones who wait;
Then off to bed, for our day is done,
To dream of the days after the war is won.

Murray Calls Election His Personal Victory

Helena, Mont., Nov. 6 (AP)—Senator James E. Murray, claiming reelection, says he regards the Tuesday election result as a personal victory in the face of "powerful opposition of Senator Burton K. Wheeler's Democratic machine."

With unofficial results from all but 31 of Montana's 1,185 precincts counted, Murray, the state's junior Democratic senator, held a lead of 1,641 votes today over Republican Wellington D. Rankin.

Rankin has not conceded defeat.

Murray's statement last night said:

"I consider my election a personal victory . . . I was opposed by a strong Republican state organization and the powerful opposition of Senator Wheeler's Democratic machine, with a national trend against those in office."

Murray campaigned on promises to continue supporting the federal administration.

Senator Wheeler's office was not at stake Tuesday.

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Stocks with a peace-time rating gave the best account of themselves in today's market as the crack-up of the Axis forces in Egypt revived faint visions of a quicker ending of the war than most had expected.

The list was somewhat ragged at the start. While many issues lacked bids, prices generally stiffened around mid-day and, with activity moderate, recoveries of fractions to a point or so predominated near the fourth hour.

In addition to the inspiration of the brightening international picture, trade buying based on the election results was reported. Light year-end selling persisted as a handicap.

Bonds and commodities steadied after early irregularity.

Among stocks International Telephone was a speedy sprinter, going into new high ground for the year along with General Motors. Others in the advancing ranks included U. S. President Dodges Queries on Voting Outcome in U. S.

a possibility that House Republicans and conservative Democrats might develop a joint drive not only to halt "New Idealism" but to erase some of its established works.

The first post-election session of the House heard demands from a Democrat and a Republican for repeal of the National Labor Relations (Wagner) Act and the Wage-Hour Law. On the other side of the capitol, Senator O'Daniel (D., Tex.) introduced a bill to suspend the 40-hour week for the duration "to help solve our manpower problem."

The strength that would be engendered behind a movement to knock down New Deal structures was doubtful, however, as many House members showed a disposition to avoid all controversy that might impede the war effort. Their attitude was voiced by Rep. Ramspeck of Georgia, the Democratic whip, who said:

"It seems to me Congress will devote itself almost exclusively to legislation designed to winning the war.

"I think the one thing we can agree on is our desire to win the war as quickly as possible and it will be wise if we postpone controversy over matters which make no direct contribution to the war effort until we finish that job."

While the Democrats retained control of the House in Tuesday's Republican sweep, the margin was so narrow that a federation of Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats can muster a majority whenever party lines are not involved.

Vandenberg described the elections as a demonstration of popular dissatisfaction with the conduct of the war, and declared the administration "should deal more openly with Congress" and with the country.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) attributed Democratic reverses to what he termed the New Deal's "passion for regulating people and their lack of talent for doing so."

Vice President Wallace visited President Roosevelt yesterday, and on leaving the White House told newspapermen the President was in "excellent spirits."

"The breath-taking thing about it," he said, "is the success of the President in holding both Houses through six elections."

Calls It Major Victory

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt analyzed the allied campaign in North Africa today as having the appearance of a victory of major proportions.

Stalin Raps Lack Of Second Front

Moscow, Nov. 6 (AP)—Joseph Stalin declared today that because of the lack of a second front the Germans had been able to break through the Russian lines in the west last summer and in five months advance about 300 miles.

The Germans' aim in the southwestern drive was to divert the main Soviet reserves in order to attack Moscow from the south, Stalin said.

He said the year had shown that the German army has its weaknesses.

"The Germans," he added, "are not strong enough to attack the southwest and north at the same time, like last summer, but are still strong enough to launch a serious attack in one direction."

Halwick Pleads Not Guilty to Reckless Driving

John Halwick of Lake Katrine, through his attorney, Andrew J. Cook, entered a plea of not guilty in police court today to a charge of reckless driving that had been lodged against him by Elmer A. Dressler of 34 Mead street, and the hearing was adjourned for one week.

Mr. Halwick's arrest followed an automobile crash between his car and that of Mr. Dressler at the intersection of Hasbrouck and Foxhall avenues at 8:38 o'clock Thursday evening.

According to the police report, Miss Anna Kelly of Prince street, suffered an injured ankle which was treated at the Kingston Hospital. She was riding in the Dressler car.

Both cars were damaged in the collision.

President Wires Mrs. George Cohan

Funeral Is to Be Held Tomorrow Morning

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—George M. Cohan, one of the great figures of the American theatre, will be buried tomorrow in the family mausoleum in Woodlawn cemetery, the Bronx.

A solemn requiem Mass will be offered at 10 a. m. in St. Patrick's Cathedral for the composer of some of America's best-known songs including "Over There," "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy," and "You're a Grand Old Flag." He died yesterday at the age of 64.

Among many messages of condolence received by Cohan's family was one from President Roosevelt whom Cohan portrayed in "I'd Rather Be Right"—his last musical comedy appearance.

"A beloved figure is lost to our national life in the passing of your husband," the Chief Executive telegraphed Mrs. Cohan. "He will be mourned by millions whose lives were brightened and whose burdens were eased by his genius as a funmaker and as a dispeller of gloom. My heartfelt sympathy to you and all the family."

W.P.B. Endorses ManpowerMeasure

Nelson Doubts, However, That Compulsion Will Be Necessary

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—War Production Chief Donald Nelson today endorsed the principle of manpower legislation but predicted that 99 times in 100 compulsion would be unnecessary to get Americans into the war effort.

"It seems to me it is always better to do a job with a clean cut law passed by congress than by administrative acts, he told the senate military committee, which is considering half a dozen manpower control bills.

Senator Hill (D-Ala.) asked Nelson if he did not think it time for congress to act.

Nelson reiterated his preference for legislation rather than administrative orders and added that "I think it would be well for congress to survey the situation and determine what the needs are."

A few minutes earlier, shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser had told senators he thought voluntary enlistments in the armed services should be halted and that a nine-member committee should be established to control the distribution of manpower and womanpower for the nation's war needs.

Nelson, too, said he believed voluntary enlistments should be halted and cited five additional ways in which he thought the country could realize greater production from its reserves of workers.

The work week might be lengthened, he suggested; production could be increased through better management; greater use should be made of minority groups; less essential uses of manpower should be cut off, and worker absenteeism should be stopped.

"There are too many cases of Monday morning sickness and payroll sickness," Nelson observed dryly.

Kaiser testified before a senate labor committee.

No Opposition to Woodstock Tax Budget

At a public hearing on the town tax budget held Wednesday night in Woodstock, there was no appearance of opposition to the tentative budget submitted at that time and the town board will meet Monday evening to adopt it.

On Thursday, the board met for an audit of the town accounts and until the surplus or balances now on hand have been determined, the exact amount of money which it will be necessary to raise by levy will not be known. Any existing balances will be deducted from the amounts stated in the tentative budget and the money to be raised by taxation in the town probably will be somewhat lower than the amounts stated in the tentative budget as required for operations of the town business in 1943.

Unexpended balances under the law are not carried over as a surplus but are deducted from the amount to be raised by taxation in the coming year.

Jail Boilers Converted From Oil to Coal

Prisoners confined to the Ulster county jail during the coming winter will have no cause to worry over the current fuel oil shortage and Sheriff Howard C. Anderson is in a position to keep his prisoners warm. In response to the request of the federal authorities that consumption of fuel oil be cut one third, County Purchasing Agent Jay Heaton has had an Iron Fireman coal stoker installed in the boiler which heats the county jail.

The jail has in the past been heated by an oil fired boiler while the court house proper has been heated by two boilers which are likewise oil fired. By converting the jail boilers to coal the fuel oil problem has been solved and the request of the federal authorities met as to use of oil. Not only will the jail be heated well this winter but it is anticipated that the conversion will be a step along the economy line too.

Allies Advance To Near Matruh

more German tanks were captured yesterday.

Retreating Axis columns were pictured as clogging the Mediterranean coastal road, under a tempest of bombing and machine-gunning attacks by allied warplanes.

Dispatches reaching Ankara, Turkey, from Greece said Hitler was desperately attempting to bolster Rommel's shattered forces with troops hurriedly shifted from the Russian front via transport planes across the Mediterranean to North Africa.

These reports said four trainloads of German soldiers from the eastern front passed through Athens on Monday and transport planes had been shuttling them across the sea since Tuesday.

Asks Japs for Help

Informed Japanese quarters in Ankara said Hitler, realizing his armies in Egypt were in peril, had even appealed to Tokyo for help in the form of a Japanese naval attack on Madagascar or South Africa which might force the British to divert strength southward.

Tokyo turned down Hitler's appeal, it was said, explaining that Japan lacked the necessary naval strength because of punishment inflicted by the U. S. fleet in the Pacific in recent months.

Meanwhile the German radio for the third successive day broadcast reports of a great allied armada massing at Gibraltar, across the narrow strait from the Tangier international zone and nearby French Morocco.

Intimating that the allies were planning a smash at Rommel's rear, the German broadcast said a total of 125 British warships was concentrated at Gibraltar and that a new convoy of 14 allied merchant ships reached the port Wednesday.

Previously, a Vichy (French) broadcast declared that transports carrying large contingents of American troops were anchored in Gibraltar Harbor. These reports all lacked confirmation from United Nations quarters.

Coincident with the Axis rout in Egypt, other good news came from the Russian, Southern Pacific and Madagascar theatres of the war:

Reds Improve Positions

Soviet front—Red army headquarters reported that Russian troops improved their positions in the 74-day-old siege of Stalingrad, captured another height in fighting along the Black Sea coast, and killed 1,000 Germans in the central Caucasus.

Everywhere, dispatches said, the Red armies were either standing firm or slowly driving the Germans back.

Two companies of tank-led Nazi infantrymen were reported wiped out as Russian shock troops struck across the rubble-strewn factory district of north Stalingrad, where the Germans had been renewing their mass assaults.

"Throwing his reserves into action, the enemy repeatedly attacked our positions but was repulsed every time," the Russian command announced.

In a message to Premier Stalin, the Soviet garrison declared more than 100,000 Germans had already been killed and 800 tanks and 1,000 planes destroyed since the siege began.

Southwest Pacific—U. S. army troops and marines were officially credited with striking deeper into the Japanese flank on Guadalcanal Island, despite the arrival of still more enemy reinforcements, and threatening another.

At the same time, the navy disclosed that American warships supporting the defenders of Guadalcanal again shelled Japanese positions on the island's north coast on the night of November 3-4.

A navy communique said American troops scored a two-mile advance westward through the jungles on November 3, killing 350 Japanese and captured a dozen 37-millimeter guns, three field pieces and 30 machineguns.

Marines Press Attack

A synchronized thrust to the east met an "initial repulse" by the reinforced enemy, the navy said, but "the marines are pressing their attack on these enemy troops."

The latest Japanese landings on the east coast were carried out under cover of darkness, November 3 and 4, after previous reinforcements had arrived five days ago.

New Guinea front—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that allied troops had pushed the Japanese well back beyond the halfway point at Kokoda, 60 miles inland from the main enemy invasion base at Buna.

Madagascar — Authoritative London quarters reported that Vichy French troops in southeast Madagascar had asked for an armistice and that hostilities ceased at 2 p. m. (Madagascar time) yesterday.

In effect, this means the end of the British campaign to eliminate Madagascar as a base for Axis submarines preying on allied communications to India, China and the Middle East, since the only recent fighting has been in the southeast of the 1,000-mile-long island.

Escaped Germans Are Recaptured

Men Who Evaded Army Guards Found in Barn

Bowling Green, Ky., Nov. 6 (AP)—Police Chief R. E. Monahan reported today that three Germans who escaped from army guards aboard a train late Tuesday had been arrested in a barn about six miles from here.

He said the men gave their names as Hans Richard Jonat, 27, Karl Luft, 19, and Paul Theodore Hitzegrad, 38. Jonat and Luft said they had been members of the German merchant marine and Hitzegrad said he was merely a German citizen who had been arrested as an enemy alien.

Chief Monahan said two of the men had knives but were unarmed otherwise and offered no resistance when Sheriff Boyd Downey and two deputies awakened them in a barn where they had spent the night.

Truck Owners Warned To Get Certificates

The Farm Bureau is sending out notices to its members warning them that after November 15, it will be necessary to have a certificate of war necessity from the Office of Defense Transportation, to get gasoline, etc., for all trucks.

While most truck owners have received application forms which must be filled out before certificates will be issued, there are many farmers, it is said, who have not yet obtained these forms. All such are advised to write immediately to the Office of Defense Transportation at Peekskill, asking for such forms. When writing applicants should give the make, year, capacity, type and license number (if any) of their truck, or trucks for which certificates will be asked. This will facilitate a prompt reply.

These application forms should be filled out as soon as received and mailed to the address given in order that no further delay may ensue in getting the certificates.

It is understood that after November 15, applications for gasoline ration or for tires will not be honored unless the applicants can produce a certificate of necessity.

official" in London who doubtless spoke with the highest authority and on the basis of the most complete information. Where previous war bulletins have announced the continued advance of the Eighth Army, today's notes the altered character of the battle with its introduction: "The Eighth Army continued its pursuit of the enemy."

Italians Are Abandoned

Then it notes that Rommel's mechanized forces apparently are abandoning their hapless Italian allies on the battlefield, where lack of transport leaves no choice but death or surrender. Rommel, perhaps still hoping to achieve one of those near-miracles of recovery which gained him renown in happier times, is bent on saving his own armored corps at any cost to his confederates.

This will not be lost on Rome, where the Egyptian disaster already has produced premonitions of doom for Mussolini and his Roman empire. The United Nations leave no room for doubt that the Egyptian victory is merely the prelude to other campaigns to rid the whole African continent of the Axis and restore domination of the Mediterranean to Britain and her allies. Then the soft underside of Hitler's Europe will be laid open to Allied attack; Sicily and Sardinia will lie at the mercy of a constantly more powerful air and naval combination and the Italian homeland itself will be marked for conquest. To this, as Winston Churchill told the Italian people two years ago when today's picture was only a dream of his imagination, Benito Mussolini will have brought them.

At this juncture Japan has summoned all her diplomats in Europe to conclave in Berlin. The announced purpose is to consider methods of more fruitful cooperation within the three-power alliance, but undoubtedly the entire question of the value to Japan of her German alliance will be under sober consideration.

From the outset there has been great doubt as to Japan's readiness to dovetail her strategic plans with those of her European partners. She is striving to create her own new order in the Orient and the fight in Europe and Africa has been little more than an opportunity offered by her gods to grab what she can while the white nations are at each other's throats. Those Japanese-sponsored reports from Turkey, of Tokyo's rejection of Hitler's hurried call for a naval diversion in the Indian ocean, may be apocryphal, but there is little doubt that they indicate the basic Japanese attitude.

One very definite result of the Egyptian victory should be the laying of one of the United Nations' most frightening bogeys of a few months ago, a Japanese-German juncture somewhere in the Middle East. Japan's fundamental purposes being what they are—creation of an East Asiatic empire—that bogey probably never had much substance. But what is happening in Africa is likely to produce a further separation of the European and Pacific phases of the war as far as the Axis is concerned, with Japan concentrating on her increasingly bitter effort to hold what she has and letting her allies seek their own salvation.

Helme Testifies Men Had $170,000 To Bribe Workers

Chicago, Nov. 6 (AP)—A Federal Bureau of Investigation agent testified in federal court yesterday that the eight German saboteurs who came to this country in submarines last June had $170,000 which was to be used in an effort to bribe American workers to help them in their intended plot to destroy vital war industries.

The testimony was by W. B. Helme, special F. B. I. agent, in the treason trial of six Chicago men and women who are charged with giving aid and comfort to Herbert Hans Haupt, one of the German saboteurs. He and five others were executed in Washington last August 8.

Helme testified that he and F. B. I. Agent James L. Handley, in questioning Otto Richard Wergin, one of the defendants, used a digest of Haupt's confession, which he said contained the information about the $170,000.

Helme said Wergin had denied that young Haupt ever told him of being trained in Germany as a saboteur or having been in Germany with Wergin's son, Wolfgang. He added that a memorandum of Haupt's confession disclosed "that Haupt had told Wergin he had left Wolfgang in Germany and that he had returned here with seven other saboteurs in a submarine on a mission of destruction.

"Haupt's confession stated they had been given $170,000 to bribe American workmen to assist them in their mission here."

Defense Attorney Paul A. Warnholtz failed to block introduction of Wergin's statement to the F. B. I. agents and it was read to the jury by U. S. Attorney J. Albert Woll. The statement related that Wergin knew his son had left the country with Haupt in 1941 and that he talked to Haupt at his home last June 21 and 22.

American Submarine Becomes Hospital Ship

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 6 (AP)—An American submarine, roving the far south Pacific preying on Japanese shipping, became a hospital ship recently while five of the crew successfully performed an emergency appendectomy. And only one of the five had any operating experience.

The details were related today in a letter written by Lieut. Franz Hoskins, 27, formerly of Tacoma, and second in command of the submarine.

Heading the "surgical staff" of amateurs was a chief pharmacist's make, the only one of the five who had previously witnessed an operation.

"It was operate or certain death, for the patient had a temperature of 106 degrees," Hoskins wrote. "It took us two and one half hours and now the patent is convalescing in great shape."

The Lieutenant said "you know, we have experienced many a rare event in this last year: bombings, depth charges, torpedo fire and all the like but one of the rarest yet recorded out here was one that took place on board our little 'home'. Yes sir, the mysteries never cease. Our pharmacist's mate, plus the executive officer, myself and two machinist's mates performed a successful appendectomy.

"Yes siree, there's one for the records. The only one of us who had seen an operation performed was the pharmacist's mate, but the patient had a high temperature and it was either operate or certain death. So we operated. I performed the anesthetic and encouraged the 'Doc' and the executive office along as they were doing the 'actual cutting and digging'."

Lieut. Hoskins, in the service since May 1941, is the son of a Tacoma newspaperman, Henry A. Hoskins.

David, who is just past 19 years of age, enlisted January 14, 1941 and is a radio mechanic in the Air Corps. In a recent letter by his parents he warned them to watch out for the magazine, as his group had "put on a show" and Life's photographer had taken a lot of pictures.
